SIPP, PAID TO FLEE, FORCED BEFORE JURY

Football Tactics Used to Get Reluctant Witness Away from Police Detectives.

PATROLMAN FOX INDICTED

After Testifying Sipp Hurries to His Home and Undergoes a Surgical Operation.

At the close of an exciting day that was marked by a lively fist fight between District Attorney Whitman's men and Central Office detectives, the extraordinary Grand Jury voted unanimously yesterday to indict Patrolman Eugene Fox on the charge of extortion made by George A. Sipp, former keeper of a disorderly resort in Harlem. The morning was filled with comedy, false alarms, and terrors.

Sipp was found in bed in the Hotel Navarre in Newark by Assistant District Attorney Groehl early in the morning and was requested to get ready for the journey to this city. Sipp protested that he was much too ill to travel. He wanted his appearance before the Grand Jury to go over for a day or two, but Mr. Groehl strenuously objected to any further delay.

Then followed a long argument in which it appeared that Sipp was suffering from a tumor that travel would greatly aggravate; that he was afraid to place himself within the jurisdiction of the New York police, and that he had received $1,000, less $300 commission retained by the kindly hand that carried the money to him, to pay his expenses to some place where Grand Juries could not reach him.

Mr. Groehl told Sipp that he could keep the $700, that District Attorney Whitman would protect him from the police, and that his tumor would trouble him no more in this city than in New Jersey. Sipp's son Howard joined in urging his father to keep faith with Mr. Whitman, and finally Sipp rose and clothed himself.

Detective Stewart of Mr. Whitman's office was kept informed of the events in Sipp's room, and he telephoned them over to Mr. Whitman, who returned messages to the effect that Sipp could be protected here better than anywhere else, and that the faith of the District Attorney was pledged to see that he came to no harm.

Stewart was kept running from Sipp's room to the telephone and back again, so that he had no time to notice the burly figures of several detectives lurking around the entrance to the hotel. But a processer server told him about them, and then alarming news was carried to Mr. Groehl, and it made him nervous and angry. He was in no mood to trifle longer with Sipp. As soon as the latter was ready Mr. Groehl hustled him out of the room and down the stairs and into a waiting automobile. Groehl jumped in, and Stewart and Howard Sipp followed, and then began a rapid journey to this city.

Hustled Away from Police Sleuths.

One of the detectives who had been lying in wait sprang to the telephone and notified a brother sleuth at the Criminal Court Building. Word was sent to Police Headquarters and three other detectives came down Centre Street as fast as they could. Each one of the four was armed with a subpoena citing Sipp to appear at Police Headquarters on Friday next to testify against Fox to the end that he might be relieved from suspension as a patrolman or that Commissioner Waldo might dismiss him from the force.

That was all the detectives had to do in the case. But this they were determined to do at all hazards. There are four entrances to the building—three on the ground floor and one on the floor above. A detective was placed at each one of these entrances with a whistle, and with instructions to blow it as hard as he could as soon as he saw Sipp.

Then began an anxious wait. Time dragged heavily until midday, when the detective on watch at the Lafayette Street entrance to the building saw a taxicab whirl up, the door fly open, and Mr. Groehl jump out. He blew furiously upon his whistle. The detectives at the side doors sped toward him, and the detective upstairs came running down so fast that his feet sounded on the stone steps like a rattle.

Waiting on the sidewalk was an army of newspaper photographers. They got fearfully in the way of Mr. Groehl, his two process servers, and Sipp and his son. The cameras clicked in chorus, and then Mr. Groehl dashed through, dragging the senior Sipp by the arm. On each side was a process server, and in the rear was young Sipp, acting as if the whole affair was a play. Newspaper men crowded around, and the crowd was increased by a score of idlers who rushed up and mixed in the mêlée.

Detective John F. Brennecke smashed through the mass of men and thrust a subpoena at the elder Sipp, who kept his hands in his pockets. Then Detectives Conway and Languine struggled through the crowd and sought to reach Sipp. Mr. Groehl pushed them back, but they still pressed forward. A process server threw himself in front of Sipp, whose hat was jammed over his eyes, while a rough elbow poked him hard in the nose. He disentangled himself from the detective by fighting valiantly. The other process server also threw himself in front of Sipp, and young Sipp pushed his father forward.

In this rough-and-tumble fashion the elevator was reached, and Mr. Groehl and his party sprang through the door. Just then Detective Talt shoved a subpoena under Sipp's arm, but it fell to the floor. The iron door of the elevator closed and the cage flew upward.

Reserves Arrive too Late.

The row caught the attention of a patrolman on the street and he telephoned for police help. Word was flashed to the Elizabeth Street station and Capt. Tierney and Lieut. Dominick Reilly came with the reserves. The only thing they found on the ground floor was a smashed derby, a torn necktie and a badly crumpled collar. The conflict had been transferred to the floors above. When the elevator reached the third floor Mr. Groehl led Sipp out and with his elbows akimbo started with him toward the office of Mr. Whitman. There was a knot of men in the hallway and some manifestations were made of a desire to snatch Sipp away. Who the men were did not develop, but there was another scramble before Sipp was lodged safely within the sacred precincts of Mr. Whitman's office.

Here Sipp was permitted to rest and recover his breath. In about twenty minutes he said he was ready to go before the Grand Jury. He was led through the long corridor to the Grand Jury room. The Central Office detectives were about, but no further attempt was made to serve him with a subpoena for the reason that it was said he had been legally and properly served. But this particular subpoena was afterward found on the floor of the elevator. "Benny," the elevator man, is keeping it as a souvenir.

PLOT TO STEAL A STATE.

Tale Told in London of a Scheme to Seize Part of Brazil.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 15.—According to The Daily Express, one of "the most amazing State plots in modern history" is now being engineered in London, and for some time has been receiving the attention of the Foreign Office and the Brazilian Legation. It is described as a plot to seize and colonize a vast and practically unknown territory, 150,000 square miles in extent, to the extreme north of Brazil, known as the Counani.

Plans are being laid by the leaders of the remarkable filibustering venture, according to the story, to induce a large number of British naval and military officers and non-commissioned officers and men to go out in a fleet armored ships, which will be provided later, to seize this piece of Brazilian territory, drive out such Brazilian troops as may be found there, and colonize the country as a Utopian republic.

The leader of the venture is said to be Adolphe Brezet, who for years has been living in a London suburb. This personage is alleged to have induced a large number of young men, mostly single, fairly well-to-do, and keen for adventure, to take commissions in his army and posts in his civil service. He has, as Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, an American who manages several small businesses from a tiny office in the city. Brezet among other incredible statements asserts he is able to arrange loans from German sources, according to one account, amounting to $50,000,000.

Brezet tried his plans before without result, and The Express, after relating some of his exploits, warns the men who are foolish enough to mix themselves up in the affair to have no more to do with the matter, inasmuch as, apart from other possible consequences of such a rash adventure, the Foreign Office intends to see that no such expedition is ever carried out.

KNOCKED ANNOYER DOWN.

"You Little Masher," Says She, but She Wouldn't Appear in Court.

Men and women shoppers on the ground floor of the Fourteenth Street Store heard a woman cry out shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and then saw her swing her handbag in the face of a man who stood in front of her, exclaiming as she struck him in the face:

"You beast, you! You little masher! It's a pity if a woman can't shop without being annoyed by such as you."

The little man pitched backward over a stool and fell to the floor. His velvet hat rolled off and he lost his glasses. He scrambled to his feet, puttered about till he had got his glasses and his hat, and then fled toward the door. The woman followed him, swinging her handbag, with which she had struck him several times as he sought his hat and glasses.

The man was nearly at the entrance, when several men set upon him. They closed around him, and one, brandishing his fist in his face, was shouting that he intended to beat him up when Policeman Abell rescued him.

At the Mercer Street Station the man said he was Joseph M. Voss of 15 West Sixty-fourth Street. He displayed a card engraved with the name "Joseph M. Voss & Co., Equitable Assurance Society, 810 Singer Building." In the corner was the name M. A. Blautman, but the man insisted he was Voss. He said he was 56 years old and was married. He denied that he had tried to flirt with Mrs. Thompson, declaring that she had looked at him as though willing to have him speak. He said he had been waiting for his wife, who was to have met him there.

Lieut. Finn told Mrs. Thompson that she must appear against Voss in Night Court. The woman flatly refused, saying that now she must return to her children.

Samuel Klynsens of 304 East Thirteenth Street, who had followed the party to the station, said that he had been a witness of the whole affair and would appear against Voss. On these terms Voss was locked up.

No witnesses appeared at the Night Court, and the prisoner was discharged.

EX-CONVICT HEADS BANK.

Ramsey, Pardoned by Taft, Now President of Pittsburgh Institution.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14.—W. W. Ramsey of Pittsburgh, has accomplished what perhaps no other banker in the world ever did. He was to-day elected president of the German National bank. It is a post he held once before. But on February 6, 1909, he was convicted of seeking to bribe certain Pittsburgh councilmen. Judge Frazer sentenced him to one year and six months in the Western Penitentiary. His appeal to the Superior Court was refused, and on March 12, 1910, he entered the big prison. President Taft pardoned him after he had served fourteen months. He left the prison on May 10, 1911, and through the influence of certain powerful financiers received a position of trust in the Third National bank. The same influential men made it possible to elect him to the presidency of the German National to-day.

It is said that there was bitter strife in the board of directors when Ramsey's elevation was first mentioned, but the opposition to him was not strong enough to prevent his election. The deposits of the Third National increased remarkably after Ramsey received his appointment there, and it is predicted among bankers here that the German National deposits will show a like pronounced increase.

At the banker's trial it was not charged that he profited by any of his relations with the grafting councilmen. He was simply one of th ebankers who acquiesced in the corrupt system the councilmen had for choosing city depositories.

YONKERS NOW FACES A GENERAL STRIKE

EXPECT THE CITY TO ACT

If It Doesn't Other Trades Unions May Join Them—Mayor to Meet Public Service Board To-day.

Yonkers is now facing the probability of a general strike in support of the demands of the striking car men. Bitterness against President Whitridge of the Yonkers Railroad Company has been increased by his treatment of ten of the strikers who called on him yesterday.

The men say they were gratuitously insulted. The conference was not of their seeking, but was arranged by the Yonkers Chamber of Commerce. They went to the conference prepared to express their willingness to return to work on the promise of President Whitridge to submit the matters in dispute to arbitration, but were met, they say, in a spirit which made a conference impossible.

The strike leaders say this experience has about caused them to abandon hope of ever coming to an amicable settlement with President Whitridge. They are looking to the city authorities for action in compliance with Gov. Sulzer's demand that the Yonkers Railroad be compelled to operate its cars, and, failing that, to promises of support and assistance which they have received from other trades unions in the city and county. If these promises are kept sympathetic strikes will follow, and business will be brought to a standstill in Yonkers.

Last night the strikers issued a statement, in which they again called President Whitridge a petty tyrant, and asserted that he was trying to "create a sentiment of dissatisfaction by personal whims and prejudices." They also called upon him to retract the statements in which he attacked their integrity and intelligence, and described them as cowards.

The police are preparing for the importation of strikebreakers. Beds have been placed in Police Headquarters, where patrolmen are kept on reserve. It was reported that if the ordinance requiring motormen and conductors to have fifteen days' experience in the city was found invalid, there was a possibility that Mr. Whitridge would sue the city for the loss the line had sustained in not being able to run its cars. Mr. Whitridge, however, denied that he ever contemplated such an action.

Corporation Counsel Curran left for Albany last night to confer with the Public Service Commission as to the carrying out of the order of Gov. Sulzer to compel the Yonkers Railroad to resume its service.

Whitridge Willing to Sell.

Mr. Whitridge said yesterday that he looked with favor upon the act adopted by the Yonkers Common Council to acquire by purchase or condemnation the trolley line in that city now tied up by strike. This statement followed the unsuccessful attempt on the part of a committee of ten strikers, headed by Charles Lang, President of the Yonkers branch of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, to confer with Mr. Whitridge at the executive offices of the Third Avenue Railway at 130th Street and Third Avenue.

"I think the proposition a splendid one and I don't believe there will be much trouble over terms," he said. "The purchase of the road by the city will suit me down to the ground, and more than that I will give a liberal discount for cash."

The whole situation, so far as running the cars in Yonkers is concerned, Mr. Whitridge said, depends now upon the repeal of the city ordinance forbidding the employment of motormen and conductors who have not had fifteen days' instruction upon the city lines to operate cars within the city limits.

"I have told the strikers that I will not bring strikebreakers into Yonkers until I am forced to do so, and I will adhere to that resolution," continued Mr. Whitridge. "If the city or the Public Service Commission attempt to force me to operate, then the whole matter will go to the courts and in the end the legality of the ordinance will be tested, and, I believe, it will be found invalid.

"Why does not the city repeal the ordinance? The city has appealed to the Public Service Commission and the Labor Department. It might take an action itself that would open the road for the running of the cars.

"When I can operate the cars I am going to do so. That can be depended upon. I fear there are germs of politics in the present situation. Will there be disorder if an attempt is made to operate? Well, the Mayor will have to preserve order and give needed protection. This much is sure, when I have to run the cars I shall do so, but until that action is forced upon me I will wait."

Strike Committee Won't Retract.

President Lang and the delegation of strikers called at the Third Avenue Railway building an hour before noon. Mr. Whitridge went at once to the meeting room and looked the delegation over, saying:

"I see among you one or two, or possibly three, men who came to see me on the first or second of January and who subsequently signed a statement which I have characterized publicly as a deliberate falsehood. I sent you word yesterday through Mr. Sutherland (the general manager of the Yonkers line) that that statement must be withdrawn or the signers would be asked to leave the company's employ. Mr. Foster of the Chamber of Commerce also informs me that former Mayor Warren notified those five men I would not receive them. May I ask you whether you are prepared to retract that statement or whether you have written a letter withdrawing it?"

"No, Sir, we do not intend to withdraw anything we have said," some of the men replied.

"Then," said Mr. Whitridge, "I will excuse you and anybody else who signed that statement and takes those views."

"That leaves us all out, Sir," said one of the men.

"What was that?" asked President Whitridge. "I didn't quite understand."

President Lang of the union answered for the men: "That leaves the whole committee out, Sir. If you cannot deal with me you cannot deal with any of the committee."

President Whitridge replied: "I cannot deal with people who write such a statement, and those five men will please retire. If the rest of you do not want to remain and use your brains, why, you may retire with them."

The committee promptly retired. The obectionable statement was made early in the trouble and in it Mr. Whitridge was referred to as a "petty tyrant."

After the meeting Mr. Whitridge urged the press to use its united efforts toward

GALE SAVES STEAMER WHEN HOPE IS GONE

Drives the Rudderless Snowden Range Into Queenstown Harbor After Human Help Fails.

ROCKS ARE BARELY MISSED

Vessel Towed 500 Miles Finishes Her Fifty-Day Voyage from Philadelphia in a Mud Bank.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—After being practically given up as lost the steamer Snowden Range came into Queenstown Harbor to-night in miraculous fashion and is now safely beached in the soft mud on the southern side of Spike Island. Rudderless and with no assistance she came through the harbor entrance in a gale that might well have daunted the commander of a vessel under full control. Sht thus ended a most remarkable voyage of fifty days from Philadelphia.

Underwriters at Lloyds, who had long ago put the steamer among the lost, cheered yesterday when a report came that the Snowden Range had been brought safely into port by the steamer Welshman, which had picked her up more than 500 miles off the Irish coast and had towed her in. There was gloom to-day when it was learned that the vessel was not in the harbor and was in greater danger than ever.

The Welshman had had difficulty in taking the Snowden Range into tow when she first found her, as a heavy storm was raging. She held onto her until the Irish coast was reached. There they ran into a dense fog last night and their progress was slow and hazardous.

The two vessels arrived off Old Head, Kinsale, this morning, and the Welshman surrendered her prize to a local tug to be towed in, a trawler hanging on astern to do the steering. All went well until a gale arose and made the vessel unmanageable. The Welshman put out again to assist, but the gale increased until it was almost a hurricane by night. It was then decided that it would be impossible to take the Snowden Range into Queenstown, and she anchored two miles northeast of Daunt's Rock in seventeen fathoms of water. The Welshman and the two tugs ran into the harbor for shelter.

It was soon found that the anchors would not hold the vessel against the terrific wind and waves and she was soon drifting close to the shore of Graball Bay. She showed lights and fired rockets as signals for assistance, and the Admiralty tug Stormcock, towing a lifeboat, went out to try to steady her or to take off the crew. It was found impossible to get a line aboard, and there seemed no hope.

A shift of wind saved the steamer. She drifted almost on the Graball Bay rocks, but shaved by and also cut past Harbor Rock, on which many vessels have been wrecked. She then brought up in the mud of Spike Island, from which it will be a simple matter to float her after her cargo is lightered.

FREIGHT STEAMER ASHORE.

Mallory Liner Colorado Strikes a Florida Key—The Eldorado Missing.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The Mallory Line steamship Colorado, a freighter, is ashore on Northeast Key, off the coast of Florida, according to a wireless message from Key West to the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department tonight. The message read:

"The Peoria from Tortugas reports Mallory liner Colorado ashore on Northeast Key in 12 feet of water forward of her main mast. Went aground 8 P. M. 13th. Wind and sea driving her up, but in no immediate danger. Have notified officers of Mallory Line and Capt. Gramble of revenue cutter Miami, who says he will start for Tortugas to-morrow morning."

The Morgan Line freighter Eldorado, bound from Baltimore for Galveston, and loaded with railroad iron, is four days overdte. She was last heard from off Cape Hatteras on Jan. 3. The steamship line to-day asked the Treasury Department to send out revenue cutters to search for her. The department ordered the Windom from Galveston and the Miami from Key West.

KEY WEST, Fla., Jan. 14.—Wreckers from Key West left to-day to render assistance to the Mallory Line steamer Colorado, ashore on East Key, Tortugas. The Colorado sailed from this port Monday for Galveston. The crew is said to be in no danger.

The Colorado is a coastwise freighter in the New York-Guf trade. She was built at Chester, Penn., more than thirty-three years ago, and displaces 2,765 tons.

BATTERED CRAFT PUTS BACK.

The Wayfarer Lost Her Funnel and Lifeboats in a Gale.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 14.—The British steamer Wayfarer, from Liverpool Jan. 5 for New Orleans, has returned to port. She will be docked for repairs.

The Wayfarer lost her funnel and all lifeboats and had her steering gear disabled in heavy gales while 700 miles from port. The Corsican and Megantic stood by the vessel while repairs were being made.

UNCOVERS A TRUST IN ALUMINUM TRADE

A. V. Davis Admits at Tariff Hearing That Manufacturers Are All in Agreement.

SAYS IT DOESN'T APPLY HERE

Because of the Sherman Law—Metal Schedule Under Investigation All Day.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The existence of an international agreement covering the aluminum industry was revealed at to-night's session of the House Committee on Ways and Means. President Arthur V. Davis of the Aluminum Company of America, admitted that his company, the only aluminum manufactory in the United States, owned the Canadian Aluminum Company, which, in turn, had perfect agreements with all of the six or seven foreign aluminum companies. This agreement, he said, covered all the world except the United States, which he told Representative Rainey of Illinois was excepted because there was a law here prohibiting it.

The metal schedule of the tariff law was under fire all day. Several steel manufacturing interests contended for retention of the present duties. S. P. Ker of Sharon, Penn., President of the Sharon Steel Hoop Company, advocated changes in the phrasing of the law to avoid letting importers take advantage of its terms. Mr. Ker told of plans under way by the United States Steel Corporation to advance the wages of its laborers, artisans, and mechanics on Feb. 1 by approximately 10 per cent. Representative Fordney of Michigan estimated that this would mean an increase of $17,500,000.

Mr. Ker expressed optimism concerning the steel industry, regardless of what action the Democratic Administration might take. He said the industry practically was limitless, and he urged protection against invasion. He added that if the industry were disturbed the capital would remain and the companies would reduce labor to the point of meeting competition.

R. E. Jennings, representing the Carpenter Steel Company of Pennsylvania, supporting the present tariff law, testified the labor cost of production in the crucible steel industry was about 40 to 50 per cent., which, he said in response to Chairman Underwood, was much greater than in the Bessemer or open hearth steel business. E. P. Reichelm of New York wanted the tariff retained on the products of the file and tool industry. Mr. Ker advocated a dumping clause to prevent the sending of goods into this country at prices lower than in the country of production.

Chairman Underwood asked the reasons for the Steel Corporation's proposed increase of wages. Mr. Ker said he thought the corporation was "taking time by the forelock to hold its labor."

W. H. Donner of Pittsburgh, President of the Cambria Steel Company, urged specific and not ad valorem duties on iron and steel products. He contended the duty on ferromanganese, used largely in steel manufacture, should be no higher than that on pig iron, and that to increase the duty would be unfair to all the smaller companies competing with the United States Steel Corporation. He said that in periods of depression that were "bound to come" foreign manufacturers would dump large tonages on our Atlantic and Gulf cities at cost to help pay fixed charges, "an invasion meaning a loss to American capital, idleness for thousands of workmen, and curtailment of further expansion of the American steel industry."

Says Pump Stock is Water.

Walter Laidlaw of New York, who said he spoke for a dozen manufacturers of pumping machinery, but afterward admitted he represented the so-called "pump trust," testified in the night session that the International Pumping Company owned all the manufactories he mentioned. He said the company made net earnings of $1,250,000 on its investment of $25,000,000. He could not recall the amount of its capital stock when pressed by Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, though he said he was a member of the Executive Committee. Representative Palmer refreshed the witness on the history of the inner workings of the pump company, and asserted that the actual capital invested was represented by the preferred stock, whereas the common stock was "all water."

"Oh, well, that was many years ago," the witness admitted.

Mr. Laidlaw said the International, since its organization in 1899, had paid 6 per cent. dividends. He explained the combination was formed to keep down competition and reduce the cost so there should not be "nine wolves after every job." He added he believed the independents should "be put in jail" for making a lower price than that on which they could make money.

The Waltham Watch Company, alleged to be in "the watch trust," was investigated. E. C. Fitch of Waltham, Mass., testifying the company could manufacture watch dials more cheaply than it could buy them abroad, said the concern originally was capitalized at $5,000,000. It reorganized with a capitalization of $12,000,000, tangible assets of $9,022,000, and patents and good will worth $2,975,000. The witness told of the former existence of a selling agency that handled the watch company products. He said he was one of three partners in the agency, each of whom received $60,000 a year salary.

"Don't you compel wholesalers to sell at a certain price to retailers?" asked Representative Rainey.

"Try to, but don't always succeed. In hard times they almost uniformly fail to keep that price," said Mr. Fitch, who added he had been "pretty strenuous" in trying to prevent watches that had been sent abroad, where they were to be sold at low prices, being sent back to this country to compete with domestic prices.

Mr. Fitch testified his company discriminated against only one man—C. A. Keene of New York, whose transactions, he said, were contrary to the policy of the Waltham Company.

Keene's Foreign Purchases.

"Keene," he added, "went to the Waltham's London agency, and said he wished to sell the watches in Egypt. They were sold to him with that distinct understanding, and were delivered aboard a ship about to sail for Egypt. But before the vessel sailed Mr. Keene went aboard, and removed the watches and shipped them to the United States."

"That was an awful crime!" commented Mr. Rainey. "You were willing that the Egyptians camped on the sands of the desert should get your watches at reasonable prices while you compelled the American consumer to pay perhaps double price."

Mr. Keene urged the committee to fix a tariff of 30 per cent. ad valorem on watch movements of all grades, and with regard to watches brought back from abroad 20 per cent., to apply on the improvements only. He said he found several years ago it was profitable to go abroad to buy American watches to be sold here.

CONSUL ASKS FOR WARSHIP.

Fears for Americans at Acapulco, Which Rebels Threaten.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14.—Alarmed by the approach of rebel forces and apprehensive of the fate of Americans in the event of occupation, Clement S. Edwards, the American Consul at Acapulco, State of Guerrero, has suggested the presence of an American warship there.

In a report to Ambassador Wilson, Consul Edwards says that Acapulco is threatened by Julio Radillo with 500 men, the Government troops are insufficient and the military commander admits his inability to reinforce the garrison. He estimates that 200 refugees are on their way to Acapulco. They report depredations and atrocities in the coast region to the north.

MISS GOULD'S Y. M. C. A. GIFTS

Miniature Reproductions of Association Building and Father's Car.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 14.—Two unusual presents will be sent from St. Louis to Miss Helen Gould on the day of her marriage to Finley J. Shepard of St. Louis.

The larger and more expensive will be a gold and bronze clock, an exact duplicate of the architecture of the local railroad Young Men's Christian Association Building, the gift of the members of the association.

The other, a gold and bronze jewel case, a miniature reproduction of her father's private car, the Atlantic, will be the gift of thirty other railroad Young Men's Christian Association branches scattered over the Gould lines in the Southwest.

The designs originated within the association. The money for the gifts is being raised by voluntary contributions and limited to sums ranging from 25 cents to $1. Many old employes of the lines have begged to be allowed to give larger amounts, but the requests have been refused.

ROBBED HETTY GREEN'S CAR.

Chauffeur Gives Chase and Recovers Auto Robe Worth $75.

George Durhon, chauffeur for Mrs. Hetty Green, chased and caught Thomas Reilly, an old carpenter living at 434 East Fourteenth Street, after a run of a block from Broadway and Thames Street yesterday. Durhon had left his car there while he stood in a doorway for shelter from the wind, and he says he saw Reilly seize a robe worth $75 from the car. Durhon easily overpowered Reilly, and turned him over to a policeman.

Reilly was locked up in the Greenwich Street Station on Durhon's complaint. The chauffeur said he had seen Reilly frequently hanging around the car.

WARNING TO COAL BUYERS.

Extra Bags Carried to Make Up Load If Stopped by Inspector.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—A note of warning to coal buyers was sounded to-day by Supt. Reichmann, of the Department of Weights and Measures, who said it was the practice of unscrupulous dealers to add one or more bags of coal to a bulk load, thus making the weight required by law.

"This practice," said Supt. Reichmann, "is exceedingly bad, as these dealers carry the extra bags to deliver in case their load is stopped by an inspector, otherwise they go back to the dealer. The consumer pays for it, but does not receive it."

DEMAND NEW PAY INCREASE.

Pennsylvania Conductors and Trainmen Want Sliding Scale.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—With the engineers' wage dispute arbitrated and with the question of increased wages for firemen in the hands of arbitrators the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is facing a demand on the part of its conductors and trainmen for readjustment of wages. Those employes have asked for the establishment of a sliding scale, a minimum rate of pay based on distance traveled, a schedule for overtime, and changes in road regulations and yard service.

S. C. Long, general manager, will give the men an answer on Jan. 27. The conductors and trainmen received a ten per cent. increase two years ago.

TWO HOLD-UPS IN 3D AVENUE

Within an Hour of Each Other and In Both Arrests Are Made.

Two hold-ups occurred in Third Avenue, nine blocks apart, within an hour last night. Both were under stations of the elevated road.

Eugene McCarthy of 212 Riverdale Avenue, Yonkers, was about to ascend the stairs at Fourteenth Street when his watch and chain were snatched from his vest. The thief ran east in Fourteenth Street, pursued by McCarthy, whose cries were heard by Policeman Schwab. After a chase of seven blocks, Schwab caught a man who said he was Simon McGarry of 1,119 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn. He was identified by McCarthy. The thief threw away the watch and chain during the chase. They were recovered.

James Henerty of 862 Third Avenue was crossing Third Avenue at Twenty-third Street about an hour later, when he was seized by three men. Two choked him while the other rifled his pockets, taking $27. Patrolman Raymond heard his cries for help, and caught a man who said he was Edward Donnelly. Half an hour later detectives arrested Michael Smith. Henerty identified both men, and they were locked up on a charge of robbery.

ADVICE TO MILLIONAIRES.

Give to Prohibition Rather Than to Libraries, Says Mr. Hinshaw.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 14.—At a conference of leaders of the Prohibition Party to-day Virgil G. Hinshaw of Chicago, National Chairman, presented a plea for a more efficient organization. In only sixteen States, he said, was the party organized.

In asking for more money to carry on the work of the party the Chairman suggested that it would be better for millionaire philanthropists to give money to the Prohibition Party to stamp out the liquor traffic than to give it to the Young Men's Christian Association and libraries. He regretted the fact that the party had never been endowed. To increase the vote cast for prohibition in coming elections Mr. Hinshaw urged the adoption of some plan by which Electors could be pledged.

A plan to begin at once to secure pledges for a $1,000,000 campaign fund for use in 1916 was presented by Eugene W. Chafin of Tucson, Arizona, the Prohibition candidate for President at the last election. The plan was at once adopted. The National Committee of the party will meet here on Thursday to decide whether or not the publication of the party's newspaper, The Advance, at Chicago shall be discontinued.

MURPHY CALLS OFF COMMISSION MERGER

Public Service Boards Cannot Be Consolidated at Present, He Decides, Without Danger.

PEOPLE OBJECT STRONGLY

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—Since Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, has been in the capital the Democratic organization, which dominates the Legislature, has made an abrupt change of front with regard to the plan to consolidate the two Public Service Commissions. It was learned to-night on high authority that Mr. Murphy told the legislative leaders it might be just as well to let that proposition alone until after the Mayoralty election in New York and the Assembly election next Fall. That means the project cannot come up again until the Legislature meets next year.

The change of front came after several Democratic Assemblymen who had been home for the week-end returned to the Capitol. They told Speaker Smith of the Assembly they had found a decided sentiment in their districts against the proposed consolidation, which automatically would extend the sway of Tammany to up-State Public Service regulation. Similar reports were carried to Senate Leader Wagner by returning members of the upper house.

Mr. Murphy soon learned that the publication in THE NEW YORK TIMES and an up-State newspaper had carried public sentiment to such a point as to make the move at the present time impracticable, not to say dangerous. Gov. Sulzer, who in his campaign again and again advocated a consolidation of the bodies, still believes that would be in the interest of economy. But the Governor, on the other hand, is said to have been impressed with the sentiment expressed by persons in New York who have written to say that to consolidate the commissions before New York has solved the constructive parts of its transit problem would be fatal.

It is possible the present law will be modified to the extent of creating a commuters' zone about New York City and giving to the commission for the First District supervision over rates and schedules in that zone.

Gov. Sulzer said to-night he had not decided on a successor to President Willcox of the Public Service Commission for the First District.

Mr. Murphy remains in the capital with his family. He did not see Gov. Sulzer to-day. The Governor and Mr. Murphy said to-night there would be no further meeting. Mr. Murphy expects to return to New York to-morrow.

The Tammany chieftain has discussed legislative patronage with several of the leaders. The fact that Mr. Murphy bothers with jobs carrying only small daily pay is taken to indicate there is a scarcity of other patronage.

Trouble in the office of the Secretary of State has required attention on the part of the Tammany leader. Borough President Connolly of Queens has sent word that he desires the place as Deputy Secretary of State taken from Luke Keenan, a Cassidy man, and given to a member of the Connolly organization. A vigorous protest has gone forth from the Cassidy camp.

FAINTS IN DEATH HOUSE.

Slayer Goes Calmly to Chair, but His Priest Collapses.

TRENTON, N. J.—Jan. 14.—Rev. Father Topolinski, a priest from St. Stanislaus Church, collapsed when Electrician Davis turned on the first contact as Joseph Kwiatowski sat in the death chair at the State Prison to-night.

Father Topolinski and the condemned man had become fast friends while the priest was visiting him in the death cell and as the man was led to his death the young priest walked beside him. As the guards stepped back and Davis turned on the current, the prayer book dropped from the hands of Father Topolinski and he fell in a dead faint at the foot of the electric chair, narrowly missing coming in contact with the electric wires. Kwiatowski went to his death coolly.

Kwiatowski was executed for murdering his wife. On the night of April 3, 1911, a neighbor told him that a boarder in his home had kissed her and he killed her with an axe.

WILSON STENOGRAPHER QUITS

She Wouldn't Go Back for Tumulty, but May Relent for Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 14.—President-elect Wilson's "speediest stenographer" has quit, saying that she will not be "bossed" by Charles Swen, the chief stenographer on Mr. Wilson's staff. She tore up some notes which she had taken a short while before from Secretary Tumulty, and left the State House. Mr. Tumulty sent a messenger after her, but she would not come back.

Miss Salome Tarr was the indignant young woman, She said she had been taking dictation from Mr. Tumulty, and when she went to her office to transcribe her notes Swen had presumed to tell her what to do.

The President-elect, it is said, will have a talk with her and probably she will relent.

Nine Filipino Outlaws Killed.

MANILA, Jan. 15.—Lieut. Fletcher reports that only nine outlaws were killed in the fight which occurred Monday in South Lanao between a detachment of scouts and a large force of bandits. The military and constabulary are co-operating in pursuit of the scattered band.

SULZER HALTS FIRE INSURANCE INQUIRY

Commissioner Ellison Abruptly Ends Investigation and Takes Train for Albany.

STATE AUTHORITIES OBJECT

Insurance Department Covering the Same Ground—Federal Control of Companies Urged.

Commissioner William B. Ellison abruptly closed his investigation of the "arson trust" and the evils of the fire insurance situation at the conclusion of its second session yesterday afternoon in his law office, 165 Broadway. From his office, after dismissing the lawyers who had come from the insurance companies to fight for the preservation of the present form of standard fire insurance policy and those who were present to urge the importance of changes in policy form, Mr. Ellison hurried to the Grand Central Station. He said he had received a call from Albany for a conference with the Governor.

While nothing was said right out in meeting about it, it was clear from Mr. Ellison's manner during the final session that he had learned something from Albany of material consequence to him. He dropped intimations about "haste" in the matter of his appointment and a decision at Albany to "get the data from other sources." Mr. Ellison was named as Commissioner to conduct an investigation into fire insurance matters on Jan. 3.

"Do you think the State Insurance Department complained to Gov. Sulzer about your appointment on the ground that it was a slight to its dignity and an invasion of its territory?" Commissioner Ellison was asked.

"Oh, no; the Insurance Department," he answered, "has some recommendations all drawn up that cover the same ground I was to go over. That is all there is to it.

"I cannot attempt to forecast what may be in the mind of the Governor, but he may decide to send a special message to the Legislature recommending that the whole matter be referred to a special commission to be appointed by the Legislature, representing all interests, such as the merchants, underwriters, real estate owners, and lessees of buildings."

Ellison Issued Statement.

Mr. Ellison also issued a formal statement in which he said:

> There is nothing of so much importance to the ordinary individual, unless it be the matter of health, as the matter of fire insurance. So large a proportion of men carry in large amounts or in small amounts the protection against the elements, that it becomes of monumental importance that the best form of policy that can be put into shape should be had; and in putting the policy in form it should not be forgotten that the primary object should be to conserve the interest of the company in a fair way so that their protection will be substantial. We cannot make war on the companies, or we cannot treat them in such a way as to imperial the security of the insurance we want.
> Any contract that we agree upon, finally, of course, must take into consideration the interest of the companies that are going to furnish the security. Consistent with that the terms of the contract should be so fair and so clear as to be readily understandable and so far as possible should correct the common custom under which a man gets his policy of insurance and thrusts it into his desk or his safe and never becomes familiar with what it contains.
> In going to Albany to have a conference with the Governor I was impressed with the view that some very representative commission might be named to take the subject under advisement. Of course, should the Governor and the Legislature be anxious for more prompt and expeditious relief, it is not for me to stand in the way and I do not foreclose myself in regard to that phase of the matter. It is not my intention to have any further hearings unless I am directed to the contrary by the Governor on this phase of the question.
> I am informed that many of the clauses which were under discussion at the time I talked with the Governor on the subject are now actually under consideration by the Superintendent of Insurance of the State. Naturally, with his facilities time will be saved by their being taken up and considered there.

At the second hearing yesterday some rather heated controversies were indulged in between purchasers of insurance who had been compelled to bring suit to collect insurance after fire losses and representatives of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Albert Baker, who lives at 100 St. Nicholas Avenue, and owns property in New Jersey and Long Island, fairly bristled with indignation as he described how he had been victimized by the insurance adjusters.

"They work their fraudulent game in controlling the 'impartial' and 'disinterested' men who act as appraisers," said he, "when it comes to ascertaining how much your fire loss had been after you and the company have failed to agree.

"I had a case up before an insurance adjuster when it was proposed that we submit the case to some disinterested appraisers. I noticed that he skilfully avoided the names that I suggested. The adjuster read from a list of fifteen names as substitutes for mine. Well, I looked up one of these impartial appraisers. I found he had served as an impartial appraiser some sixty times at the suggestion of this same insurance adjuster.

"I asked him how many of his staff of appraisers worked for him right along. He admitted that he had recommended some of the men on his list before. I asked him to put his initials after each name of his list that he had recommended before. Then he became strangely reticent. He ignored and refused to answer all further questions along that line."

Offers Substitute Clause.

Mr. Baker submitted a substitute clause for the present one in the standard form of fire insurance policy that would give authority to name appraisers of fire loss in the event of a failure of the insured and the company to come to an agreement to the Supreme Court of the judicial district in which the loss occurred, or with a County Judge or Surrogate, the cost of the appraisal to be assessed against the party whose "amount offered in settlement came furthest away from the award as determined by said appraisers."

Mr. Robb, for the Board of Fire Underwriters, pointed out that the present form of policy had been a slow growth. He said that any changes should be made only after thorough study and the hearing of testimony on every phase of the complicated interests involved. He said that insurance companies were handling their business more cheaply than formerly because of the tendency of States to adopt a uniform policy. The defects in the present standard form, Mr. Robb insisted, had been largely cleared away by judicial decisions.

Moses Tanenbaum, an insurance broker, advocated putting insurance companies under the Inter-State Commerce Commission. He proposed that a Federal commission take up the task of making a standard policy for the whole country, and thus doing away with State jurisdictions.

ELLISON SEES SULZER.

Urges Need of Simple Form of Fire Insurance Policy.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Commissioner Ellison arrived in Albany to-night after suddenly ending his fire insurance investigation. He had intended to go into other details of the fire insurance business, but it was found that they were being covered by the State Insurance Department, and Mr. Ellison decided to confine his investigations to the policy question.

Mr. Ellison, in a conference with the Governor, urged the necessity for a simple and easily understood policy, and the Executive expressed his approval of Mr. Ellison's plan. A bill to meet the ideas of the Commissioner will be introduced at this session of the Legislature. It was said to-day that Mr. Ellison's investigation had not encroached upon the jurisdiction of Supt. William Temple Emmet of the Insurance Department, and that there had been no friction between the two officials.

$2,500,000 FOR ROAD REPAIR.

Sulzer Commission Seeks to Show That This Is Out of Proportion.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—A public inquiry into the affairs of the State Highway Department was begun to-day by Gov. Sulzer's investigators. For several days accountants engaged by the graft hunters have been going over the books of the Highway Commission, and the investigating Commissioners have been listening to reports from persons who have charged that the highway funds of the State have been wasted.

Paul McLoud of Albany, chief engineer of the Highway Department, was the principal witness to-day. He has been connected with the State's road building system since its beginning.

Figures compiled by the State Controller from work performed by the Bureau of Maintenance and Repair in twenty-three contracts were submitted to Mr. McLoud, with the request that to-morrow he be prepared to give the estimated cost of those contracts, based on the units used in bidding in the open on new construction. The purpose of that request was to lay a foundation for the assertion that the State paid much more in proportion for repairs to improved highways than it did for original construction. The State expends almost $2,500,000 on repair work in the year, and in certain instances the bidding is private.

When the investigators invited persons who had grievances to testify, William Mayston of Guilderland said he had a position as laborer on the Albany-Guilderland road. He asserted he was dismissed at the order of P. E. McCabe, Democratic leader of Albany County. Mayston alleged the new road had been washed out, and that in repairing the highway large openings were left, and that when the frost should leave the road in the Spring the highway would collapse.

It is the plan of Gov. Sulzer to urge an amendment of the law that shall provide for a single-headed commission to take charge of the good roads work. Before he makes his recommendation to the Legislature he desires a report from his investigating commission. That board is ready to report in favor of public letting of all highway contracts, including repair work, where the amount involved is more than $1,000.

TO PREVENT POVERTY

Board of Charities Urges Industrial Insurance and Vocational Schools.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—With a view to minimizing poverty and disease, the State Board of Charities has submitted to Gov. Sulzer recommendations for the enactment of important legislation for the better care of the State's wards.

The subjects suggested for the consideration of the Legislature include:

Industrial insurance along the lines of that in effect in Germany and other countries.

Better housing, including the destruction of unduly congested areas in cities and the prevention of their re-establishment elsewhere in such cities or in the State.

More practical education for the young, particularly along vocational lines in the public schools and the institutions for children.

Improved labor laws, including restriction of the hours of labor and compensation for accidents to employes.

Adequate relief in their homes to widows of good character with young children dependent upon them, in order to prevent the breaking up of the family and the placing of children in institutions, whether for dependent children because of the mother's poverty, or for delinquent children, because she has been unable to keep them under her protection and oversight.

The recommendation is made that the question of issuing long-term bonds to provide funds necessary for enlarging the facilities of the State institutions be submitted to the people.

The board recommends that State custodial asylums for the delinquent feeble-minded, one for each sex, be established to have the general care of such class and to provide for their removal from institutions of a reformatory character; also that observation wards be established in the Cities of New York and Buffalo, and possibly elsewhere, where children and others of doubtful mentality accused of crime can be examined prior to commitment.

SCOTT STANDS BY BENHAM.

Still Refuses to Appoint Rattigan, Who Called on Governor Yesterday.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—Gov. Sulzer and Superintendent J. H. Scott of the State Prison Department have not settled their differences, and the outcome to-night is uncertain. The Superintendent did not see the Governor to-day, although some of his friends had short interviews with Mr. Sulzer. It was stated that Col. Scott had not changed his determination not to appoint Charles F. Rattigan as warden of Auburn Prison in place of George W. Benham—a change which, it is said, the Governor requested.

Mr. Rattigan and his sponsor, Thomas Mott Osborne, the anti-Tammany leader, were in the city to-day. They have not given up efforts to secure the wardenship, which they say should be in Democratic hands.

Superintendent Scott to-day wrote to the Governor's investigating committee requesting an investigation of the charges made against Frederick Hamlin Mills, sales agent of the prison department. John D. McMahon, special commissioner appointed by Gov. Dix, reported last September that Mr. Mills was not efficient or loyal to the interests of the State. Col. Scott said that on Oct. 24 he asked Gov. Dix for the McMahon report and that he received it on Nov. 14. He says that he took up the matter with Mr. Mills at once and that on Dec. 13 he sent a copy of the report to Mr. Mills, with a request for a reply. Mr. Mills's reply, the Superintendent says, was dated Dec. 31 and was received on Jan. 2 of this year.

FEWER NOVEMBER DEATHS.

Decrease in Cases of Consumption, Pneumonia and Typhoid.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—The deaths in this State last November were fewer than usual, the total being 10,352, according to an announcement made to-day by the State Department of Health. Of that number 804 were due to violence.

There was a falling off in the number of cases of tuberculosis, pneumonia, and typhoid fever. Diphtheria, scarlet fever, and measles showed slight increases.

WANTS QUARANTINE SERVICE IMPROVED

Health Officer Asks That Stations at Hoffman and Swinburne Islands Be Rehabilitated.

ASKS FOR $1,877,780 MORE

Dr. O'Connell in Annual Report Shows Necessity for Further Safeguarding the Port of New York.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—Dr. Joseph J. O'Connell, who succeeded Dr. Alvah H. Doty as Health Officer of the Port of New York, in his annual report to the Legislature to-day asks that provision be made for a virtual renewal of the plants both at Quarantine and on Hoffman and Swinburne Islands, where the detention and isolation hospitals of the Quarantine Station are located.

Dr. O'Connell also asks for an addition to the working force at Quarantine which would require an increase in the payroll of more than $40,000 annually. The total increases asked for by the Health Officer would reach $1,877,780.

Dr. O'Connell in his report deals at some length with the proposition of placing the Quarantine Station at the Port of New York under Federal control. The proposition came before the Legislature at the time of Dr. Doty's retirement, and will be presented again this year. Dr. Doty declared that the plan is fraught with danger to the commerce of New York City and consequently to the State.

"New York State," said Dr. O'Connell in his report, "is vitally interested in the primacy of the City of New York as a port. The prosperity of the whole State would be radically affected by any serious damage done to the commerce of its principal city.

"That commerce is a complicated system of delicate adjustment, and it is the duty of the State to exercise over it such supervision and control as may be necessary to the safeguarding of the public health, but to so fulfill this sanitary function as not to rudely interrupt the commercial machine in its hands.

"It cannot wisely delegate its powers to any other agency because the magnitude and the nature of the quarantine work in New York so condition the problem that its solution requires that the supervisory and executive powers in all their amplitude shall be united in one person, and that this person shall be in a position to guide his judgment by a first-hand knowledge of the situation with which he has to deal."

In most other ports the quarantine regulations are in the hands of the Federal authorities, and many students of the question maintain that this is as it should be. Dr. O'Connell gives statistics to show how immeasurably more important is the port of New York than any other port of the country.

These statistics show that more than 58¼ per cent. of the imports, 37¼ per cent. of the exports, and 71½ per cent. of all the immigrants to this country pass through the Port of New York.

In asking for a renewal of the plant at Quarantine, Dr. O'Connell points out that the present plant is antiquated and outgrown and also directs attention to the fact that, with the opening of the Panama Canal, the commerce of the port not only will be materially increased but will bring New York in much closer contact with ports in the Orient and in South America which periodically are plague spots and reservoirs of communicable disease.

The improvements projected at Quarantine itself provide for the erection of a new administration building to cost $75,000, containing general offices, quarters for the Health Officer and his two deputies, a wireless station, and quarters for the two telegraph companies.

The other improvements include:

Residence building, $26,000; home for Superintendent, $5,000; carpenter and machine shop, $30,000; garage and stable, $6,000; power and heating plant, $105,000; additional land, $35,000; new dock, $50,000; coal pockets, $10,000; sewers and water mains, $18,000; asphalt paving of roads, $8,000; fence, $10,000; fumigating boat, $75,000; two new boarding boats, $85,000; total, $538,000.

At Hoffman Island Dr. O'Connell desires these improvements made: Administration and hospital building, $125,000; detention building for cabin passengers, $90,000; steerage detention building, $140,000; steerage dining room and kitchen, $30,000; storehouse, $35,000; laundry, $30,000; power plant, $110,000; new inclosure, $10,000; new docks, $42,000; development of grounds, $30,000; total, $642,000.

Dr. O'Connell wants the area of Swinburne Island increased by 45,389 square yards, at a cost of $200,000. Other improvements he has in view there are listed in his report as follows:

Administration building, $90,000; power plant, $125,000; storehouse, $30,000; laundry, $25,000; isolation building, $100,000; morgue, $30,000; sterilizing plant, $15,000; docks, $42,000. Total, $657,000.

The list of new employes includes one chief medical officer at a salary of $5,000; a chief engineer at a salary of $4,000, four passenger inspectors at $1,000, a first assistant bacteriologist at $2,500, a second assistant bacteriologist at $1,500, a Captain at $1,560, a marine engineer at $1,440, laborers, cleaners, deckhands, and janitors, bringing up the total of increases in the payroll to $40,780.

Dr. O'Connell tells in his report how, at the time of the cholera scare, he employed nine physicians whom he had trained especially in the technique in that epidemic, and describes at length the methods employed at Quarantine to guard against the bubonic plague being brought in by any of the vessels plying between New York and plague-infested ports.

The report states that, during the year ended Sept. 30, 4,175 steamships and 710 sailing ships have been boarded by his department. These vessels carried crews aggregating 473,485, first class passengers, numbering 162,801; second class passengers numbering 194,506, and steerage passengers numbering 677,660.

In all 6,304 persons were removed from these vessels for observation or detention. On Swinburne Island out of 192 cases treated there there were fourteen deaths. On Hoffman Island 218 persons were detained with only seven deaths.

OPPOSE COMPENSATION BILL.

Labor Men Do Not Like Measure Favored by State Administration.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—The present Democratic State administration is pledged to enact a workmen's compensation law along lines that will render it valid under recent decisions of the Court of Appeals. Gov. Sulzer presided at a conference which was held in the Executive Chamber this afternoon for the purpose of considering this and other legislation to be enacted in the interest of labor. At this conference it developed that the State Federation of Labor was opposed to the measure advocated by the Governor and the legislative leaders.

The Administration's bill was drafted along lines suggested by H. B. Bradbury, a lawyer, who recently wrote a book on the subject of workmen's compensation. After Mr. Bradbury had outlined the provisions of his bill, Dan Harris, President of the State Federation of Labor, said that it was not generous enough in the matter of compensation to suit the labor organizations. He also said that the compensation fund should not only be under the administration of the State, but also practically under State guarantee.

The bill suggested by Mr. Bradbury combines features of the compensation acts now in force in New Jersey, Massachusetts, and Michigan. It is optional, in accordance with the decision of the Court of Appeals declaring the earlier law unconstitutional. It provides for compensation for injury or death on a sliding scale, taking heed of the extent of the injury and the nature of the employment. In case of death, the bill provides for a maximum payment of $3,000 to the family of the person killed.

In the case of injuries completely disabling an employe from earning his livelihood, the bill provides for the payment of 50 per cent. of the wages for 300 weeks, with a stipulation that no such indemnity shall exceed $10 a week and shall not be less than $5 a week. After the 300 weeks' period has expired indemnity of 40 per cent. of the wages, with a maximum of $8 and a minimum of $4 a week is provided for the rest of the injured man's life.

John T. McDonough, former Secretary of State, presented a bill drawn to meet the views of the Federation of Labor. This bill provides for a $5,000 payment in case of death and for indemnity in the case of total disability on the basis of 65 per cent. of the wages, with a maximum payment of $15 a week for the lifetime of the injured worker.

Abram I. Elkus told the labor leaders who attended the conference about the various bills which had been drafted by the State Factory Investigation Commission. They include bills to reorganize the State Labor Department, forbidding child labor and the employment of women in factories at night and limiting industrial employment in tenements.

Gov. Sulzer, who presided, in opening the conference said that he was in hearty sympathy with the toilers who had created the wealth of the State.

"Nothing would gratify me more," said the Governor, "than if it could be said at the end of this session that there had been legislation along constructive and progressive lines in the interest of humanity.

"I wish to give you one piece of advice: Do not seek to accomplish too much. If you do, you are likely to get nothing. The best is to hit the high spots and let it go at that. Don't scatter your ammunition but concentrate on two or three bills that you consider essential."

Sipp was not kept waiting when he reached the Grand Jury room on the fourth floor, but was immediately ushered in. It was a strange place to him, but he said unctuously as he entered that he was glad to be home again.

Then the door of the jury room closed and Sipp began answering the questions asked him by Mr. Whitman and the Grand Jurors. He went over again the ground traversed by him before the Curran Committee, and added the other details outlined in THE TIMES yesterday morning. Then Howard Sipp was summoned and he corroborated his father's testimony in several important particulars.

When the taking of this testimony was over the two Sipps went away and the Grand Jury voted unanimously in favor of indicting Fox. The form of an indictment was not ready, and so the true bill will not be returned until this morning. As soon as it is in legal shape Fox will be arrested and arraigned in court and bail will be fixed.

Sipp Operated On at His Home.

This proceeding takes Fox out of the hands of the police and places him entirely within the control of the District Attorney, so that no matter whether he was served with a Headquarters subpoena or not is of no consequence. The police cannot touch him nor proceed against him in any way that might invade his rights as one awaiting judgment in the courts.

Mr. Whitman refused last night to discuss the matter in any way until after the indictment had been returned and Fox was in custody. Neither would Mr. Whitman say what he intended to do in the matter of investigating the action of the police in seeking to force the return of Sipp to this city as a prisoner. As soon as Sipp came out of the jury room he was again surrounded by Central Office detectives. This action greatly irritated Mr. Whitman. He was inclined to look upon it as an attempt to intimidate Sipp and frighten him so that he would again leave the city.

The crowd that had been attracted in the street by the row that greeted the appearance of Sipp at the building had grown, and when he came out again it was necessary for his guards to force a way for him. A reporter had hired a taxi, intending to trail the Sipps. It was near the curb. Sipp's guards compelled the reporter to vacate, pushed Sipp and his son into the machine, and ordered the driver to get out. The taxi glided away and disappeared. Sipp said that he had no intention of runnig away, but would go to his home at 56 West 130th Street, and make himself as comfortable as possible.

Louis J. Grant, counsel for Fox, said yesterday that, so far as he knew, Fox had nothing to fear and nothing to tell that had not already been told by him and his counsel. He plainly intimated that the prosecution of Fox would amount to nothing. Those familiar with the case made out against Fox by Mr. Whitman were certain that enough evidence had been gathered by Mr. Whitman to make the prosecution of Fox likely to result in his conviction. His indictment by the Extraordinary Grand Jury means that he will be tried before Justice Goff. His trial will probably be set for an early day. Sipp's testimony before the Grand Jury evidently was convincing, for there was only a very short deliberation, and the vote to indict was unanimous.

In his testimony before the Curran Committee Sipp mentioned the names of several Inspectors and one Police Captain besides the name of Fox, whom he accused only of collecting the money he paid for police protection. When he was not permitted to run his new hotel on the east side he wrote a letter to Inspector Sweeney, whose attention he called to a number of hotels similar to the one he wished to run. One of the hotels, it was learned yesterday, was owned by a retired policeman, who was said to own a fine estate on Long Island. A curious sidelight on the situation developed yesterday when the reporters were seeking to learn if Mr. Whitman intended taking any action against the police who had procured the affidavits against Sipp from two disorderly women.

How Sipp Was "Framed."

The story was to the effect that immediately after Sipp had testified before the Curran Committee several policemen, by command of an Inspector, began making the rounds of Harlem in search of some person who could tell something against Sipp that might be an excuse for police action against him. Several affidavits were procured, it was said, accusing Sipp of a number of crimes. Finally the affidavits were procured from Martha Miller and Georgiana Risinger and tucked away in a safe place by the policeman who had been mainly instrumental in getting them.

One of the policemen who knew of the matter dropped a hint of what had been done to Chief Inspector Schmittberger, who instantly told Commissioner Waldo about it. The Commissioner found the story to be true and demanded that the affidavits should be presented to Chief Magistrate McAdoo and a warrant for Sipp's arrest asked for. This was done. One of Mr. Whitman's assistants said yesterday that it was probably the intention of the policeman who had got the affidavits to keep them as a club to frighten Sipp into keeping his mouth shut and not with any intention of having him arrested.

The policeman who got the affidavit from Miss Miller was Morris Grossman. It came out in the testimony given before the Grand Jury by the two women that Miss Miller had told Grossman the story against Sipp, and that a few days later Grossman, Detective Scannell, and Lieut. O'Connor had called upon her in the Magdalen Home and induced her to sign an affidavit that they told her contained the facts related by her to Grossman. She said she signed the affidavit without reading it.

The former resort keeper was operated on last evening by Dr. W. H. Upton of 1,994 Lexington Avenue. The doctor declined to say what the operation was, though it is understood that it was for the removal of a tumor from the abdomen. Dr. Upton said, however, that the operation had been perfectly successful and that he expected Sipp to round into shape nicely.

It became known yesterday that as soon as Fox is safely within the clutches of the law a thorough investigation will be made into the police activity against Sipp. It also became known that some of the shots to be fired by Mr. Whitman will be aimed at Inspector Sweeney and Capt. Thomas W. Walsh, who was in command of the East 126th Street Station for five years and a half. It was during part of the time of Walsh's service there, Sipp swore, that he paid Fox $100 a month for protection.

Facts are also in the possession of Mr. Whitman connecting an Inspector with an ex-policeman charged with having been the collector for the police for a number of years. Developments yesterday made it appear certain that the indictment of Fox is only the first step in a programme arranged by Mr. Whitman for the entanglement of several important police officers. No person in the confidence of Mr. Whitman made any effort to conceal the fact that Fox was considered only in the light of bait for the catching of much bigger fish. No more witnesses will be brought before the Extraordinary Grand Jury in the matter of police graft until next Monday.

Edward J. Newell, who had been acting as the counsel for Sipp, said yesterday that he supposed he was still Sipp's counsel. But the impression in the District Attorney's office was that Mr. Whitman would look after Sipp's interests for the present.

WILSON CLINGS TO PROGRESSIVE PLANS

But Will Not Explain Bearing of Speech on Cabinet Appointments.

MAY GO OUTSIDE PARTY

Names of Oscar S. Straus and Charles R. Crane Brought Up—Waldo for Philippines Suggested.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 14.—President-elect Wilson kept every one guessing today as to just what he meant in his speech to the Presidential Electors when he said that he would not act as a partisan in selecting progressives, and only progressives, to assist him in his Administration.

He reiterated his statement to-day that he would have nobody but progressives around him, and seemed surprised at the comment his speech had aroused, but he declined to shed any additional light on his remarks, and to say whether it was Democratic progressives or any other kind of Progressives he had in mind.

When he was told this evening of the comment his speech had brought out, and the different interpretations which had been placed on the word "Progressives," he said with a smile: "I was not thinking of specifications; it was merely a statement of my general attitude—describing a state of mind."

When pressed for further information the President-elect said:

"I am generally surprised at the parts of my speeches which are picked out for comment. They are usually the parts which I think deal with things that are obvious in view of what I have done in the past. I was not thinking of specifications; I was just indicating a tendency and a state of mind."

It is generally believed around here, however, that the President-elect intended his remarks as a hint that he might have to go outside of his own party in selecting his Cabinet. It is reported that Gov. Wilson has since election been in communication with a number of Progressive Republicans, among them Oscar S. Straus, who was the Bull Moose candidate for Governor of New York.

While in Chicago the President-elect had two conferences with Charles R. Crane, who at one time was a stanch supporter of Senator La Follette. Mr. Crane, who has a large following among Progressive Republicans, was a heavy contributor to the Wilson campaign fund, and as a member of the Finance Committee of the Democratic National Committee raised considerable money.

Gov. Wilson managed to squeeze out enough time to-day to have a conference with Willard Saulsbury, National Committeeman from Delaware, who expects to be chosen United States Senator from that State pretty soon. The President-elect said that contrary to general belief, they had not discussed the Senatorship, but merely affairs in that State. He added, however, that he expected that Mr. Saulsbury would win out in the Senatorship.

Mr. Saulsbury himself said he felt confident of his selection by the Democratic caucus, which will be held on Monday. He said some of his Democratic opponents were trying to break up the caucus, but he did not think they would succeed.

The name of Rhinelander Waldo, New York's Police Commissioner, was presented to the President-elect to-day to be Governor General of the Philippines. John Kennard, the President-elect said, had submitted the Police Commissioner's name. He would make no comment on it, however. Joseph Guffey of Pittsburgh, nephew of the former Pennsylvania boss, also called on the Governor to-day.

"Gumshoe Bill" Stone of Missouri, Senator-elect Ollie James of Kentucky, and United States Senator Obadiah S. Gardner of Maine will be among the Governor's visitors to-morrow. Mr. Gardner is looked upon as a strong possibility for Secretary of Agriculture in the Wilson Cabinet.

WON'T SEE OFFICE-SEEKERS.

Belief That Wilson Will Follow Cleveland Rule with Job-Hunters.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Some Senators say they have information that President-elect Wilson has modified in some important particulars his original statement that the policy of the "open door" will be followed at the White House after he becomes President. They assert that the new President will not deal with job-hunters in person, and has urged Senators and Representatives not to give letters of introduction to men who are anxious to be on the Federal payroll.

The President-elect has received a copy of a letter bearing on this question that was written by President Cleveland on May 8, 1893, a bare two months after the beginning of Mr. Cleveland's second term as President. This is what Mr. Cleveland wrote:

> It has become apparent, after two months' experience, that the rules heretofore promulgated regulating interviews with the President have wholly failed in their operation. The time which under these rules was set apart for the reception of Senators and Representatives has been almost entirely spent in listening to applications for office which have been bewildering in volume, perplexing and exhausting in their iteration, and impossible of remembrance. A due regard for public duty, which must be neglected if present conditions continue, and an observance of the limitations placed upon human endurance oblige me to decline from and after this date all personal interviews with those seeking appointment to office, except as I on my own motion may especially invite them. The same considerations make it impossible for me to receive those who merely desire to pay their respects except on the days and during the hours especially designated for that purpose.
> I earnestly request Senators and Representatives to aid me in securing for them uninterrupted interviews by declining to introduce their constituents and friends when visiting the Executive Mansion during the hours designated for their reception. Applicants for office will only prejudice their prospects by repeated importunity and by remaining in Washington to await results.

Senators expect President Wilson to follow the suggestions in the Cleveland letter.

POPULAR SENATE APPROVED.

New York and North Carolina Race to Head Movement.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—The proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the direct election of United States Senators was passed by the Assembly to-day, 128 to 4. Those who voted in opposition were Adler of Monroe, Jones of Jefferson, Malone of Albany, and Richardson of Allegany, Republicans. The amendment was approved without debate. It is thought the Senate will add its indorsement to-morrow, which will give the State the distinction of being the first to approve the amendment taking out of the hands of the Legislature the power to choose the State's representatives in the United States Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 14.—The North Carolina Senate, proverbially conservative, passed unanimously to-day a bill to elect United States Senators by direct vote. Three Republican Senators, constituting the minority, joined in casting fifty votes for it. The House, which has 103 Democrats, four Progressives, and nine Republicans, is expected to concur to-morrow without dissent.

Ammons Inaugurated in Colorado.

DENVER, Jan. 14.—Elias M. Ammons, Democrat, became Governor of Colorado to-day, and the machinery of the State changed most of the personnel with his inauguration.

Before the installation of the State officials the House and Senate convened to vote for the first pair of United States Senators ever selected by the vote of the people in Colorado.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 14.—William Rockefeller and Mrs. Rockefeller, accompanied by their son William G., who have been in Nassau on account of Mr. Rockefeller's health, arrived at the Royal Poinciana at 9:30 last night and retired to their rooms without registering. They had an early breakfast, after which Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller read the papers on the hotel porch, walked around the gardens, went for a turn in a wheel chair, and altogether spent a very quiet day.

Since his arrival Mr. Rockefeller has not granted any interviews. He looks like any ordinary invalid who is making apparently rapid strides to recovery. He dined this evening in the large public dining room. As all the visitors at the hotel have heard that Mr. Rockefeller is to be considered an invalid, he and his wife and son are left to their own devices.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Members of the Pujo Committee admitted to-day that subpoenas had been issued last June for the appearance before that committee of Miss Katherin I. Harrison, who occupied a confidential position in the office of the late Henry H. Rogers, and of Miss Anne Watson, who was employed by William Rockefeller. Miss Harrison and Miss Watson were ordered subpoenaed at the same time that a summons was issued for William Rockefeller, but agents of the committee, acting through the office of the Sergeant at Arms, have been unable to make service upon them, and members of the Pujo Committee believe that both women have left the country.

It was learned to-night that Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee, acting with its consent and approval, recently employed private detectives and instructed them to do their best to ascertain whether Miss Harrison and Miss Watson were within the jurisdiction of the United States. This course was pursued, it was explained, because the work of the deputies of the office of the Sergeant at Arms of the House in December, when they were searching for William Rockefeller, resulted in too much publicity.

While it is true that private detectives have been employed in this search for the two women, members of the Pujo committee do not believe that either will be summoned in time to appear before it. The hunt will be called off if Miss Harrison and Miss Watson are out of the country. Their testimony is wanted concerning the affairs of the Amalgamated Copper Company and the transactions of the copper pool in the early part of 1907.

Dr. Charles W. Richardson of Washington, the throat specialist who was employed by the Pujo committee to make an independent examination of the physical condition of William Rockefeller, returned here to-day from Miami. Dr. Richardson reported personally to Chairman Pujo the result of the investigation. Chairman Pujo declined to make public the result of Dr. Richardson's mission. The doctor will be asked to take the stand to-morrow morning to make a statement under oath as to the result of his examination.

The committee will resume its hearings to-morrow morning.

RACE WITH ELECTORAL VOTES

Rhode Island's the First to be Delivered at the Capitol.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—J. S. McCabe of Rhode Island won the quadrennial race to Washington with the electoral vote of his State to-day. At 8 o'clock this morning, when the office of the Vice President opened at the Capitol, he was waiting to deliver the certificate. A short time later H. M. London of Raleigh appeared with the vote of North Carolina. He also had tried to be the first arrival, but a late train robbed him of the honor.

Ballots were received by messenger today also from West Virginia and by mail from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Connecticut, Delaware, and New York. H. E. Devendorf, Secretary of the late Vice President Sherman, became the official custodian of the electoral votes today and will keep them under seal until the House and Senate meet jointly Feb. 12 to declare Woodrow Wilson President-elect.

the passage through the Legislature of the act for the purchase of the road. He promised to take a considerable discount for cash.

W. B. Fitzgerald of the Executive Board of the American Federation of Labor, who is directing the strike, said that the men have perfected and are ready to put into operation a number of plans, each one based upon a possible course of action by the company officials. He would not discuss the plans, but was emphatic in denying that any violence was contemplated. Two reports that have reached them are causing uneasiness among the strikers. One is that a number of men are now being broken in for strikebreaking duty both in the Bronx and Manhattan. The other report is that the Yonkers line is quietly engaged in making preparations for the quartering of strikebreakers.

CALLS ANOTHER CONFERENCE.

Public Service Board Summons Whitridge and Strikers to Meet It.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 14.—In an effort to settle the strike on the Yonkers Street Railroad, which has been tied up since Jan. 1, the Public Service Commission announced to-day that it would hold a conference at its New York office to-morrow afternoon with a delegation of the strikers, President F. W. Whitridge of the railway company, and various Yonkers city officials.

This announcement followed a conference in Albany to-day between Public Service Commissioners and Mayor Lennon and Corporation Counsel Curran of Yonkers. If the conference in New York does not result in a settlement of the difficulties the Public Service Commission will then decide what legal proceedings will be taken to compel resumption of trolley service.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY; HUSBAND DISAPPEARS

Harry Beecham Quits House Giving Orders Not to Disturb His Wife.

TOWEL DRAWN OVER HER FACE

She Told Another Boarder That Pills Her Husband Gave Her Were Making Her Very Ill.

After finding the body of a woman, said to be Mrs. Harry Beecham, of Bayonne, N. J., some hours earlier in a room on the top floor of a boarding house at 231 West Twenty-third Street the police began a search last night for Harry Beecham, her companion, who disappeared a short time before the body was discovered.

There was no evidence, according to Coroner Hellenstein, who was summoned by the police, that Mrs. Beecham came to her death by violent means, but the Coroner suspected that she might have been poisoned, and for that reason ordered the body sent to the Morgue for an autopsy.

Near the body when it was found with a towel over the head and the bedclothes drawn up to the face, was a box of white pills. The lid of the box was marked, "For sleep; take one on retiring. Dr. Newton."

The police are puzzled to account for the strange conduct of Beecham yesterday morning. They argue that he must have known the woman was dead when he left the boarding house, as the towel had obviously been placed over her head after death. Yet he came downstairs as usual, chatted with Mr. Ray, proprietor of the boarding house, and asked Mrs. Ray to let "Mrs. Beecham sleep, as she needs a good rest." His final request on going away at 10 o'clock was that a cup of coffee be taken up to his wife at noon.

According to Mr. Ray, Mrs. Ray discovered the body on going upstairs with the cup of coffee. But the police were not notified until late in the afternoon, and Coroner Hellenstein did not reach the house until 10:30 o'clock last night. The Coroner's examination did not occupy more than a minute or two. An undertaker accompanied him to the house and pleaded over the telephone with the dead woman's relatives in Bayonne for possession of the body.

Mr. Ray said he had no idea how the police received their notice as he contented himself with notifying Frank Ulmer, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Beecham, living in Bayonne, and he did not know anything about the visit of the police until he returned from a stroll in the afternoon and found bluecoats from the West Seventeenth Street Station in charge.

Beecham came to the Ray house two weeks ago, with a recommendation from the Twenty-third Street branch of the Young Men's Christian Association. He said he had lived across the street at the Hotel Chelsea for a few days, and that his wife was in Bayonne with her mother, who was ill. He expected his wife, he said, in a few days, when he would need a larger room.

Last Saturday Mrs. Beecham, who appeared to be about 30 years old, arrived at the boarding house. She returned to Bayonne Saturday night, but returned on Monday and spent the day at the boarding house.

Miss Ida Lampe, a boarder, said that on Monday evening Mrs. Beecham seemed very ill and called her to her room, explaining that she had taken some pills her husband had bought for her. The pills, she said, were making her very ill, and she asked what Miss Lampe thought of her taking them. Miss Lampe said she helped the woman into bed and left her in almost the position in which she was found yesterday morning.

SIMPLEX

Private Show

Simplex engineers know that an electric lighting and starting system may easily become a two-edged sword without the proper attention to the wiring and connections. These wires often times carry a current of high amperage which, if not properly isolated, is liable to cause trouble.

In order to avoid this possibility, we have designed and built in our factory suitable connections for the system used in Simplex Cars, and all wiring is protected by metallic tubing which is both oil and waterproof. The body, motor, or any part of the chassis may be removed from the frame without breaking a wire, which is also an important feature.

Because of our inability to obtain sufficient space in Madison Square Garden to exhibit our latest models, Simplex Cars are shown only at the salesrooms—240 West 59th Street (near Columbus Circle)—which remain open until 10.30 o'clock each evening to and including January 18.

LIBEL BY MYLIUS DEFENDED BY JAMES

Papers Handed to Secretary Nagel Assert That King George Did Marry Miss Seymour.

NEW CHARGE IS PENDING

Possibility That Mylius May Be Accused of Libeling the Seymour Family.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Edward Holton James, editor of The Liberator, the organ of the Republican propaganda published in Paris with the purpose in view of making Great Britain a republic, and his attorney, Simon Pollock of New York City, had a conference for two hours this afternoon with Charles Nagel, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, in regard to the case of Edward F. Mylius, who was convicted of publishing in The Liberator a libel against King George. Mylius has been detained at Ellis Island since his arrival there on Dec. 31 because he was an ex-convict.

Neither Mr. James nor Mr. Pollock would discuss the case after the hearing. Mr. Nagel said that the discussion was entirely over the question as to whether or not Mylius's offense was of a so-called political nature or was a felony. The Secretary had nothing to say in regard to what he thought about the case.

Mr. James laid before the Secretary a bundle of papers and documents which he brought with him in a small handbag. The evidence he offered was intended to corroborate the statements in The Liberator article that King George actually was married to Miss Seymour at the time the Liberator article said he was; that two children had been born of the union, and that the marriage had been annulled. Mr. James said that he had felt bound to come to this country for the purpose of helping a comrade in the propaganda with which he was identified.

"I am satisfied after a steady search for the past year and a half," said Mr. James, "that the statements made in the article which caused the arrest and trial of Mylius are true. I have, for instance, examined the files of The London Times, day by day, for a period of fifteen years, to note the movements of the King and Miss Seymour. I have much evidence, documentary and otherwise, that goes to prove the truth of the publication.

"I say plainly that no mistake was made, as has been said in some American newspapers, in the identity of the Miss Seymour who was married to King George. The woman in question was the Miss Seymour who afterward became the wife of Capt. Napier, and there were, as I have good reason to believe, two children as a result of the marriage, and they are both still living. In saying this please bear in mind that I am sayink what I have said before many times, and not disclosing anything of what was said before Secretary Nagel. Of him I want to say that I am delighted with such a frank, genuine, and manly man. Whatever his decision may be, I shall remember him with distinct pleasure for the opportunity he gave us to present our case."

When he was asked if he was an American citizen, Mr. James said: "Yes, I am—probably. I was born in Wisconsin, and that State looks good to me always. The old Badger State is a leader in many good things and growing greater ever day. I am sorry I shall not be able to go out there for even a brief visit. But I have only this matter of Mylius's to hold he, and I must go back to France."

It was not until after the hearing that Mr. James and his attorney learned of the possibility that Mylius might be kept out of the United States on the ground that he had libelled members of the Seymour family. In order to prove that Mylius's offense was sedition, it was necessary to admit facts which might be construed by Secretary Nagel as proving that Mylius was emanable to the law as a person "who has been convicted of, or has admitted having committed a felony or other crime of misdemeanor involving moral turpitude."

When Secretary Nagel was asked about this he said:

"Of course there is that phase of the matter—whether the man in committing the crime of sedition, which is a political offense, did not also commit the crime of libel against others. And that may have to be considered."

Mr. James and his attorney said that at no time had they considered this side of the case, and they were not inclined to think that Secretary Nagel would exclude Mylius from the country on such ground. The papers were sent to the Department of Commerce and Labor on Jan. 4, and the Secretary was ready a week ago to make his decision when he was advised by telegram that Mr. James would sail at once to present an appeal for Mylius's release. Therefore he made no decision until James could come to Washington and give his evidence.

Secretary Nagel was pleased over the temperate and businesslike way in which Mr. James laid the case before him. Mr. Nagel said it would probably be several days before his decision would be announced.

Mr. James took occasion to correct certain publications which have been made with regard to his family. He said he was not, as had been said, a son of the late Prof. William James of Harvard, nor a son of Henry James, the author. His father was Robertson James, a brother of Prof. James and of Henry James.

TELLS OF THE THEFT OF OIL LETTERS

Winfield, the Negro Messenger, Says He Received $2,500 from Proceeds of Sale.

CHEATED BY CONFEDERATE

Arrested, He Says, in Chicago, as Was Stewart, by Bogus Police—His Room Searched.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The Senate Committee which is investigating the general subject of political campaign funds to-day heard first-hand testimony as to how the letters and telegrams published in the Hearst newspapers and Hearst's Magazine were taken from the files of the Standard Oil Company. Willie Winfield, a negro messenger once in the employ of the Standard Oil Company, and son of a butler of John D. Archbold, was the witness. He told the committee under oath, but with evident reluctance, how he and Charlie Stumph, also employed in the Standard Oil offices, and Frank Merrill, an office boy, first stole a telegram, then two letters, and finally carried off to be photographed over night two letter copy books.

Winfield said that his share of the profits from these transactions, supposed to be one-third of the proceeds, was less than $2,500. He told the committee, however, that he suspected that Charlie Stumph, who was the intermediary in all the negotiations for the sale of the letters, had defrauded him of a large part of his share. Winfield said that he never was told where Stumph sold the letters, although he saw the telegram and the two letters first published in the Hearst newspapers. Many other Standard Oil letters appeared afterward in the same newspapers. It was the publication of these other letters and telegrams which first aroused Winfield's suspicion that Stumph was not playing fair with him.

"When my suspicions were aroused Stumph was too far away," said Winfield enigmatically.

Like Gilchrist Stewart, the negro lawyer, who testified yesterday, Winfield told the committee a story of false arrest by bogus policemen and detectives in Chicago. Unlike Stewart, however, Winfield did not recognize any of his captors, and as he was released without being recognized himself, and without the loss of any valuable papers, he had never made complaint. Winfield said that at the time of his arrest he thought he was being hounded by agents of the Standard Oil Company, who, he believed, wished to recover the letters he had stolen or to arrest him for larceny.

Got $1,000 from First Sale.

It was during the year 1904, Winfield said, that he and Charlie Stumph were discussing in the Standard Oil offices an item in a Hearst newspaper which told about a telegram sent by a Standard Oil Company officer to a politician in Washington. The office boy, Merrill, overheard their conversation and told them that the original of the telegram was in the files in his possession. At their request he showed it to them, and the plan was then made for stealing and selling it. The theft was easy, and Stumph conducted the negotiations for the sale. Winfield got $1,000 as his part of the proceeds of this sale.

The next theft was almost an accident, so far as he was concerned, Winfield said. Winfield had forgotten his keys one night and returned to the office for them. There he found Charlie Stumph examining the contents of Mr. Archbold's desk. Stumph told him to say nothing about this and he would get his share. So far as Winfield knew, only two letters were taken at that time, and Stumph sold them for $1,000 each. It was some time later when the two letter copybooks were taken out over night and, as Winfield said, "rented" for $500 to a man named Eddy, who Winfield thought represented a Hearst newspaper.

William Randolph Hearst, when he testified, told the committee that the only man who knew anything about the acquisition of the letters was John Eddy, now in London. Winfield said that Stumph left the employ of the Standard Oil Company in 1905.

Winfield's mock arrest in Chicago took place last month, he said. He was working as a porter on a Pullman car and had just come in from his run at 10:30 o'clock on the evening of Dec. 21, when the arrest occurred.

"My wife told me," he said, "that Stewart had telephoned from a neighboring restaurant that he would be down to see me in a little while. I dressed and was leaving my house for Gumm's saloon at 2,900 State Street, where I was to meet Stewart, when I had an encounter with five detectives. I had reached the sidewalk in front of the house when the men grabbed me and asked what my name was. I asked them if it was any of their business. They said, 'You came out of this house. We saw you and we want to know whom you went there to see. One of the men threw back his coat and showed his police badge.

Room Ransacked.

"I did not think that my affairs were any of their business but when they said that unless I gave my name they would take me to the police station, I said I was William Anderson. They insisted that I should tell them whom I had been in the house to see. They told me I would have to go back into the house with them and threatened to arrest me if I did not do as they said. As soon as the landlady opened the door the five of them rushed in and one of them stood by me while the other four ransacked the house.

"They went into all the rooms and when they entered my room they demanded of my wife what her name was. She said she was Mrs. Winfield. To show how smart these men were my picture was on the dresser and none of them recognized me. That made me feel easier. After they got through ransacking the house and my room and could not find anything they wanted—and I think they were particularly anxious to find me—they took me out on the sidewalk and told me I could go. One of them said: 'Well, Anderson, this is one time you've fooled me.'"

Winfield said that following his release he proceeded to Gumm's saloon where he met Stewart. In answer to questions of Chairman Clapp Winfield said that Stewart had tried to get him to sign a paper telling about the part he took in the theft of the letters. Winfield said he made certain corrections in the so-called statement prepared by Stewart but resolutely refused to sign it. Stewart, he said, never asked him to make an affidavit on the subject. Winfield's description of the paper which was shown to him by Stewart seemed to indicate that it was the formal report made by Stewart which ex-Senator Joseph B. Foraker read to the committee when he testified some weeks ago.

"After his talk with me," said Winfield, "Stewart remained in the café for several hours. I learned that he tried to order a meal but that while he was waiting for it the cops came and got him."

The "cops" referred to are supposed to be the alleged bogus detectives mentioned by Stewart in his testimony yesterday.

Gilchrist Stewart was cross-examined at the opening of the committee's session this morning. He had had no dealings with the Standard Oil Company, he said, and was employed solely by ex-Senator J. B. Foraker. He denied that he was trying to recover the Standard Oil letters, and said that he had tried simply to get a narrative of the theft and sale of the letters from the men engaged in the transaction.

The committee will meet again to-morrow.

HOUSE UPHOLDS TAFT ORDER

Cullop Move Against Civil Service Expansion Is Defeated.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The Cullop plan to set aside President Taft's executive order putting fourth-class Postmasters, Assistant Postmasters, and clerks of first-class and second-class Post Offices in the classified civil service was defeated in the House of Representatives to-day by a record vote of 106 to 141. A coalition between the Republican minority and the Democratic friends of the civil service system was the rock on which the Cullop proposal was wrecked. Under the leadership of Representative James R. Mann of Illinois the Republican side voted practically solid against the Cullop amendment, and in favor of letting the Taft order stand. Only one Republican—Representative Lafferty of Oregon—voted for the Cullop idea.

Forty Democrats, mostly from Northern States in which there was a strong civil service sentiment, lined themselves up with the Republicans in opposition to the amendment, which was offered as part of the Post Office Appropriation bill. It was thought that if the Cullop amendment had gone through the President would have vetoed the bill. Advocates of the amendment intended to serve notice on President-elect Wilson that the House Democrats were opposed to executive orders.

PROMOTION HOLD-UP BROKEN

Wotherspoon Now Major General—Democrats Bar Civil Nominations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The Senate to-day, after three hours and a half in secret session, confirmed Brig. Gen. William W. Wotherspoon as a Major General. This action brought to an end a long fight that has been waged against the confirmation by Senator Joseph L. Bristow of Kansas and a few others since last Summer. Senator Bristow feels that Brig. Gen. Frederick Funston, who comes from Kansas, should, as the senior Brigadier General, be advanced to the Major Generalship, and Mr. Bristow's speech to this effect took up most of the secret session.

The confirmation of Gen. Wotherspoon's nomination breaks the hold-up of army and navy promotions, and, under a general understanding with the Democrats, these promotions will now go through practically without objection. To-day's action, however, has no effect on the general impasse that has been reached between Republicans and Democrats as to President Taft's civil appointments. The Democrats are determined to hold them up indefinitely with the exception of appointments to the Diplomatic Service. The Republicans, on the other hand, are resolved to put the Democrats in the position of obstructing confirmations in the interest of spoils. They will force long sessions until the country is made aware of the fact that the Democrats are responsible for continuing vacancies in the public service.

ARGUES FOR FREE PULP.

Counsel for Importers Urges "Most Favored Nation" Treatment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Importers of European wood pulp and paper to-day urged the Customs Court to authorize the admission of these products free of duty to the United States from all countries having "most favored nation" treaties with America. Albert H. Washburn, counsel for importers of wood, pulp and paper from Norway, Sweden, Austria-Hungary, Russia, Germany, Belgium, and Great Britain, occupied practically the whole day in an effort to convince the court that these commodities should be free.

Free wood pulp and paper is granted to Canada on all unrestricted exportations by the only operative clause of the Canadian reciprocity treaty, and Mr. Washburn maintained that the United States Government was bound by its treaties to extend the privilege to Europe. He said America had granted Canada a gratuitous concession which could be claimed by other nations under favored nation treaties. The lawyer attacked the Government's position that the question could not be decided by the courts because it was political and not judicial. He argued that the Customs Court was competent to decide the issue, and quoted President Taft's message to Congress saying it had been referred to the courts for determination as a contradiction of the Government's present attitude. The President had directed the Treasury Department to assess the duties on these European products pending the outcome.

Assistant Attorney General Wemple will argue the Government's side to-morrow.

NEW PANAMA DISCUSSION.

Senator Root Introduces Bill Which Reopens Question of Tolls.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Senator Root to-day introduced a bill to amend the Panama Canal act by eliminating the provision exempting American coastwise ships from the payment of tolls. The bill is expected to reopen the entire question of Panama tolls now at issue with Great Britain and to pave the way for a new discussion of the subject in the Senate.

Senateor Root gave notice that he would speak on Jan. 21 in support of his bill, and it is understood that a number of other Senators will follow him with speeches both for and against the proposed repeal.

Many members of the Senate have declared recently that they favored meeting Great Britain's objections to the canal law by repealing the free toll provisions rather than submit the whole subject to arbitration on the question of the right of the United States to grant free passage to American-owned ships.

Senator Root opposed the free toll provision when the act was passed last Summer, and since then has favored either arbitration or striking out the clause.

WANTS TWO MORE JUDGES.

Senator Gore Would Have Eleven on Supreme Court Bench.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The first result of Gov. Wilson's announcement that he would appoint only Progressives to office was the introduction of a bill to-day by Senator Gore, increasing the membership of the Supreme Court of the United States from nine to eleven.

Mr. Gore is an ardent supporter of Gov. Wilson, and recently had a personal interview with him at Trenton. The suggestion is made that Mr. Gore is acting with the approval of the Governor, but the great reserve with which Mr. Wilson has discussed governmental affairs, even with his close advisers, makes this inference doubtful.

The Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States some years ago were thought to feel that their labors were too great, and that for purposes of a division of labor, additional Justices were needed. Since then, however, the court has greatly simplified its own procedure, and much progress has been made in cutting down the calendar.

It is known that there is now no feeling in favor of additional Justices, just as it is certain that a desire for any increased membership would have been expressed, not through Mr. Gore, but through the Republican Chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary.

SENATE CONTESTS IN SIX LEGISLATURES

Democrats Lead in New Hampshire, Republicans in Maine, Without Choice.

NO RESULT IN TENNESSEE

West Virginia, Wyoming, and New Mexico Also Fail to Elect—Six Senators Chosen.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 14.—Neither branch of the Legislature was able to reach an agreement on the choice of United States Senator to-day. In the Senate the vote was divided among five candidates, three Democrats and two Republicans, and in the House the names of fifteen candidates were presented. The Democrats in the lower house nearly all voted for Henry F. Hollis, and the Progressives for former Gov. Robert P. Bass. The Republican vote was split among eleven candidates.

No candidate received a majority in either House. In the Senate the vote stood: Hollis, (Dem.,) 11; Quinby, (Rep.,) 6; Rosecrans W. Pillsbury, (Rep.,) 3; Clarence E. Carr, (Dem.,) 1; Frank P. Carpenter, (Dem.,) 1; not voting, 2.

In the House the vote was: Hollis, 193; Quinby, 108; Pillsbury, 56; Bass, (Prog.,) 15; Sherman E. Burroughs, (Rep.,) 7; John M. Gile, 7; Thomas Chalmers, (Rep.,) 3; William J. Tucker, William E. Chandler, Edward N. Pearson, Alfred F. Howard, Samuel W. Emery, and John H. Bartlett, all Republicans, and Messrs. Carpenter and Carr, Democrats, one each; paired, 4; not voting, 2.

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 14.—Three Republican members of the Maine House of Representatives who are fourth-class Postmasters in their respective towns, telegraphed their resignations as Postmasters to Washington to-night. Their right as Federal office holders to seats in the House was attacked by Democratic members just before balloting began this noon for the election of a United States Senator to succeed Senator Obadiah Gardner, (Dem.)

On the vote for Senator, Edwin C. Burleigh, (Rep.,) had a majority in the Senate, but in the House he was tied with Senator Obadiah Gardner, each having 72 votes. The Republican leaders say they will have a majority of seven for Burleigh in joint convention to-morrow.

BOSTON, Jan. 14.—The Legislature today chose Congressman John Wingate Weeks of Newton, a graduate of the Naval Academy, the successor of Winthrop Murray Crane as the junior Senator from Massachusetts.

NASHVILLE, Jan. 14.—Balloting on candidates for both the long and short terms in the United States Senate began in each House of the Tennessee Legislature to-day, but without definite result. The vote for the short term Senator did not develop the real strength of any candidate.

For the long term B. A. Enloo, supported by "independent Democrats," received a total vote of 33. For choice 67 is necessary. Congressman McKeller received a total of 16 votes for the long term; L. D. Tyson, 18; John K. Shields, 16. Each of the leading candidates for the long term is a Democrat.

SANTA FE, N. M., aJn. 14.—The second State Legislature of New Mexico assembled here to-day. Principal interest centred around a fight for the United States Senate seat held by Albert B. Fall. Senator Fall's first term will close on March 3, 1913. He holds, however, that he was legally elected by the last Legislature for another term, beginning March 4. His opponents assert that the second election was illegal and will endeavor to have another.

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 14.—On the first ballot Senator W. E. Borah was reelected United States Senator by the Legislature to-day.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 14.—Former Governor Charles S. Thomas and Gov. John F. Shafroth, Democrats, were elected United States Senators from Colorado to-day, the Senate and House voting separately. Twelve Republicans in the House and three in the Senate voted for the Democratic candidates in compliance with the pledges taken prior to the November election.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 14.—Thomas J. Walsh (Dem.) of Helena, primary preferential candidate, was to-day elected United States Senator, receiving every vote in both houses of the Legislature.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 14.—William Alden Smith was re-elected United States Senator this afternoon by the Michigan Legislature. Only one ballot was taken. A joint session of the Legislature will be held to-morrow to ratify to-day's action.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 14.—B. L. Pratt, (Rep.,) who refused to enter the Republican caucus to-day, was elected temporary Speaker of the House, receiving the solid support of the Democratic members. The Democrats say they will endeavor to prevent the re-election of United States Senator F. E. Warren.

CHARLESTON, West Va., Jan. 14.—The legislative deadlock was further prolonged when both Senate and House adjourned until to-morrow without making any progress toward organizing. Nine ballots were taken in the Senate for President, Senator French (Dem.) and Senator England (Rep.) receiving fifteen votes each. No ballot was taken in the House.

INSISTS ON A CENTRAL BANK.

But Banker Is Told There Is an Insuperable Obstacle.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—"This country can never have a sound monetary system without a central bank," asserted Festus J. Wade of St. Louis, a member of the Banking and Currency Committee of the American Bankers' Association, to-day before the House Currency Reform Committee. He said the Aldrich plan proposed the best system that had come under his observation. He insisted that Democratic opposition to a central bank was largely sentimental.

"Whether it is sentiment or the ghost of Andrew Jackson," replied Chairman Glass, "there is an insuperable political obstacle to the Aldrich plan."

James E. Ferguson, a banker, of Temple, Texas, submitted a bill to establish in connection with the office of the Controller of the Currency the "Currency Bank of the United States," with eight branches, to be known as currency stations, and authorize the issue of $700,000,000 in currency by the United States Government. The plan contemplated the loan of currency to banks on commercial paper at 5 per cent. interest.

Additions to Gaynor's Committee.

Mayor Gaynor announced yesterday that he had appointed the following additional members to the committee named by him several days ago to arrange for a celebration of the three hundreth anniversary of the settlement of Manhattan Island: R. A. C. Smith, Herman Ridder, Frank A. Munsey, Gen. Howard Carroll, James Apeyer, Vincent Astor, William A. Marble, E. E. Olcott, H. H. Raymond, Edward P. U. Ritter, William C. Reick, Theodore P. Shonts, William Ziegler, Jr., Cornelius Vanderbilt, Dr. Edward Hagaman Hall, John C. Eames, Cesare Conti, George C. Boldt, William C. Muschenheim, Col. Louis Annin Ames, and William A. Johnston.

SPHINX CLUB ENTERTAINS.

Entertain C. K. H. Curtis and Others at "Good Fellowship" Dinner.

The Sphinx Club, composed of advertising men, gave a "good fellowship" dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria last night. Collin Armstrong, President of the club, welcomed the representatives of several sister organizations from the principal cities of the East and Middle West. Cyrus H. K. Curtis, President of the Periodical Publishers' Association, was the first speaker. He had to explain why he was late.

"When I arrived," he said, "I found I had forgotten my dress clothes. I spent the afternoon trying to rent some. At each place I was met with the reply:

"'We are sorry, but all our evening clothes are rented. You see the Sphinx Club is giving a dinner to-night.'"

George W. Coleman, President of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, quoted an editorial praising the advertising men as the first of any business or profession to start cleaning up their business from the "inside." James M. Dunlap, President of the Chicago Advertising Association, and Carol Swan, President of the Pilgrim Publicity Association of Boston, announced the coming opening of club houses in their cities, where advertising men would be welcomed. Hugh O'Donnell, Vice President of the Poor Richard Club of Philadelphia, got a hearty ovation following his plea for fellowship among men in the advertising business. He was followed by Richard Waldo, President of the Quoin Club.

Other speakers were Bert M. Moses, President of the Association of American Advertisers; L. C. McChesney, President of the Advertising Managers' Association; Herbert L. Bridgman, Chairman of the Publishers' Association of New York City; R. G. Gould, President of the Atlas Club of Chicago; J. W. Adams, General Manager of the Daily Newspaper Club; F. L. F. Gauss, President of the Representatives Club; M. D. Hunton, President of the Six Point League, and President Harry Tipper of the Technical Publicity Association.

DR. D. L. RAUCH MISSING.

Physician Vanished After Leaving Home to Visit Patient Last Friday.

The police were asked last night to aid in a search for Dr. David L. Rauch, who disappeared mysteriously from his home, 179 West Eighty-eighth Street, on Friday evening. A brother, Moses L. Rauch, reported the case to the West 100th Street station.

At Dr. Rauch's home it was said that the missing man started out about 7 o'clock Friday evening to make a call on a patient, and not a trace of him had been found since, although a score or more of relatives and friends living in and near the city had been communicated with.

"We haven't the slightest idea where Dr. Rauch has gone or why he went away," said M. L. Rauch. "He was never afflicted with mental trouble, and was in the best of health. We don't think that he has been attacked or injured, because he had no large sum of money with him, and if he was in a hospital we would know about it by this time, as inquiry has been made everywhere. His disappearance is a complete mystery to us."

Dr. Rauch is 47 years old and unmarried. He is a graduate of the College of the City of New York and the Bellevue Medical School, and has practiced in this city for several years. There was no question of finances involved, his brother said.

The police have no other information, but said they had sent out a general alarm at the request of the brother. Dr. Rauch is described as 5 feet 5 inches tall, and 143 pounds in weight. He has brown eyes and hair, and wears a moustache and beard.

EMPLOYES GAIN $12,000,000.

Million a Month Increase of Wages for Steel Corporation Workers.

About $12,000,000 a year will be added to the pay rolls of the United States Steel Corporation as a result of the wage increase which was promised by the corporation just before Christmas. At that time it was made known that an increase had been decided on, it being left to the Presidents of the subsidiary companies to work out the details of the increase.

The following statement was issued yesterday by Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Steel Corporation:

> In accordance with the recent announcement made by the Chairman respecting an adjustment in wages, many of the Subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation have made up their schedules, which together aggregate an increase in wages of about $1,000,000 per month, beginning about Feb. 1. These benefits largely apply to the workmen receiving the lowest daily wages. Some of the mining companies are not included, for the reason that wages have been heretofore adjusted by these companies and are now above the average.

The United States Steel Corporation in 1911 had in its employ 196,888 men, and their wages that year amounted to $161,419,031. The report for 1912 has not yet been issued, but the average number of men employed during the past year is believed to have been well above 200,000. The output of the corporation's mills was largely increased, and its labor requirements were greater than in the previous year.

The number of employes in the manufacturing plants of the corporation in 1911 was 140,118. In its mines, including coal and coke and iron ore properties, 36,168 men were employed.

ARCHBALD TO PRACTICE LAW.

Former Judge Will "Start All Over" In Scranton, Son Says.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Former Judge Robert W. Archbald, who was yesterday stripped of his office as a Judge of the Commerce Court by the United States Senate, spent last night at the residence of one of his sons in this city, and to-day departed for his home in Scranton, Penn.

The former Judge declined to be interviewed, but his son, who spoke for him, said:

"My father's conscience is clear. He is going home to practice law. He will start all over. My father has been a courteous, diligent, and good Judge. Perhaps his kindness of heart accounts for many of his difficulties."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The first effect of the long Archbald impeachment case was the introduction of a resolution to-day embodying a constitutional amendment by Senator Atlee Pomerene of Ohio. Mr. Pomerene's plan is to authorize Congress by legislation to provide a simpler impeachment, and for more definitely defined offenses for all officers of the Government, except the President, Vice President, and Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. Those officials would remain under the present provision for impeachment by the House of Representatives before the bar of the Senate.

Mr. Pomerene's measure does not indicate what form of impeachment he would provide for lower officers. It has been suggested that, except in particular cases, the Supreme Court of the United States might hear impeachments. It has also been suggested that a committee of the Senate might be authorized to take testimony which would afterward be passed upon by the whole Senate sitting as a high court.

Roosevelt Rejects New Munsey Plan.

Col. Roosevelt when asked yesterday if he had any reply to make to the second proposal of Frank A. Munsey that the Republicans and Progressives bury their differences and unite into one party, said: "I have already expressed myself on the subject, and I have nothing to add to it. I said I was against the proposition and I have not changed my opinion."

W. B. Sanction Left $84,619.42.

MINE LIFE IS SAFER, SAYS BUREAU CHIEF

But for Every 183,000 Tons of Coal One Man a Year Still Loses His Life in This Country.

DEATH RATE DECREASING

Great Waste of Natural Resources an Existing Evil, Says Dr. Holmes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—One miner is killed for every 183,000 tons of coal mined in the United States. In 1907, when the Federal Bureau of Mines was beginning its work, the ratio was greater—one miner killed for every 144,000 tons of coal. Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, Director of the United States Bureau of Mines, in his annual report to Secretary Fisher to-day, attributes the decrease in the rate of mortality to the Federal Government's work in the mining fields. He points out how the death rate may be reduced still further. Much remains to be done, including a broad extension of the investigation of accident and rescue work, so that it will include metal and other mineral mines as well as coal mines

The death rate in the metal mines of the country is nearly as high as in the coal mines, Dr. Holmes says, averaging more than three men per thousand employed. The death rate in the quarries is greater than it should be, averaging far more than that in foreign quarries; and the same is true of the death rate in metallurgical plants. He recommends, therefore, that provision be made to carry the mine-accident investigation into these other fields in a larger way than the limited appropriations thus far made have permitted.

The enormous annual loss in mining and preparing coal for market, the huge waste of natural gas, as well as lack of efficiency, and waste in the metal mining industries, are pointed out by Dr. Holmes. This waste of natural resources, he asserts, should be checked.

"Pioneer educational work, temporary in character," is the way in which Dr. Holmes refers to the mine rescue and first-aid work among the more than 700,000 miners in the 15,000 mines of the country. Ultimately this work must be taken care of, he says, by the coal-mining companies through the training and organization of miners at each of the larger mines or group of mines. He says that a number of companies now maintain rescue stations at their own expense.

Health conditions in and about mines should be investigated, in the opinion of Dr. Holmes. Preliminary inquiries, he says, indicate the prevalence of tuberculosis and the presence of hookworm as miners' diseases in several places.

Coal valued at more than $5,000,000 is bought annually by the Government under specifications prepared by the Bureau of Mines; and additional fuel to the value of $3,000,000 is bought by it under the general advice of the bureau. This has resulted in a saving of money for the Government.

ALLIES WILL NOT LET TURKEY DELAY

May Reinforce the Powers' Collective Note with Notice of Resumption of War.

POWERS NOT FULLY AGREED

Ambassadors Have Received the Note Advising Turks to Surrender—Rumania Sticks to Demand.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Balkan peace delegates throughout the day have been considering their next move against the Turks, and it is understood that they are contemplating a step which will make the chances of peace even more remote. Being of the opinion that the collective note to be sent by the powers to Turkey is likely to be ineffective unless its is accompanied by a threat of armed intervention, which the powers find themselves unable to undertake, the allies' delegates spent the day in consultation as to the edvisability of supplementing the action of the powers by action of their own.

Early in the day it was reported that they had decided to recommend that their Governments declare the peace conference at an end and give notice of the termination of the armistice. If, as seems possible, this decision was really taken, it was afterward modified. The present tendency of the Balkan delegates is to see first whether the collective note of the powers will be successful in inducing the Porte to give way. If the Turks remain obdurate or if there is a resort to procrastination, the negotiations will be broken off and the military authorities will be instructed to resume hostilities after the expiration of the four days' notice necessary under the terms of the armistice.

The delegates, however, are still in constant communication with one another and their Governments and no final decision has yet been taken. There is no reason to expect the powers to intervene again should their advice be rejected by the Porte. In that event a renewal of the war would seem practically inevitable.

No difficulties now stand in the way of collective representations to the Turkish Government. Last week, when the Ambassadors at London drafted a note for submission to their Governments, Germany raised two points of minor importance. These objections have been removed and the collective note is in the hands of the Ambassadors at Constantinople. The Ambassadors will meet, if they have not met already, to determine the form of procedure, and a reasonable interval will be given to the Turkish Government in which to make its decision.

The greater issue of peace or war overshadows for the moment the controversy between Bulgaria and Rumania. Negotiations between these Governments have made no progress. Rumania shows no disposition to abate an inch of her claim to the strip of Bulgarian territory from Silistria to Karnova. Dr. Daneff is waiting for further instructions from his Government, which naturally is preoccupied with the Turkish problem and preparations for renewing the war.

SOFIA, Jan. 14.—King Ferdinand and the members of the Cabinet will start at midnight for Mustapha Pasha. They will meet in that town Gen. Savoff, the commander-in-chief, and the commanders of the four Bulgarian armies.

CHINESE LOAN HANGS FIRE.

$150,000,000 Offers at Lower Interest Hamper Six-Power Group.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—According to The Times's Peking correspondent the loan negotiations between China and the six-power group drag on. One of the principal difficulties at the present moment is the rate of interest, which the bankers desire to fix at 5½ per cent.

China has recently had offers of two independent loans, aggregating $150,000,000, at 5 per cent., and the correspondent expresses the hope that she is not being influenced by these "somewhat nebulous proposals" to dally with the only financial combination able to afford her solid support.

RABBI HERTZ PREFERRED.

Choice of Committee of Selection for Chief Rabbi of Britain.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—It was announced at the meeting of the Council of the United Synagogue that the selection committee had decided to submit to the Electoral College the names of two candidates only, Joseph H. Hertz of New York and Dr. Hyamson of London, for the office of chief rabbi, coupling with this resolution a strong recommendation in favor of Dr. Hertz. The Electoral College will meet on Feb. 16, when Lord Rothschild, President of the United Synagogue, will preside.

Rabbi Joseph H. Hertz of the Orach Chaim Synagogue, at Lexington Avenue and Ninety-fifth Street, left this city last Spring for England, where candidates for the Chief Rabbinate of England were then being heard. He was said to have made a strong impression with sermons in synagogues of various cities.

Dr. Hertz is 38 years old. He is a graduate of the College of the City of New York, and of the Jewish Theological Seminary in America, and has the degree of Doctor of Philosophy of Columbia University. He first officiated as a rabbi in Syracuse, and then for twelve years at Johannesburg, South Africa. He is well known as a writer, being the author of "The Jew in South Africa," "The Place of the University in Modern Life," and other works.

The Rev. Dr. Bernard Drachman, rabbi of the Ahab Zedek Synagogue, and also rabbi of Congregation Zichron Ephraim, in this city, was one of the three candidates finally considered for the Chief Rabbinate of England.

TO RAISE CURRENCY LIMIT.

Reichstag Budget Committee Favors Larger Issue of Small Notes.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—The Budget Committee of the Reichstag adopted unanimously to-day a resolution in favor of removing the limit placed upon the issue of banknotes of small denominations. Hitherto the limit has been $75,000,000, but the Imperial Bank exceeded it at critical times, especially last year.

The Conservatives, supported by the Centre Party, expressed anxiety lest the change should merely increase the credits available for speculation and proposed the introduction of a bank deposits bill. The latter proposal was resisted by the other parties, and also by the Government, and was ultimately withdrawn.

The Secretary of State for the Interior made confidential statements which are described as "reassuring" about the supplies of money and foodstuffs in the event of war.

PUNCH HAS FUN WITH TAFT.

Prints Light Verse on the President's Arbitration Speech.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Punch this week publishes a cartoon on President Taft's arbitration speech entitled "His Swan Song." It represents Mr. Taft as a dying swan, singing the following to the American eagle dressed in the Stars and Stripes:

> Arbitration I adore;
> Sometimes less and sometimes more.
> If you love your dying swan,
> Keep it up when he is gone.

FANNY WARD DIVORCED.

Wealthy Husband Names an Actor as the Corespondent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—A divorce was granted to-day to Joseph Lewis, the wealthy South African whose wife is known on the stage as Fanny Ward. The case was not defended, and the proceedings were purely formal.

The corespondent was John H. Donovan, who is known on the stage as John Deade.

Fanny Ward was born in St. Louis in 1875. Through the influence of one of her father's friends she played Cupid in "Adonis" when still very young. She went to London in 1897 with an American company, and shortly afterward appeared at the Gaiety in "The Shop Girl." Then she was seen in leading rôles with Charles Hawtry in "The Cuckoo," "Lord and Lady Algy," and other plays.

It was while she was playing in "Lord and Lady Algy" that she married Joseph Lewis. She retired from the stage, and was not seen on the boards again for several years, until she appeared in "A Night Off," which had a run of eighteen months. She returned to the United States in 1906 in "A Marriage of Reason." The following year she was with Kyrle Bellew at Wallack's Theatre, and was later seen in "A Fool and a Girl."

DESCHANEL SEEKS FRENCH PRESIDENCY

Elected President of Deputies, He Makes a Strong Speech Against Monarchy.

MANY OTHERS IN THE RACE

Clemenceau Bolts Poincare on Du Paty de Clam Case—President May Assume More Power.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—Paul Deschanel, who was to-day re-elected President of the Chamber of Deputies by an overwhelming majority, declared himself to-night a candidate for the Presidency of the Republic. The other candidates who have been formally announced are Premier Raymond Poincaré and ex-Premier Felix Ribot, while Jules Pams, Minister of Agriculture; Antonin Dubost, who was to-day re-elected President of the Senate; Jean Dupuy, Minister of Public Works, and Theophile Delcassé, Minister of Marine, are unofficially in the running. The election will be held on Friday.

There is some talk now that Leon Bourgeois may be induced to stand at the last moment as a compromise candidate, if only to serve for several months, until the European crisis is ended.

Several spectacular features marked to-day's contributions to the campaign. As if seeking to answer the critics who have been accusing him of reactionary tendencies, M. Deschanel in his inaugural address urged Frenchmen to go on improving the Parliamentary system, but to be careful not to demolish it, for, he said, "personal power has cost France too dearly in the past."

This allusion to the monarchy and the Empire brought Deputy Delahaye, a Conservative, to his feet, shouting, "Not so dearly as the Republic."

A tumult broke out in the chamber, but M. Deschanel raised his voice above the din, saying, "Yes, it has cost us so dearly that we will never be tempted to begin over again."

Great applause from the benches of the majority greeted this remark.

After asserting that France's work in behalf of social justice, the amelioration of the condition of the poor, old age pensions, improvements for miners, farmers, and the laboring classes generally, would remain an imperishable honor to the Third Republic, M. Deschanel dwelt upon the external political situation and expressed the belief that the world could reasonably hope that the Balkan crisis would not drag the powers into a conflict which none desired.

Another feature of the day was the animated conversation in the lobby of the Senate between Premier Poincaré, M. Briand, the Minister of Justice, and ex-Premier Clémenceau. It is understood that M. Clémenceau reproached the Ministers for the recent attitude of the Cabinet with respect to the reinstatement of Du Paty de Clam, and said openly that he intended to vote for M. Dubost.

As the campaign progresses there is an evident trend of public opinion in favor of the President exercising greater powers in the future. Although the French parliamentary system does not permit of the same powers as are held by the President of the United States, there is a general desire for the President of France to exercise the full prerogatives which the constitution allows, but which up to the present have been frowned upon by precedent. This idea was voiced in the Chamber to-day by Louis Passy, who suggested among other things that the President of the Republic should send messages to the Parliament and in other ways take an active part in governing the nation.

The parties and groups making up the Republican majority in the Chamber and Senate have decided to hold a caucus to-morrow with the object of uniting upon a candidate for election at the Versailles Congress, which will be held on Friday next.

FLORENCE HONORS PENNELL.

His Panama Canal Lithographs Purchased for the Uffizi Gallery.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—A set of Joseph Pennell's lithographs of the Panama Canal, which were reproduced in THE NEW YORK TIMES and are now on exhibition at Florence, have been purchased by the Italian Government for the Uffizi Gallery. The Government has also purchased Mr. Pennell's lithographs of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and the Yosemite Valley.

This is the first occasion on which lithographs have been acquired for the Uffizi Gallery, and it is believed to be the first time the work of a modern artist has been bought for it.

STORK TO VISIT CZARINA.

Her Absence from the Cossacks' Christmas Celebration Explained.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—According to the St. Petersburg correspondent of Le Temps, the stork is expected to visit the Russian imperial family in the Spring.

This is said to account for the absence of the Czarina from the annual Christmas tree festivities of the Czar's Cossack guard, a ceremony which she usually attends. The Court Chamberlain has been ordered to omit the name of the Czarina from all great functions until further notice.

LONG LOST RAPHAEL SMUGGLED TO LONDON

Masterpiece Was Hidden in Italy After Napoleon Had Tried to Take It Away.

POVERTY CAUSED ITS SALE

Kept in London Hotel Under Constant Guard, and Proofs of Authenticity to be Offered.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 15.—The Standard announces that a picture which is stated to be Raphael's greatest masterpiece, "La Madonna della Quercia," has been smuggled out of Italy, arrived in London yesterday and is now at the Hotel Cecil, guarded day and night by detectives. For more than a hundred years, says The Standard, the world of art has been trying to discover what became of one of its most wonderful treasures, and the story of its finding in a private chapel of an Italian nobleman, its sale and surreptitious smuggling out of Italy and arrival in London is an extraordinarily thrilling romance.

The picture was painted for Duke Ottiano Medici, who presented it to his relative, the reigning Pope. It remained as a Vatican treasure for many years until Pope Benedetto XIII. presented it to Cardinal Abati of Pesaro, in whose family it rested until 1851. Many attempts were made to purchase it, but with no success. Even Napoleon could not obtain it, although he threatened the then possessor, Count Olivieri Almerici.

The latter finally parted with a picture to his kinsman, Count Vatielli, who had a little chapel built for it and excluded strangers from all access to it. The picture was kept in such privacy by the succeeding Counts Vatielli that its whereabouts was forgotten. In the general upheaval in Europe during the Napoleonic wars the picture was supposed to have got somehow or other to Madrid. As a matter of fact it remained in the special chapel until two years ago when ill-fortune came to the Vatielli family and Count Braggi Vatielli sold the picture in June, 1911, to an Italian art dealer.

Documentary evidence regarding the authenticity of the picture, says The Standard, will be forthcoming.

The Diversities of the Hampton Shops

SO varied are the activities of our Hampton Shops, so all-embracing their scope, that there is not a charm of old-time furnishing which may not be brought into the home of today by means of our Hampton Reproductions.

For the originals of which these are such convincing replicas, there have been laid under contribution not only the tapestry-hung baronial Halls of Tudor England and the classic refinements of the stately Georgian Mansions, but also the sunny Parlours, with their airy grace and elegance, of the French Chateaux on the banks of the Loire or the Garonne.

35,000 MORE WOMEN WILL STRIKE TO-DAY

International Union to Call Out All Those Employed as Waist and Dress Makers.

ORDER AFFECTS 700 SHOPS

Strikers in White Goods Trade Say Employers Are Giving in and Signing Agreements.

A strike call, to be issued at 10 o'clock this morning, will, it is expected, add 35,000 women and girls to those now out in the women's garment trades. Announcement of this new strike, which has long been expected, was made last night at the office of the Ladies' International Garment Workers' Union, at 32 Union Square. Those now to be called out are employed as waist and dress makers. The strike is expected to affect not only the East New York and downtown Manhattan shops, but the Fifth Avenue establishments as well.

The vote that was announced on Monday showed there were less than 13,000 girls and women enrolled in the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, but the officers of the union say that before another day passes nearly every worker in the industry will have joined the union. In the five boroughs there are about 700 shops which will be affected by the strike order. These include 200 large shops and 500 small shops, some of them employing less than half a dozen workers.

On behalf of the Dress and Waist Manufacturers' Association, which numbers among its members the Presidents of sixty-one of the largest dress and waist establishments in the city, and which is said to represent 60 per cent. of the annual output of the industry, it was stated last night that all was in readiness for the strike, and that immediate steps would be taken to meet the situation. It was said that many of the manufacturers in anticipation of trouble had stocked up with goods enough to carry them through a strike of several months' duration. The general sentiment in the trade, however, is that the strike will be short lived, and that it will be settled without much antagonism on the part of the manufacturers.

Julius Henry Cohen, who, as counsel for the United Manufacturers in the strike of the men garment workers, advocated liberal concessions to the strikers in that industry as a basis of settlement, is also counsel for the Dress and Waist Manufacturers' Association. He is an advocate of the protocol under which the cloak manufacturers are now working, and was a party to the conference which drew up the protocol. It was believed, consequently, that Mr. Cohen would advocate a speedy settlement of the dress and waist makers' strike along similar lines and with an increase in wages.

White Goods Workers Winning.

A speedy settlement seems all the more likely in view of yesterday's developments in the strike of the white goods workers. In that industry, union officials say, there were two settlements in accordance with the union's demands. A dozen other applications for settlements in the kimona and wrapper strike, it was said, would be considered to-day. These were indications, the union officials asserted, of a sweeping victory in the near future for the 35,000 strikers in these combined departments of the women's garment industry.

According to Miss Gertrude Barnum, special agent of the union, an immediate increase of pay and a provisional additional increase six months hence were agreed to by the two manufacturers of white goods, Isaac Cohen and Louis Shepstein, each employing more than 100 garment workers. Charles Dukoff, Chairman, and Miss Annie Rock and Miss Rosie Minken, constituting the union's settlement committee in the white goods trade, arranged the settlements. Aside from the wage stipulation, the other terms agreed to include these:

The week's labor to be limited to 50 hours; overtime to be paid for at double rates; jobs to be completed under one system, either wage or piece; manufacturers to employ only union members in good standing; disputes which cannot be otherwise adjusted to be settled between the firm and a representative of the union; only contractors registered with the union to be employed for outside work; work to be distributed equally between inside employes and those working for contractors; employers to maintain safe and sanitary conditions in places of employment; children under 16 not to be employed; wages to all classes of employes to be paid weekly, on specified day.

"We will accept nothing but an out-and-out compliance with these terms," said Miss Barnum, "and all those who sign the agreement will be supplied with workers and can thus begin operations at once."

Entertaining the Strikers.

Mrs. L. C. Hartshorn of Stony Hill, N. J., and her sister-in-law, Miss Johanna Hartshorn, motored to the east side yesterday, and, working in harmony with the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, arranged for a reception to thousands of the striking white goods workers in a hall at 177 East Broadway. Chocolate and cakes were served. Mrs. John Elliott, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee of the Woman's Trade Union League, had arranged for musical programmes in the halls at 177 East Broadway, 43 East Twenty-second Street, and 302 Grand Street. A feature of these entertainments was the singing of a song written by Harvey P. Moyer to the tune of "America." It bore the caption "A New National Hymn," and read:

My country, thou shalt be
Sweet land of liberty,
When justice reigns;
When darkness turns to light,
When wrongs are changed to right,
When truth asserts her might
And breaks our chains.

Then poverty shall cease,
Wealth, comforts, joys increase
On ev'ry hand;
None shall know want or care,
Earth's bounties all shall share,
Rejoicing ev'rywhere
Oh, blessed land!

Great God, we cry to thee—
Love, wisdom, liberty,
To us be given;
Help us to see the right,
Thy children all unite,
Lead in victorious fight,
Till earth be heaven.

Other social entertainments for the striking ladies' garment workers are to be arranged.

STRIKERS GET SYMPATHY.

Ministers and Others Speak to the Garment Workers.

The Advisory Committee of the four trade associations which allied themselves on Monday against the United Manufacturers' Association in the controversy with the striking garment workers had a long meeting at the Hotel Brevoort yesterday. The committee, according to George W. Glaze, attorney, is made up of these members:

New York Clothing Trade Association—Seymour A. Strauss, William Goldman, and Eugene S. Benjamin.
The Cutson Tailors to the Trade Association—Jacob Reiss, Louis Stern, and William Arnhiem.
The Associated Boys' Clothing Manufacturers of Greater New York—Charles W. Endel, Samuel Rosenthal, and Albert Kahn.
The American Clothing Manufacturers' Association—Samuel Finkelstein, Mark L. Abraham, and Herman Lissner.

One of the manufacturers of boys' clothing said that he had invited Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes to visit his factory and take observations.

"Statements regarding conditions of work," he said, "have been much exaggerated and are designed to do the manufacturers harm. In my factory the men workers get an average wage of $17 to $18 a week, and last year, by working overtime, the men got pay for thirteen months and ten days. The girls in my shops get an average wage of $8.75 a week and not $3, as some of the union agitators have declared. Mrs. Belmont and Mrs. Stokes have both accepted the offer to inspect my shop, and they will be able to see for themselves that it is clean and that working conditions are fair."

Other manufacturers reported that from 10 to 20 per cent. of their men had returned to work since the strike started sixteen days ago.

In Beethoven Hall on Fifth Street, the headquarters of the striking cutters, there was an unusual mass meeting yesterday morning at which ministers and public-spirited men held the floor for several hours. The speakers included the Rev. Dr. T. H. Melish of the Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn; Canon George William Douglas of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine; Dr. Henry E. Cobb of the Collegiate Church; Dr. Frank Oliver Hall, William J. Schieffelin, and the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant of the Church of the Ascension.

Dr. Melish read a letter which he had received in response to his letter to Mayor Gaynor calling attention to a particular case of alleged brutality toward a striker on the part of a Brooklyn policeman. The Mayor said that he would order the suspension of the policeman and have him placed on trial.

Canon Douglas pleaded for more publicity, declaring that the facts of the strike had not yet been made public.

"The public is always fair," said Canon Douglas, "but they would like to know all the facts. Public sentiment is the most important thing of all, and if your cause and demands are just the public will support you."

Canon Douglas and Mr. Schieffelin spoke in praise of the protocol now in effect in the cloak industry. Mr. Schieffelin, who is Chairman of the Joint Board of Sanitary Control, said that he had been compelled to call twenty-seven small strikes because manufacturers did not live up to the agreement. Now, he said, everything was running smoothly. The other speakers assured the strikers of their belief in organized labor and their hope of a speedy victory for the union.

POMPEY, RECORD CLEAN, DIES

Most Famous of Police Horses, He Saved Many Lives.

Pompey, one of the oldest and the most famous of New York's police horses, died yesterday at the Post Road Stock Farm, in Westchester, to which he had been sent after his honorable retirement from active service. The farm is owned by Redmond P. Keresey, a retired traffic policeman who began to ride Pompey in 1883, his own first year on the force.

To a green patrolman was assigned a green and untrained horse, and Pompey and his master served their apprenticeship in the service together. Keresey was an expert horseman, and Pompey showed such exceptional intelligence that he became one of the show horses of the mounted squad. He acquired fame by stopping numerous runaways, after their riders had been dragged from the saddle, by shouldering in front of the runaways and bringing them to a halt.

Pompey learned many tricks from his master and was able to tell the time by pawing the ground for each stroke of a clock, pick up handkerchiefs in his teeth, and pick pockets. After fifteen years of faithful service many attempts were made to condemn Pompey, but Keresey insisted upon tests before the Trial Board and always succeeded in saving his pet. When the policeman retired in 1905 he bought Pompey from the city and permitted the old horse to lead a life of ease in his later years on his fifty-acre farm near Rye.

THREE INDICTMENTS ON ARSON CHARGES

Convicted Incendiary, George Grutz, an Agent, and Latter's Friend Named by Grand Jury.

STEIN TO MAKE STATEMENT

Agrees to Testify When Visited at Sing Sing by Weller—Johnson Gets Comparison from Paris.

Three indictments, two of which charged arson in the second degree and one the filing of a false proof of loss in support of an insurance claim, were handed up to Justice Goff in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court yesterday by the Extraordinary Grand Jury.

The indictments charging arson are filed against Isidor Stein, or "Izzy the Painter," at present in Sing Sing serving a twenty-four-year term for arson, and George Grutz, a life insurance agent and a licensed broker of the Fire Insurance Exchange. The third indictment charges a friend of Grutz with submitting a false claim of loss. All three indictments were a result of the confession of Samuel Gold, who pleaded guilty to arson in the second degree and is awaiting sentence.

Mr. Weller said that Grutz was the Chairman of a society in Harlem which had for one of its objects industrial insurance, and that it appeared that he had placed a great many fire insurance policies on furniture for members of the society, and that in many instances he had acted as adjuster after a fire or had a friend do so.

Immediately after the indictments had been found Mr. Weller left for Sing Sing, where he held a conference with Stein, who has signified his willingness to make a complete confession, exposing the operations of nearly twenty-five public fire adjusters and the numerous incendiaries who can be employed for a small sum to set a fire in any house. Upon his return Mr. Weller said that Stein would make a statement after he had communicated with his counsel and had been brought to this city to plead to the new indictments found against him.

Fire Commissioner Johnson gave out a statement last night in which he said that he had received a cablegram from President Michotte of the Bureau of Fire Prevention of Paris, in which it was shown that the number of fires a year in Paris was only about one-fifth of the number in this city. The report says that in 1910 there were 2,167 fires in Paris, of which only 9 were proven to be incendiary, while in 1911 there were 2,030 fires, with only one case of arson. During the past year there were 2,444 fires, 9 being of an incendiary nature. The annual number of fires in this city is 14,000, and Mr. Johnson says that in his opinion about 25 per cent. of these fires are of a suspicious character. Mr. Johnson also says:

"The difference in the number of fires in Paris and New York is not at all explained by the difference in the construction and the prevalence of low and less hazardous buildings. My opinion is that the difference is largely explained by the fact that insurance methods in this country are such that if there were no insurance at all, the fire waste in the United States would be cut down by one-half."

No New Trial in Kimmel Case.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 14.—Judge Grimm, in the Circuit Court here to-day, overruled a motion for a new trial in the case of George A. Kimell, the "man of mystery," in which a jury awarded a sister of Kimmell a verdict of $20,460 against an Eastern life insurance company. Attorneys for the insurance company argued that the court erred in the former trial by excluding testimony, and that the suit was barred by the statute of limitations.

ADJUSTER HELD FOR BRIBERY.

Gave $250 to Prosecutor of Arson Charges to "Be Treated Right."

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Joseph Clark, a fire insurance adjuster, was arrested to-day. He was charged with attempting to bribe Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber in connection with a Grand Jury investigation of charges of arson against Covitz Brothers, who were arrested after a fire in their place of business on Nov. 5.

Clark, it is charged, gave the prosecutor $250 of $1,000 promised if the Grand Jury was instructed to vote "no bill" in the case of the Covitz Brothers. An insurance claim of $35,000 is being held up pending the outcome of the Grand Jury's investigation.

"That money was not a bribe," Clark declared. "It was to insure that we would be treated right and have the case disposed of before this Grand Jury."

The insurance adjuster offered no further explanation of his act and State's Attorney Hoyne ordered him held pending a Grand Jury investigation.

RESENTED 'DAILY EXECUTION'

Threats the Basis of Separation Demand by Mrs. A. C. Charlot.

Mrs. Dace Melbourne Charlot, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Alice Shannon, a painter and author, and the granddaughter of William Symington, the inventor of the first rotary engine, yesterday filed her complaint in the Supreme Court in the separation suit she is bringing against her husband, Alphonse Charles Charlot, who is President of the Charlot Mines and Smelters Company, a $10,000,000 corporation in Sonora, Mexico. The summons in the suit was filed by Mrs. Charlot two weeks ago. Her husband has not yet put in an answer to her charges.

Mrs. Charlot, then only 17 years old, was studying music in New York, with a view to an operatic career, when she met Charlot and married him in October, 1907. They separated, she says in her complaint, on November 6, 1912. She accuses him with having treated her inhumanly when they were living on his ranch, near Arizpe which was called "El Triumfo." She says he threatened her life until it became an "almost daily execution."

Mrs. Charlot lives with her mother at the Rockingham Apartments at Broadway and Fifty-sixth Street. Her husband is staying at the Hotel Seymour on Forty-fifth Street.

John Bradley Also Left $100 to Every Person in His Employ.

An appraisal of the estate of John Bradley, who died on Jan. 26, 1911, shows a net estate of $137,258.52. The appraisal was submitted yesterday to the Surrogates' Court. The personalty, which is valued at $73,223.40, is composed chiefly of mortgages. The realty includes an equity in the Wilson Building at 289-291 West Eleventh Street, the whole of which is appraised at $155,000, but is subject to a $100,000 mortgage; 2,031 Harrison Avenue, $20,000, and 73 West 181st Street, $15,000, less mortgage of $10,000.

No Serious Attacks on the Rapid Transit Contracts at the Public Hearing.

Mitchel's Argument Is Postponed Until Next Monday and Bassett Urges "Operation with Completion."

A lack of criticism marked the two hearings which the Public Service Commission held yesterday on the operating contracts proposed to be signed with the B. R. T. and the Interborough for the construction of the new dual subway system. The expected attacks by President Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen, the Citizens' Union, and the Board of Estimate were postponed to Monday, when the hearings will be resumed. A few points of value were made by the representatives of local associations, but nothing that was said or done detracted from the general air of gratitude to the Public Service Commission and relief that at length increased rapid transit facilities are in sight.

In the morning the B. R. T. contract was taken up, and the large meeting room of the commission was filled. In the afternoon the Interborough agreement was considered, and a hundred of the audience could not find seats.

Chairman Willcox called as the first speaker of the B. R. T. hearing ex-Public Service Commissioner Bassett. He represented certain property owners in Queens and elsewhere. The making of extensions to the subway system, as they were needed, he said, was one of the principal reasons for entering into the present bargain, and he urged that as the responsibility for the financial success of an extension would fall on the city, the division of the profits between the city and the company should be interpreted as liberally as possible in favor of the city. In the same way he hoped that in allowing interest on moneys invested for subway purposes before the actual construction began the city should receive at least as good terms as the company.

Wants Operation With Competition.

Then Mr. Bassett wanted the provisions of the contract to be strengthened so there should be no doubt of the starting of operation on any section of the lines immediately it was completed, irrespective of the beginning of operation on the entire system, and he thought that the default clauses in the construction provisions were hardly forcible enough. He regretted that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit had the option to elevate the Sea Beach line, as to depress it would be so much better, and he urged that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit should not depend for its right to use the Queensboro Bridge on the Interboro's obtaining a certificate from the commission. Since the Brooklyn Rapid Transit and the Interboro are both to use the Queens lines, he thought they should be required to conclude their bargain for this joint use simultaneously with making contracts with the city, and that in case there was a difficulty the Brooklyn Rapid Transit should be permitted to begin operation to Astoria and Corona at once, and that the terms should be left to be settled later.

Magistrate John F. Hylan began the first real attack on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit contract.

"If it had been drawn up by the attorneys for the company," he asserted, "it could not be worse. It makes the city take all the chances of loss."

He attacked the definition of the word "railroad" in the contract as leaving the company in case of the recapture clause being put in effect, in possession of the Brooklyn Bridge, so that it would still be able to charge a 10 cent Coney Island fare. The Magistrate was particularly strong in his denunciation of the encouragement of "coasting" by motormen through the East River tunnel, whereby the Subway trains run down hill without the use of electricity or the application of brakes, and grew indignant at the laugh he raised by asserting:

"Some day a train will run off, knock a hole in the tunnel, and the passengers will be drowned like rats."

Herbert R. Limburg, counsel for the Broadway Association, expressed the opinion that the present contracts were the best and most carefully drawn of any that had been presented to the city. However he suggested that it should be made clear that the city might vary the method of construction as it saw fit, and that the arbitration clauses should be drawn up in a more stringent fashion. The Broadway Association has various suggestions to make as to the method of construction along Broadway, and it desires to have the right of the commission to follow its ideas made perfectly plain.

Attacked by Hinrichs.

After John H. Fitch had made suggestions as to the inclusion of eight-hour provisions for the railroad employes in the contract, and Audley Clarke of the South Brooklyn Board of Trade had praised the contract heartily, Frederick W. Hinrichs made a fierce attack upon it.

"I feel that the commission and the Board of Estimate in this matter have always taken the point of view of the corporations," he said. "You are reported as declaring that you cannot enforce your orders with regard to the provision of seats for the passengers. How, then, will you be able to control the larger sytem? You are about to create one of the greatest monopolies. How will you be able to control that?"

John Adikes of Queens, Stephen W. Dodge of Brighton Beach, and Thomas E. Clark of Brooklyn spoke for the contract, and then J. R. Abarbanell of the Van Siclen Taxpayers' Association raised a point, which was admitted afterward to be well taken. He protested that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit would be entitled to continue to charge 10 cents to Coney Island till the Culver line, the Fourth Avenue, and the Brighton Beach lines, and the new union terminal at the island were completed, and this, he said, was contrary to the understanding his association had had with Commissioner Williams, that as soon as the Culver line alone was improved the fare would be reduced.

In the afternoon ex-Commissioner Bassett spoke in much the same terms of the Interborough contract as he had in the morning of the B. R. T. agreement, and a hearty reception was given to Borough President Miller of the Bronx by the delegation from that section. When Magistrate Hylan, who hails from Brownsville, began to draw comparisons between the rapid transit facilities granted to his section of the city and to the Bronx he aroused the anger of this portion of the audience.

Ex-Commissioner McCarroll remarked on how strongly he had been struck by the absence of serious criticism or substantial objections. Then he himself wanted to know why the interest to be granted the Interborough during construction should be at 6 per cent. instead of at actual cost, as he understood it could probably borrow its capital at 5 per cent. He objected, too, to the Interborough selling the Steinway tunnel to the city, escaping the back payment of the taxes, which amount to about $400,000.

The commission listened with a great deal of interest to a point made by S. I. Frankenstein, who has been associated with Gov. Sulzer and his son in their legal practice, as he appeared for the Newsdealers' Protective Association.

Mr. Frankenstein pointed out that, though the contract provided that the lease of each newspaper stand should be let separately, there was nothing to prevent one firm from obtaining the lease of all of them. This monopoly might result in the raising of the price of newspapers to the public, he argued. He asked that only one subway stand be let to a single person.

Some fifteen speakers had nothing but praise for the commission. They came from all sections of the city, and were far too well pleased at seeing the traction settlement they had been hoping and working for in sight to bother about small defects. Chairman Willcox gave each his opportunity to testify to his gratitude and then adjourned the hearing till 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

SEIZE JOHNSON ON TRAIN.

Negro Pugilist Denies That He Was Trying to Jump His Bail.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 14.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, his white wife, formerly Lucille Cameron, and his valet were forcibly removed to-day by United States Marshals at Battle Creek, Mich., from a Grand Trunk Railway train bound for Toronto, Canada, for which point Johnson and his wife had purchased tickets. Johnson, at the time of his arrest, was at liberty on bail of $30,000. He was taken into custody some weeks ago on charges of violating provisions of the Mann White Slave law. His chief surety was Matthew Baldwin, a real estate dealer. Mrs. Tiny Johnson, his mother, was also one of the sureties on the bond. Permission to give bail was granted only after a prolonged contest, Johnson remaining in the County Jail while his attorneys fought to free him.

Mr. Baldwin agreed to become Johnson's bondsman on the condition that a detective follow Johnson wherever he went, the expenses to be paid by the negro.

"I had no intention of jumping my bond," Johnson said, "or in any way breaking or evading the law. I have too much at stake to do that. I was simply going to Toronto on a business trip."

Judge Carpenter, when he heard of Johnson's arrest, said: "There may be a rational explanation for Johnson's action, and the defendant must be brought into court and explain before I will act on any motion to forfeit the bail bond."

Johnson was taken to the County jail late to-night. He will be arraigned before Judge Carpenter to-morrow, when it will be decided whether or not his bail bond shall be forfeited.

When the Johnson party reached here, Johnson asked permission to talk over the telephone with Charles F. Dewoody, superintendent of the United States Department of Justice. At the conclusion of the conversation Johnson told Deputy Marshal Myers that Mr. Dewoody would allow him to spend the night at his own home.

Myers would not allow this unless he got orders from Mr. Dewoody personally. Johnson was then taken to Mr. Dewoody's house.

"Johnson, if you did not mean to stay out of the jurisdiction of the Federal Court, why did you ship two of your automobiles to Canada?" asked Mr. Dewoody. Johnson hesitated in his reply, and Mr. Dewoody gave him his choice of going to a hotel under guard of marshals, or of being taken to jail. Johnson chose the jail.

DR. H. T. PECK A BANKRUPT.

Ex-Columbia Professor Owes $160,000 and Has $260 Assets.

Dr. Harry Thurston Peck of 456 Riverside Drive, at one time professor in Columbia University, filed in the Federal District Court yesterday a petition in bankruptcy. The result of this, if it is granted, will be to free him from the $150,000 damages obtained from him by Miss Elizabeth Quinn—$50,000 for a breach of promise and $100,000 for libel.

Dr. Peck asserts that he is at present ignorant of the address of Miss Quinn, but says both her claims are disputed. He gives as his other liabilities $8,000 borrowed from his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Du Bois Peck; $500 borrowed from Frank E. Wright of 12 East Thirty-second Street, $1,670 to Thomas H. Lee, an assigned claim for legal fees; $700 to Frank S. Buhler for legal services, $20 to B. H. Caples for medical services, and $10 to Charles Friedgen of 120th Street and Amsterdam Avenue for drugs.

Against the liabilities Dr. Peck has $260 assets. He says that he has wearing apparel, including one stickpin, one pair of cuff links, and one nickel watch and gold chain, which are exempt, and 500 books, forming a professional library, worth $100, also exempt. The property which his creditors can seize consists of four pictures and certain household ornaments, worth $10; fifteen copyrights, worth $50, and contracts for royalties, worth $100, on these books: "Hilda and the Wishes," "Studies in Several Languages," "The New Baedeker," and "The History of Classical Philology."

GAYNOR FOR HOMES, BUT NOT IN FLATS

With Washington Square Association in Preserving Its Neighborhood for Home Owners.

LETTER WRITERS CHIDED

Some People Want Boys Locked Up for Stealing Rides—They Stole Rides When He Was a Boy.

Speaking before the Washington Square Association at its annual meeting held in the First Presbyterian Church at 7 West Eleventh Street yesterday afternoon, Mayor Gaynor voiced his regret that New York was fast losing its identity as a city of homes, and assured the association of his co-operation in its efforts to maintain its neighborhood at least as one where people owned their own homes and where homes were not flats. Incidentally, the Mayor took occasion to chide a few persons who had annoyed him recently.

"The other day I received a letter from the Rev. Mr. Creech or Screech," said he. "He owned some cottages over in Brooklyn—he had the misfortune to own them, he wrote, though he might have gotten rid of that misfortune by giving them to the poor. Well, he wrote that he had been annoyed by one of the city officials, my Water Commissioner, Mr. Thompson.

"It seems there were certain leaks in the reverend gentleman's plumbing, and so employes of Mr. Thompson went to see him, and he asked me if in the interest of common sense something couldn't be done to stop the annoyance. Of course, my feelings were hurt, because I appointed Thompson, and Thompson's feelings were hurt. I wrote, however, and found that Thompson's men did visit Mr. Screerch's house and did find a faucet leaking badly.

"Some think a city department should be omnipotent. One man wrote that he wanted the police to arrest every boy who stole a ride on the back of a wagon in New York City. He thought 100 arrests of the sort would stop the evil. Well, they stole rides when I was a boy, and they stole rides when he was a boy, and here we are still. To lock up 100 boys over night didn't strike my fancy a bit. As I wrote him, the police can't see every boy who steals a ride, unless we were to put a policeman on every wagon. A boy can steal a ride if he is any good at all—at least I could—without a policeman seeing him. If my sons couldn't do that I would think I could not take much stock in them. They used to steal rides on ice-wagons and everything else."

Turning to the objects of the Washington Square Association, the Mayor said:

"The object you have, of course, is local, but I suppose your horizon is really as wide as the whole city. In some way you have preserved your neighborhood identity wonderfully well. This city—or Manhattan Borough, which many people think is the city—is becoming less and less a place for residences. There are few who live in their own houses, and no houses are being built here for families any more.

"You do well to try to preserve your neighborhood here. Nearly everybody is living in apartments now. People own their houses only in Brooklyn or the Bronx or Queens. The population of Manhattan is diminishing and will diminish.

"The chief reason for the breakdown of residential sections is that the people are too finicky. They are more careful about the outside of their houses than inside. As soon as a business house or a livery stable appears even several blocks away they hang out "for rent" signs and run away. It is not so in Europe. As soon as trade breaks into a corner, they don't all run. Why, they sit on their dignity and say, 'This is my house. They can do what they like on the corner, but I have something on the inside of my house.'

"One residential section after another has given way to flat houses, boarding houses, and business, and if you people think you can prevent that down here I hope you may, and if there is any way in which I can help I will do it. Upper Fifth Avenue from Thirty-third Street up has gone so far as I can see. It has gone, I think, as a residential district because the people up there had not enough enterprise to have another avenue opened up between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, a distance of 1,100 feet, where two avenues could be placed; and every time I mention it now some of them up there are frightened to death."

The Mayor said he ached to have that extra avenue opened up every time he rode up to Fifth Avenue in his car, but that there wasn't any use trying to convince people

"You can't do everything at once," he said. "If we did, those who come after us would be lonesome."

Other speakers at the meeting were R. T. Halsey of the Municipal Art Commission and Thomas M. Mulry. Eugene Delano, President of the association, was Chairman. Among those present were Joseph Delafield, Dr. John Winters Brannan, Robert W. de Forest, Otto Bannard, John Claflin, Judge Wauhope Lynn, and George A. Hearn.

CRIPPLED SHIP LOST IN FOG.

Armenian Reports That She Cannot Find Freighter Abessinian.

The Hamburg-American freighter Abessinia, which was found disabled by the Cedric near Cape Race and was to receive help from the freighter Armenian, had been lost in the fog by the latter vessel, according to the last message flashed to the Cedric.

The Cedric was the first vessel to sight the Abessinia. She saw her on the night of Jan. 11, when the freighter was tossing about in the trough of the sea, her rudder gone, and her shaft broken. The Cedric stood by and flashed wireless messages for help, and the first vessel to answer was the Armenian, a White Star freighter, twenty-nine miles away, which offered to take the Abessinia in tow and bring her to New York. The skipper of the Abessinia accepted the offer and, concluding that his presence was no longer necessary, Capt. Carter of the Cedric once again pointed his ship for Sandy Hook.

At midnight Sunday the Armenian reported that she was still looking for the Abyssinia in the fog, but that she had been unable to find a trace of her.

Last night the Minnetonka from London made port and brought the news that the Hamburg-American liner Pisa, also bound for New York, had been in wireless communication with her and that her skipper reported that he was heading for the waters where the Cedric and Armenian had last sighted the Abessinia. Late in the afternoon the Hamburg-American Line issued a statement saying that it was expected that the Pisa would pick up the Abessinia before night.

The Marconi wireless station at Sable Island, N. S., reported at 5:50 o'clock last night that the station was then in communication with the Armenian, which was then 755 miles east of Sandy Hook. The wireless report did not mention the Abessinia.

Capt. Carter of the Cedric, when his ship reached her pier yesterday, said that the weather encountered during the voyage was about as bad as any he had ever battled with in all the years he has been at sea. At times the wind, he said, blew at a velocity of more than 140 miles an hour, and the waves were mountain high. The Cedric came through entirely undamaged.

Dr. W. E. Fernald Tells How the Simple Things Help the Feeble-Minded.

SHOWS KINDERGARTEN TOYS

Superintendent of Waverly School Explains Methods He Employs to New York Teachers.

The child in a tenement on the east side with such homely playthings as he finds at hand in his mother's kitchen has a far greater possibility for mental and muscular development than has the child with a bewildering collection of toys in the most expensive nursery on Fifth Avenue, according to Dr. Walter E. Fernald, Superintendent of the Massachusetts School for the Feeble-minded at Waverly, Mass., who spoke yesterday at the twenty-second annual meeting of the New York Kindergarten Association in the Association's building, 524 West Forty-second Street.

Dr. Fernald showed many objects especially selected for developing the senses of sight, touch, hearing and so on, and explained their uses to more than two hundred kindergarten teachers. Dr. Fernald admitted that many of the objects were but modifications after fifty years' study of the devices of Seguin, the kindergarten pioneer.

The children in the School for the Feeble-minded, he said were those who had been barred from the kindergarten or rejected by the elementary schools. For such children, the only course left was to produce an artificial atmosphere and supply special sense stimuli.

He told the story of a child apparently unconscious of all its surroundings. Finally the nurse conceived the idea of sounding a harsh rattle directly behind the child's ear, which caused it to turn momentarily.

"The nurse persisted with this and other instruments of torture of a raucous nature," said Dr. Fernald, "and in a few weeks the little child evinced interest in musical bells. Eventually gentle and sweet tones attracted its attention more than did the loud raucous noises at first."

One of the most effective means for developing the special sense of touch was a large red bag, filled with such things as rubber balls, toy dogs, blocks, and objects that were soft or hard, smooth or rough, hot or cold. The child finds great delight in reaching into the bag and producing whatever objects he is asked for. The child thus is taught to adapt himself to the sense of touch, whereas Dr. Fernald said most people relied largely on the sense of sight.

The chief stimuli for the sight sense employed at the School for the Feeble-minded were large piece of cloth making a riot of color, by which the child was taught to discriminate. Long blocks of wood painted in different colors were also used. The effectiveness of the latter was discovered by Dr. Fernald while experimenting with his own children.

"I found they could do much better with the blocks," he said, "in spite of the fact that they had elaborate toys given them by unwise relatives. While the toys lasted for a morning's form of amusement, the blocks provided them with a real day's work."

Still another method for stimulating the senses of the child was exhibited in a handful of pencils of all colors. Given the task to arrange them in their color order, Dr. Fernald said that ordinarily the child would become absorbed in them for hours.

After exhibiting and explaining all the devices for stimulating the senses of the feeble-minded children, Dr. Fernald called the attention of the teachers to the fact that with all the subjects had been undertaken the development of the motor sense along with other senses. In responding to the different stimuli it is necessary for the child to use his voluntary muscles, which Dr. Fernald called "incidental motor expression."

"If we were deprived of the power of moving our muscles," he added, "we would ultimately become incapable of thought. If we would develop the mind of the child, we must develop its voluntary muscles. The one thing that we place the most stress on is the training of them and, the wrist, and forearms.

"It seems to me that in our elementary schools there is a keen hunger for exercises of the special sense instinct which we are not gratifying."

Mrs. Kate Douglas Riggs, Vice President of the association, presided at the meeting, and Miss Susan E. Blow of Cazenovia, who introduced kindergartens into the public school system of St. Louis, spoke on "Froebel and Montessori."

DRINK MADE JADWIN KILL.

Murder of Young Wife and Suicide Indirect Result of Illness.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—The murder by Donald Jadwin of his young wife and his own suicide at the family dinner table last night in the home of his wife's grandmother in Pacific Avenue was due directly to his heavy drinking, caused, his friends said, by consumption. Jadwin, whose father was head of the New York drug firm of O. H. Jadwin & Sons, met Miss Minna Vanbergen when she was on a trip to Europe in 1910. When he returned, Jadwin accepted his father's advice to come West for the benefit of the milder climate. He came to San Francisco and at once plunged into social gayety. He became associated with the General Petroleum Company and showed fine business instinct. Soon after his marriage last June his health became worse. Jadwin continued to drink heavily and shortly before last Christmas he began to have frequent quarrels with his wife.

On one of those occasions he showed a revolver, with the remark he might have to use it at another time.

The couple rented a four-room apartment a fortnight ago and Mrs. Jadwin agreed to forgive her husbaand if he would promise not to drink for a year. He broke his word the next day—ten days ago. Mrs. Jadwin returned to her mother's home, and said she never again would live with her husband.

Jadwin drank worse than ever. Mrs. Jadwin consulted an attorney a few days ago, and it was gossip in society that her suit for absolute divorce would be begun this week on the ground of habitual intemperance. Evidently Jadwin learned of that plan yesterday, for he called his wife on the telephone. When he began to question her she hung up the receiver. He entered the grandmother's house through the kitchen two hours afterward, suddenly appeared in the dining room, kissed his wife, and then shot her and himself.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jadwin, mother of Donold Jadwin, was prostrated yesterday in her home, 126 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn. Palmer H. and Paul O. Jadwin, brothers of Donald, had nothing to say. The Brooklyn relatives knew nothing of the quarrels between Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jadwin other than what they learned through the newspapers.

STOLEN CLARKE AUTO FOUND IN GREENWICH

It Was for This ex-District Attorney Was, in Error, Indicted with Two Others.

FRITZ, GARAGE OWNER, HAD IT

Said to Have Left It at a Connecticut Estate Where a Relative Worked —He Had Been Held on Bail.

At last the automobile owned by Bert S. Clarke, of 7 Spencer Place, Brooklyn, the disappearance of which from a garage in Woodhaven last fall led to the indictments of former District Attorney John B. Merrill, of Queens County, Adam G. L. Fritz, owner of a garage at Woodhaven, and William J. Bierack, a chauffeur, has been found. W. F. Carrington, who has a fine country estate in Greenwich, Conn., and who lives at 540 Park Avenue, Manhattan, learned that the stolen machine was being housed in his garage at Greenwich and he lost no time in giving District Attorney Matthew J. Smith, of Queens County, authority to take the machine away. It was taken to Queens yesterday. District Attorney Smith said the machine was taken to Greenwich either the latter part of November or the forepart of December by Fritz, who is now under $2,000 bail on an indictment charging him with grand larceny, and Jerold King, a chauffeur. Mr. Smith says the automobile was left at the Greenwich place in the care of Leon Van Mull, a brother-in-law of Fritz and employed on the Carrington estate. It is believed that Van Mull did not know that the automobile was wanted by the police.

It is understood that King made a sttaement to the District Attorney which will probably be used in obtaining other indictments. Ex-District Attorney Merrill was long ago freed of the indictment against him.

While returning from an automobile ride in the latter part of last October Mr. Clarke and his wife had a disagreement. Mr. Clarke, who was driving the automobile, got out and left the machine standing in the road. Mrs. Clarke summoned a chauffeur, and after being taken to the home of her sister in Brooklyn had the machine sent to Fritz's garage.

Both Clarke and his wife claimed the automobile. They finally became reconciled, and a suit for separation which Mr. Merrill, as Mrs. Clarke's attorney, had started, was discontinued. When the couple later wanted to get the automobile it was missing, with the result that Mr. Merrill, Fritz, and Bierack were jointly indicted.

A week later Judge Humphrey dismissed the indictment against Mr. Merrill, who is one of the best known lawyers in Queens. He insisted that the indictment against him was spite work on the part of the District Attorney's office

INDEPENDENT WOMAN IS NORDICA'S IDEAL

Singer Doesn't See Why She Should Not Regulate a Home and Still Be an Artist.

NO "INDIRECT INFLUENCE"

"Demoralizing to Professional Life and Death to Competition," She Says—Interviewed for Audience.

There was never so quiet and attentive an audience at the Hudson Theatre as there was yesterday afternoon when Mme. Nordica, the prima donna, was publicly interviewed on the stage there.

R. E. Ely was the interviewer, and Mme. Nordica told him what she thought about equal pay, votes for women, whether women had as much chance of getting on in the world as men, what effect women in public life would have on men, and any number of other questions. Mme. Nordica gave answers that brought frequent laughter and applause from the audience.

It was not explained just why Mme. Nordica's opinions were given in this form, but it was evident that the League for Political Education, under whose auspices the talk was held, was anxious to hear her speak, and, being a singer, as she explained yesterday, and not a speaker, she would not tell her faith in the manner of a regular lecturer.

Mr. Ely began the interview by asking if women were at a disadvantage, as compared to men in a profession like that of a public singer.

"If you mean at the top," said Mme. Nordica, "I think perhaps that is one profession where women are on a par with men, or perhaps have an advantage, for many people would prefer to see and hear a woman. I think no man ever received the money paid to Patti, which was $8,000 a performance in South America and $5,000 here. The one disadvantage of women is that they are not physically as strong as men.

"In the lower ranks of the profession," she continued, in answer to another question about the chorus girl, "I think the woman has the same opportunity as the man, but she works harder. Girls do not know when they speak of going on the operatic stage that they will be asked how many operas they know, and in how many languages they can sing. There are many hours of tiresome work and much standing around, and many women have children to care for and some of them do their own housework. They have the same advantages as men in the profession, but work harder than they do."

Mr. Ely put leading questions as to woman's possession of business ability and asked the prima donna if she would be as satisfied to deal with a woman as with a man in business. The audience laughed when she answered:

"Women have not had the same opportunities as men, and you cannot expect them to come out Minerva-like ready for the fray. They will do as well as men when they have learned all the men's tricks of the trade. I have had dealings with many women impresarios and I never lost money through one of them."

She told of some States, Texas and Ohio among them, where women in business or profession were at a disadvantage because the law gave all their earnings to their husbands, but said that she believed in women being independent, because anything which tended to independence of spirit made for the advancement of the individual. She gave the names of many couples on the dramatic and musical stage who were busily engaged in living happily though married. The women in the audience applauded when Mme. Nordica said:

"There are men who have to work nights, and men who travel, but you never expect their homes to be unhappy because they are so much away from them. I can't see why a woman, if she is a singer and marries, cannot arrange her household satisfactorily. Surely, women in private life go away visiting, and I am sure the home life of artists is as harmonious as that of many people in private life.

"It sounds to me very much like intrigue," said Mme. Nordica, in answer to a question as to her belief in "indirect influence," and the audience laughed. "If I had to depend on the man of the household for everything, I suppose I might use 'indirect influence,' but I should think it would be demoralizing to professional life and death to competition."

Mme. Nordica, who sat in a large chair beside a table during this dialogue, rose to her feet when she was asked if women would ever stand by each other. She asked in her turn if a woman did not always stand by her family, if she was not the most trusted secretary of a business man, and if the 30,000 working girls now on strike were not standing by each other.

She said she believed in equal pay, gave her reasons for believing in higher education, and thought women might do well as judge or juror.

"We women expect a little leeway until we learn things, but it seems to me I have known men jurors who did not bring in verdicts according to the evidence. I think women might sometimes bring in verdicts according to the justice of the case."

She told Mr. Ely that she believed men, being stronger than women, would always be chivalrous whether women had the vote or not. She believes in woman suffrage, and she even admitted that a woman might become head of the Nation.

SUPPORTS EDUCATION BOARD.

Watson Gives Opinion on Its Authority Over School Funds.

The Aldermen and the Board of Estimate have no right to compel the Board of Education to segregate its general school fund, and specify how the money is to be spent, according to Corporation Counsel Watson, who gave an opinion yesterday to Controller Prendergast. A short time ago the Controller wrote for this opinion, saying he would have to hold up the salaries of the teachers and other employes of the Board of Education until it could be officially determined just what jurisdiction the Board of Estimate had over the general school fund. After citing numerous court decisions and quoting the law and the city charter, the Corporation Counsel said:

"In conclusion I may say that while the matter is not in all respects wholly free from doubt I incline to the opinion, from a consideration of the language used in the cases referred to and the phraseology of the related charter provisions, that the weight of authority is opposed to the existence in the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen of power to subdivide the general school fund of the Department of Education and indicate the special purpose for which each of the subdivisions shall be used.

"In relation to the special school fund the matter is not so clear and as I take it from a reading of your letter that an opinion upon this point is not necessary to enable you to dispose of the concrete situation presented to you I shall forbear the expression of any view at this time."

Plaza Auditor Goes to Prison.

PILGRIMS HONOR NATAL'S OFFICERS

Plaza Luncheon a Farewell Tribute to Men Who Brought Over Reid's Body.

MRS. EVANS SITS IN BOX

Widow of Admiral "Fighting Bob" the Only Woman Present—Dead Ambassador Lauded.

The Pilgrims of the United States gave a luncheon at the Plaza yesterday afternoon in honor of Capt. C. Greatorex and twelve other officers from the Natal, which brought the body of Ambassador Reid to this country, and 200 diners, including many army and navy officers, were present to pay tribute to the Britishers, who sail from New York to-morrow.

The ballroom, where the luncheon was held, was decorated with American and British flags intertwined. In a balcony box sat the only woman present, Mrs. Robley D. Evans, widow of Rear Admiral "Fighting Bob" Evans.

At a table in the centre of the room sat the guests of honor, Capt. Greatorex and his officers; ex-Ambassador Joseph H. Choate, toastmaster; Sir Ernest Shackleton, Rear Admiral Peary, and the after-luncheon speakers, Capt. Albert Gleaves, Commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard; Col. William A. Mann, U. S. A.; ex-Senator Chauncey M. Depew, and George T. Wilson, Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

Toast to British Navy.

After Mr. Choate had offered the customary toast to the President and the King he gracefully referred to the many courtesies and signal honors accorded to Ambassador Reid in England, especially the final tribute—the dispatch of the Natal to bring home the body of the distinguished diplomat—and then called upon Commandant Gleaves, who, on behalf of the officers of the United States Navy, proposed the toast:

"The British Navy, and His Majesty's ship Natal! May the wind blow fair and speed the ship to her own home and her own country.

"There was never a time," he concluded, "when the men of the United States and British navies were drawn closer together by mutual ties of friendship than they are at present."

All of the speeches were short, Capt. Greatorex being on his feet but two minutes, and excusing himself for his limited contribution to the oratory on the ground that he belonged to the "silent navy." In concluding he said:

"Of all the excellent fellows I have met in the United States Navy, and I have made many friends, I know that they all have brothers in the United States Army."

Ex-Senator Depew, after referring to the century of unbroken peace between the two nations, spoke in warm praise of Ambassador Reid as a diplomat who had proved a worthy successor to his distinguished predecessors at the Court of St. James's.

Wilson "Breaks Up" the Luncheon.

Mr. Wilson's offering proved to be the gem of the afternoon. After Mr. Choate had introduced him as "a man well fitted by demeanor and reputation to pronounce the benediction and break up the luncheon." Mr. Wilson rose and convulsed his hearers by starting to quote the Declaration of Independence at the British guests.

"I give you my cheeriest Anglo-American greetings," he said. "When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one naturally shy to struggle to his feet, he starts by perspiring and ends by making an ass of himself. Now, therefore, having perspired, I shall do what Mr. Choate in that chaste and elegant style asked me to do—break up this luncheon. I believe that the representatives of the dear old mother country must think that we think an awful lot of them, especially in view of the high cost of loving—I mean living. I hope they like the Plaza victuals. I hope they will carry them home with them, and in that way bind and cement that union between the two countries which we are told exists. I believe that no appropriate opportunity should be neglected, however small, for bringing together England and America, in furtherance of the motives of the Pilgrims. There is no need for a signed, sealed, and delivered treaty. The blood that flows through our veins attests it; the heartbeats confirm it."

Among the other Pilgrims and guests present were Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, George F. Kunz, George E. Ide, Gen. Brayton Ives, Lewis Nixon, B. J. Greenhut, Colgate Hoyt, Capt. John J. Knapp, William Loeb, Jr., Capt. Hugh Rodman, U. S. N.; Gen. Charles F. Roe, Herbert L. Satterlee, Robert Adam Suffern, Commissioner Waldo, Gen. Thomas L. Watson, William R. Willcox, Albert Greene Borden, Col. Daniel Appleton, A. E. Gallatin, Henry J. Duveen, and Harvey Durand.

CAT CALLS A DEATH KNELL.

Cries of Pets Lead to Finding of Miss Luff's Body.

After she had stood the barking and yowling of the dogs and cats kept by Miss Fannie Luff in her apartment on the third floor of 225 West 123d Street for three days, Mrs. Clayton Slaughter, who has the flat across the hall, went to the janitor yesterday evening and insisted that he break into Miss Luff's flat. She said she had knocked at the door frequently in the last few days and got no answer.

The janitor got a policeman and they entered with a pass key. They found Miss Luff, a woman of 60, lying dead on the floor of her bedroom. On the bed lay a parrot, also dead. From behind the locked door of another bedroom came the barks of Miss Luff's five Chinese dogs and the howls of her five cats.

It is believed the woman died of heart disease and that starvation after its mistress failed to feed it killed the parrot. Though the dogs and cats could have had no food for four or five days, the time which Miss Luff is believed to have been dead, the police decided not to break into the room in which the animals were confined until agents from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals could be present this morning.

Little is known about the dead woman. She is believed to have had relatives up the State, but had lived alone in her flat for five months. She had no friends except Mr. and Mrs. William E. Missell of 230 West 123d Street. Missell was questioned by the police and said he and his wife had met Miss Luff when they all lived at 263 West 123d Street. He knew that the woman had been a mission worker at the Home for Little Wanderers, but knew little else about her.

The furniture in the house had not been unpacked except in the one bedroom where Miss Luff was found, and in the kitchen.

Missell said Miss Luff was plentifully supplied with money and had an income. The police searched the flat and found some silverware and a diamond ring wrapped in sheets and hidden beneath the mattress on Miss Luff's bed. It was not of great value.

ORTELERO CASE DISMISSED.

Former Police Stenographer Not on Hand to Fight Dougherty.

Supreme Court Justice Davis dismissed yesterday the suit brought by James V. Ortelero, a stenographer, to recover $60,000 from Second Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty. Neither the plaintiff nor his counsel answered when the suit was called.

Ortelero was discharged on Aug. 30, 1911, after having worked in Dougherty's offices since January of the same year. His suit was brought to recover damages to his reputation. He asked $20,000 because Dougherty had said he had discharged him for incompetency, $20,000 for an alleged statement that he could not be trusted, and $20,000 for a statement he said Dougherty had made that "incidentally he is guilty of a misdemeanor," meaning that he had divulged Police Department secrets. The complaint was filed on Sept. 20, 1911.

TO DEBATE TENEMENT LAW.

Strong Opposition in City Club to Some Proposed Amendments.

Amendments proposed by the Tenement Economies Society to the tenement house law will be debated to-night at the City Club, Dr. Charles F. Chandler, George F. Canfield, Dr. William Shannon, Miss Mary de G. Trenholm, and Henry Atterbury Smith speaking in favor of them, and Robert W. de Forest, Alfred T. White, John J. Murphy, Paul D. Cravath, William Guerin, E. R. L. Gould, and Otto M. Eidlitz taking the other side.

The original purpose was simply to hold a discussion on the merits of the proposed amendments, in which only Dr. Chandler and his associates of the Tenement Economies Society would participate. A notice to this effect was mailed to all of the members of the City Club, and this notice first revealed that there was a strong opposition to the suggested changes in the present law among the members of the club. Mr. de Forest was the first member to suggest an open debate, and his suggestion led to the mailing of a second notice yesterday informing those interested of the change in plan.

EVILS OF DIVORCE SHOWN IN FIGURES

UNIFORM STATUTES NEEDED

Organization Started to Get Them—3,700,000 Persons Divorced in This Country in Forty Years.

The urgent need of uniform marriage and divorce laws in all the States of the Union to check the ever-increasing divorce evil, which, as it was pointed out, has increased three and one-third times as fast as the population of the country in the last forty years, was discussed by the New York State Marriage and Divorce Commission at the Aldine Club yesterday afternoon, and temporary organization was effected toward the end of bringing about such uniformity of marriage and divorce laws throughout the country.

The conference was presided over by Bishop Charles Burch and was attended by prominent church and social workers of various faiths and denominations. Among those present were Bishop David H. Greer, Dr. Felix Adler of the Ethical Culture Society, the Rev. Dr. Sidney E. Goldstein, assistant rabbi of the Free Synagogue, Mrs. Anna Garland Spencer of the Executive Committee of the American Vigilance Association, the Rev. Francis M. Moody, who has been leading the agitation for uniform divorce laws in the West, and representatives of the International Council for Patriotic Service. It was announced that Bourke Cockran, who had previously said that he could not join the commission in its work without the consent of Cardinal Farley, had since given assurance of his co-operation, thus apparently indicating that the objects of the movement met with the approval of the Cardinal as well as of the religious leaders of other faiths.

The Rev. Mr. Moody outlined the conditions that made necessary the passage of uniform divorce laws throughout the country.

"The Pacific Coast," said he, "has been the greatest divorce centre not only of this country, but of the entire world, and in that belt of Washington, Oregon, and California the divorce centre has been San Francisco. In the year 1912 alone there were granted in this country over 100,000 divorces. More than 70,000 children, mostly under the age of ten years, were deprived of one or both parents by divorce. In the forty years alluded to 3,700,000 adults were separated by divorce in the country, and more than 5,000,000 persons were affected by these cases.

"The bulk of these cases in that period have been in the Middle Western States, nine of which provided 632,000 divorces, or practically half of all the divorces in the country. Illinois alone provided 120,000 divorces, and for this reason we have deemed it wise to make the beginning of our movement in that State, where we now have a commission on marriage and divorce striving to bring about reform of the marriage and divorce laws and work for countrywide uniformity thereof. Pennsylvania had 55,760 divorces, the State of California 50,000, and that of New York 44,450.

"New York State, however, sent 18,169 of its couples into other States to procure divorces, and probably 10,000 more persons who obtained divorces without leaving records of their place of marriage. Thus New York's total is probably 80,000 divorces. These migratory divorces, cases sent from one State into another, constitute 66 per cent. of the divorces in Connecticut, 50 per cent. of those in New York, and 42 per cent. of those in New Jersey. Most of these were procured elsewhere than in the State where the parties lived in order to defeat the ends of real justice where there was no clear case justifying divorce.

"In twenty years 170,000 cases out of the total of 900,000 divorces were brought on with change of residence—migratory divorces. From 25 to 50 per cent. of the children in our reform schools have been found to have got there because of the separation of their parents.

"In this country there is a pressing necessity of legislation requiring every State to see to it that both the parties in every divorce suit are represented. At present 90 per cent. of the cases go by default, with only one party represented. In Reno, for example, divorces are granted on the utterly uncorroborated testimony of one party to the suit."

Mr. Moody then offered a resolution to organize a Federal Commission on Marriage and Divorce in New York State to agitate and work for a uniform Federal law governing marriages and divorces. The proposed organization, he said, was to be a central organization for State Commissions on Marriage and Divorce which have already been formed in some States, and which would meet in convention in Chicago in May.

Bishop Burch and other members of the conference expressed a belief that great opposition would be met if an attempt were made to reach the proposed aims by Federal legislation instead of through the various State Legislatures.

"Not in a thousand years could you move some of those Western States to reform their divorce laws," the Rev. Mr. Moody said. "And, realizing that, we of the West are now appealing to you of the East to help us through the Federal Government."

The Rev. Sidney Goldstein maintained that by raising the standard of marriage and divorce in most of the States of the country, the conscience of the Nation would compel the recalcitrant States, such as South Dakota and Nevada, to fall into line.

It was resolved to appoint the Rev. Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay to be temporary Chairman of an organizing committee, or if he was unable to serve, to ask Dean George Kirchwey of the Columbia Law School to do so. Mrs. W. W. Penfield was appointed temporary Secretary.

REFUSES ALIMONY PLEA.

Justice Manning's First Decision Is in Becker Separation Case.

Supreme Court Justice Manning, sitting in Brooklyn, yesterday gave his first decision since he began his duties Jan. 1. He denied the application for alimony and counsel fees made by Mrs. Jennie T. B. Becker, pending the trial of her suit for separation against her husband, Dr. Philip G. Becker, a practicing physician of 145 West Eightieth Street, Manhattan.

Argument on the application was heard by Justice Manning, sitting in Riverhead, the county seat of Suffolk County, on Saturday last. Mr. and Mrs. Becker have a Summer home in Bellport, L. I. Mrs. Becker asked for $500 alimony a month and $2,500 counsel fees. Because she has resources of her own, and admitted she was worth about $400,000, Justice Manning decided she was not entitled to alimony.

At the request of Dr. Becker the court signed an order allowing the separation action to be tried in New York County, because of the physician's legal residence there.

CRANE, 2D, NOT IN POLITICS.

At Least, He Does Not Know What His Father Said to Wilson.

Charles R. Crane, 2d, son of Charles R. Crane, the millionaire manufacturer of Chicago, was busy dodging reporters for almost two hours yesterday as the result of telephone messages received at the newspaper offices that he would have something to say about the personnel of President-elect Wilson's Cabinet. Mr. Crane wasn't in his rooms at the Imperial Hotel at the hour appointed—5 o'clock. He was rounded up at 6:30, and denied he had telephoned to the newspaper offices.

"No, of course, I don't know anything about Cabinet appointments. I suppose that talk is about my father," he said. "He is in Chicago. Do I think he expects a Cabinet position? I don't believe he would accept one."

The reasons for the interest taken in the messages that Mr. Crane had an announcement to make were found in the fact that his father was formerly a Cleveland Democrat, but repudiated Bryan, joining the Republican forces when Bryan was nominated to run against Taft in 1908. In 1909, Crane, Sr., was named as Minister to China by President Taft, and then, presumably because of something he had to say to the effect that the United States was prepared to protest against the Chinese-Japanese agreement, he was recalled while in San Francisco by Secretary Knox, and Mr. Taft accepted his resignation. Then he helped to finance the La Follette boom, gave Col. Roosevelt a little financial backing, it was said, and when President Taft's hopes seemed blasted by the split in the Republican Party, threw his support to the campaign of Mr. Wilson, sending a big contribution.

When Mr. Wilson went to Chicago last Saturday and was carefully guarded in the home of David B. Jones, until he appeared to make his address at the Commercial Club, Mr. Crane was admitted to see him, and they had a short conference. The newspaper men hoped that his son had something to say about this conference. But he didn't.

TIME FOR TITANIC CLAIMS.

Commissioner Finds Company Liability $97,772—Claims, $5,467,406.

The time for filing claims against the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, Limited, on account of the Titanic disaster was extended yesterday to Feb. 11 by Judge Learned Hand in order that the Circuit Court of Appeals might have an opportunity to pass on the appeal taken by A. Leonard Brougham, counsel for Mrs. Natsch, from the fine of $200 imposed on him by Judge Hough for contempt of court in that he entered suit contrary to a Federal injunction in behalf of his client in the State Court against the steamship company for damages on account of the death of her husband in the wreck.

Henry W. Goodrich, who had been appointed United States Commissioner by the District Court to determine the value of the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company's liability for losses through the sinking of the Titanic, reported yesterday that it was $97,772. The company had set itself to prove that it was responsible only in the sum of $91,805, the value of the passenger fees previously paid and the wreckage recovered.

Against this sum Commissioner Gilchrist had claims filed yesterday amounting to $5,467,406. They were not tabulated, but it was learned that seventy-six claims arising from loss of life amounted to $4,292,290, six for loss of cargo amounted to $208,944, and the other 197 were for personal injuries, loss of baggage, and other personal effects amounting to $966,172. The Titanic Survivors' Protective Committee has filed through Hunt, Hill & Betts fifteen death claims for $505,000, and Bingham & Engle have presented claims for deaths amounting to $260,000, for cargo amounting to $225,000, and for personal effects amounting to $200,000.

ASK COURT TO FORCE VOTE.

Republican Aldermen Seek to Fill Three Vacant Seats.

The Republican members of the Board of Aldermen sought the aid of the courts yesterday in an endeavor to compel the Democratic members to vote for the election of successors to John W. Hagenmiller of the Thirty-seventh Aldermanic District, who resigned last July; Percy L. Davis of the Thirty-first District, who was convicted of extortion last week and is now in Sing Sing, and Bryant Willard of the Twenty-first District, who died a few days ago.

Alderman Ralph Folks, leader of the Republican faction, says that all three Aldermen were Republicans, and that Republicans should succeed them. The Democrats, headed by Frank Dowling, the minority leader, say that although Hagenmiller was elected on the Fusion ticket, he went out of office as an enrolled Democrat and therefore a Democrat should be elected in his place. In order to maintain their position the Democrats refused to vote when the proposition came up yesterday, and Alderman Folks accused the opposition of "political piracy." Finding this had no effect Folks went before Justice Amend and obtained an order to show cause why the Democratic members should not be mandamused and compelled to vote. The Alderman said that under Section 60 of the Charter Aldermen who did not do their duty could be found guilty of a misdemeanor.

The order is returnable on Thursday. It requires thirty-seven votes to elect a member, and as the Borough Presidents are not allowed to vote in these cases the line-up is thirty-five Democrats and thirty-five Republicans.

Alderman Dowling quoted an opinion of Acting Corporation Counsel George L. Sterling to the effect that Hagenmiller is a Democrat and that a Democrat should be elected to succeed him. The matter was adjourned until next Tuesday in order to get a decision from Justice Amend on the order to show cause proceedings.

McAneny to Urge Park Ave. Plan.

At the meeting of the Board of Estimate to-morrow Borough President McAneny will urge the adoption of a report calling for a change of grade at Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, in accordance with the plan made by Lloyd Collis, consulting engineer of the Fourth Avenue Improvement Association. This is designed to bring the avenue to the street level at that point.

HOLDS WIFE IS BOSS, NOT MOTHER-IN-LAW

Mother May Live with Son, Says Justice Crane, but Must Not Try to Rule.

WIFE CAN GO, IF SHE DOES

Husband's Suit for Separation Because Wife Left Home Is Dismissed by Court.

Supreme Court Justice Frederick E. Crane of Brooklyn decided yesterday that in a son's home the wife and not his mother was boss. It was a crushing blow to the mother-in-law system.

The ruling of Justice Crane against the mother-in-law came in a suit for separation brought by Gardner L. Field of 125 Rogers Avenue, Brooklyn, against his wife, Adelaide F. Field. Dismissing the complaint, the court holds that a wife is not obliged to live with her husband if the husband's mother resides with them and makes the home unpleasant and distressing to the daughter-in-law. The mother-in-law, the court holds, can have no say whatever regarding the management and control of the home without the consent of the wife.

Field complained that his wife had left their home on July 29 and had refused to return there so long as his mother, Mrs. Ida M. Burlingham, lived with them. Justice Crane said in his decision:

"Is a wife compelled to live with her mother-in-law? This is the question which confronts me in this case and which by reason of the attitude of the parties I am compelled to decide. The plaintiff, a man of moderate means, has brought his mother, a widow, into his home to provide for her. Some differences having arisen between the mother and wife, the latter has left, and expresses her intention and desire not again to return so long as the husband's mother is in the house, unless compelled to do so by the law of this State. She is very desirous of living with her husband and has offered to return when his mother leaves.

While the law does not compel the son to support his mother in his home, yet it recognizes his privilege so to do if circumstances make it necessary. The plaintiff in this case has not sufficient income to maintain two homes, and the mother has not the means or ability to support herself. Under these conditions he is justified in providing a place for her in his own home, provided she recognizes that place and keeps it.

Thus she can have no say whatever regarding the management and control of the home; this belongs to the wife, and if the husband's mother makes discord where there should be harmony, interferes with the wife's control and management, even at the request of her son, or by her own improper conduct and thoughtless language makes the home unpleasant and distressing to the defendant, then the wife would be justified in leaving her husband and requiring support from him elsewhere.

The Justice then dismissed the complaint without costs.

POLE FINDERS MEET ON SAME PLATFORM

Peary Follows with Deep Interest Amundsen's Story of His Dash to the South.

Capt. Roald Amundsen, whose full story of his dash to the south pole was published first in THE TIMES, took a large and applauding audience that filled Carnegie Hall over the same expedition last night in an illustrated lecture delivered under the auspices of the American Geographical Society, the American Museum of Natural History, and the Norwegian National League.

Presiding over the exercises that preceded the lecture, Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn, President of the Museum of Natural History, told the distinguished Norwegian that New York City was proud to have him as a guest. Prof. Osborn enumerated arctic and antarctic expeditions in which New Yorkers had taken part, closing with mention of the Roosevelt, commanded by former Commander, but now Rear Admiral, Robert E. Peary, who, he assured Capt. Amundsen, had intended to lend his presence to the occasion.

Meanwhile Admiral Peary appeared quietly on the stage and took his seat with the other guests, unobserved by the Chairman, who added a few words of excuse for his absence. Hearing the remarks about himself, the discoverer of the North Pole straightway arose from his seat and bowed toward the Chairman in an effort to make known his presence. But Prof. Osborn failed to catch sight of the Admiral and finished his courteous explanation while the polar discoverer stood apparently frozen on the spot.

Capt. Amundsen caught sight of Admiral Peary before Prof. Osborn did, and beckoned him to a neighboring seat. Admiral Peary was then escorted across the stage to the accompaniment of much laughter and applause.

Prof. Osborn read a telegram from Sir Ernest Shackleton expressing his regret that a long-standing engagement prevented him from being present "to offer his most hearty congrtaulations to Capt. Amundsen on his splendid achievement in the discovery of the south pole."

Capt. Amundsen was then welcomed on behalf of the Norwegian National League by Fred Werner, Chairman of the committee representing that organization on the stage.

Admiral Peary, who was introduced next among the welcomers, admitted that on such an occasion he hardly knew what to say. "When I hear a story like that you will hear to-night," he said, "there is no word that can be added to it by any man. There is no man to-day who has achieved the same distinction in polar work, south a d north, that Roald Amundsen has achieved."

The discoverer of the north pole, evidently reminiscent of his own hard struggle to the northernmost point of the hemisphere, pleaded with the audience to look into the eyes of the lecturer as they followd him on his heroic journey to the south pole and see with him the hundreds of miles of icefields he had been compelled to push his way across and the thousands of feet of ice-armored plateaux that he had been forced to climb.

Growing more eloquent, Admiral Peary asked his hearers to follow Capt. Amundsen still on to the south and remain with him, "for days while the yellow sun swung across the white horizon until he capped the south pole."

Following Admiral Peary, John Greenough, on behalf of the American Geographical Society, presented to Capt. Amundsen a gold medal in recognition of his discovery.

"By his latest exploit in getting to the south pole he has reached a fitting climax to his discovery of the north magnetic pole and the Northwest Passage," he said, and added that Capt. Amundsen was the third to whom the society's gold medal had been awarded, the other two being Sir Ernest Shackleton and Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary. Engraved on the medal was the following inscription:

> in recognition of the value > of his magnetic observations > in the American Arctic > Achievement of the Northwest Passage > and attainment of the South Pole.
> MCMXII.

After expressing his appreciation of the honor conferred on him by the American Geographical Society, and his sense of indebtedness to the Museum of Natural History and Norwegian National League for having arranged the lecture, Capt. Amundsen proceeded with a detailed narration of his expedition to the pole, beginning with the time that the Fram started on her 15,000-mile journey until the party placed the Norwegian flag at the south pole at 3 P. M. on Dec. 14.

The lantern slides illustrating Capt. Amundsen's lecture won enthusiastic applause, but the audience was disposed to doubt the statement of the explorer that the party had a steam bath at its first depot, about two miles from the great Ross Ice Barrier, with its numerous rooms and passageways dug out eight feet under the surface of the barrier. Capt. Amundsen placed the tip of his pointer on one part of the diagram, and said:

The invited guests of the American Museum of Natural History were Admiral Robert E. Peary, Col. David L. Brainard of the Greely expedition, Gen. Thomas H. Hubbard, President of the Peary Arctic Club; Herbert L. Bridgman, Secretary of the Peary Arctic Club; Donald B. MacMillan, leader of the Crocker Land expedition; Emerson McMillin, President of the New York Academy of Sciences; John H. Finley, President of the College of the City of New York; Frederic A. Lucas, Director of the American Museum of Natural History; Sir Ernest Shackleton, and George Bird Grinnell.

The guests of the American Geographical Society were Prof. William M. Davis of Harvard University and Prof. Ellsworth Huntington of Yale University. The following officers of the society: John Greenough, Walter B. James, A. A. Raven, Edwin F. Balch, Banyer Clarkson, L. Holbrook, D. Randall-McKeever, and A. D. Russell.

The guests of the Norwegian National League were Chr. Ravn, Norwegian Consul General; John A. Gade, President American Scandinavian Society; Fred Werner, Chairman of the committee; Peter Benson, President Norwegian National League; G. A. Roberg, Juell Bie, Oskar Pettersen, B. Overland, O. Royon, Jacob Eriksen, President Norwegian Singing Society; A. N. Rygg, editor Nordisk Tidende, and G. T. Ueland.

After his lecture Capt. Amundsen was the guest of honor at a supper given by the American Scandinavian Society at Louis Martin's. President John H. Finley of the City College, the toastmaster, paid a high tribute to Amundsen for his achievements as an explorer and his contributions to science. As soon as toasts were proposed to the President of the United States, the three Scandinavian Kings, and Amundsen by John A. Gade, President of the society, a polar bear slowly threaded his way through the excited guests and crowned the discoverer of the south pole with a wreath of white roses.

REPUBLICANS FOR FUSION.

Kings Organization Proposes It for Next Fight Against Tammany.

The Kings County Republican organization, represented by the Republican General Committee at a meeting held in the Johnston Building in Nevins Street, Brooklyn, last night, went on record in favor of fusion in the next municipal campaign against Tammany Hall. A resolution was introduced by Jacob A. Livingston, Chairman of the Executive Committee of Kings County, which read:

> Resolved, That the Kings County Republican Committee favors fusion of all the political, civic, and other organizations of the City of New York opposed to the rule of Tammany Hall, at the election to be held in November, 1913.

The resolution was adopted.

BONAR LAW STILL LEADS.

Lansdowne Also to Keep His Place—Food Duties Dropped.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Andrew Bonar Law and Lord Lansdowne decided to-day to retain the leadership of the Unionist party in the House of Commons and the House of Lords respectively and to abandon the stand they had taken on the subject of food taxation in connection with the scheme of imperial preference.

In reply to the memorial addressed to him on Jan. 9 by a representative meeting of Unionists in which the abandonment of the policy of food taxes was advocated, Andrew Bonar Law, who also speaks for Lord Lansdowne, says:

"It would have been more agreeable to ourselves and in our view more for the interest of the Unionist party that a change of method should have been accompanied by a change of leaders." He goes on to say that as in the opinion of the memorialists a change of leadership would be "fatal to the interests of the party and the country we feel it our duty to comply with the request."

COX FOR POPULAR SENATE.

Ohio's New Governor Also Would Shorten Law Trials.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 14.—In his first message to the General Assembly, sent to that body to-day, Ohio's new Governor, James M. Cox, favored strongly the direct election of United States Senators, the short ballot in the government of the State, the establishment of long-term farm loans, compulsory workingmen's compensation, reduction in the hours of labor for working women, and a law based on a recent amendment to the State Constitution to shorten legal procedure.

Gov. Cox, in advocating the direct election of United States Senators, differed from the recent message to the Legislature of Gov. Harmon, who retired yesterday. Gov. Harmon did not advise the Legislature whether to reaffirm the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution or to follow the example set by the Georgia Legislature in refusing to do so. Gov. Cox advised an immediate reaffirmation.

In other motor-cars there is a repeated rebound when passing over an unevenness of road.

In the C-Six, the original type of springs converts this into a single gentle dip.

The UNITED STATES DUNLOP (Straight side) TIRE

is the premier automobile tire of the world

represents what thousands of motorists regard as the ideal type of tire.

It is in no sense a new tire.

The Hartford Rubber Works practically introduced it into this country more than ten years ago, and it has always been one of the standard Hartford (now United States) tires.

No other tire has ever been imitated so widely as has this tire, and yet in no other tire has the original principle been so firmly adhered to.

The illustration on this page is of the original Dunlop tire, stripped of any and all the so-called "improvements" which some of the Dunlops have shown.

As an indication of the growth in favor which this genuine Dunlop has enjoyed, it may be stated that the United States Tire Company has, without the blare of trumpets, actually taken care of

MORE THAN A 600% INCREASE IN SALES IN LESS THAN A YEAR'S TIME

So insistent has the demand become for this tire (in the face of the most strenuous competition on the part of other tires of a similar type) that we have been obliged to add immensely increased facilities for its manufacture during 1913.

From now on the United States Tire Company will undertake to supply all the genuine Dunlop tires demanded by the trade.

"PROGRESSIVES?"

With all due respect to the President-elect, we take leave to suggest to him that his recent utterances are somewhat too much or somewhat too little for the situation in which he finds himself. He says:

> In looking forward to the responsibilities that I am about to assume, I feel first, last, and all the time that I am acting in a representative capacity. I am bidden to interpret as well as I can the purposes of the people of the United States and to act, so far as my choice determines the action, only through the instrumentality of persons who also represent that choice. I have no liberty in the matter. I have given bonds. My sacred honor is involved, and nothing more could be involved. Therefore, I shall not be acting as a partisan when I pick out progressives, and only progressives.

The word "progressives" is still, in the public mind, a vague one. As a title it is claimed, quite sincerely, by different classes and different factions. To some it means the followers of Mr. Roosevelt as compared with those of Mr. Taft, to others the followers of Mr. Bryan as contrasted with the more sober wing of the Democratic Party. Two months ago it might plausibly have been used to indicate the Bryanites as distinguished from the more earnest and convinced advocates of Mr. Wilson himself.

From which of these groups does Mr. Wilson intend to "pick out" his appointees? He leaves the country in doubt. Does he recall the toast of his possible Jacobite forebears:

> God bless the King, I mean the faith's >   defender;
> God bless—no harm in blessing—the >   Pretender;
> But who Pretender is, and who is King,
> God bless us all, that's quite another >   thing.

Not only does Mr. Wilson say a good deal and reveal nothing, but he spreads doubt and sets people guessing, and that is a state of things very favorable to the speculators whom he holds in abhorrence. It also tends to create a feeling of distrust and apprehension, tending toward disturbance. Probably this tendency will prove to be extravagant or needless. When Mr. Wilson is no longer "elect" but actual President, and his Cabinet is chosen and he gets down to work, it may well be found that his acts will be cautious, deliberate, well-considered, and conservative. The point is that, for the next six weeks, it would be better to leave to the country this comfortable assumption, and not hand out to it any more indefinite and disquieting phrases.

HUNGER.

The Democrats in the House on Monday tacked an amendment on the Post Office Appropriation bill, intended to add some 35,000 offices to Mr. Wilson's "patronage." It was not a wise or a right thing to do.

It will be recalled that on the 15th of October last President Taft put the fourth-class Post Offices, not covered by the civil service rules, under those rules. This he did under the full authority of the statute, which gives him entire discretion. Immediately the old, foolish, ignorant, or hypocritical cry was raised that he was trying to "protect" Republican place-men from removal. His action in nowise prevented the removal for any decent reason of any or all the Postmasters covered by the order. But it did prevent their places being filled for political reasons, without adequate test of fitness. It did reduce by some 35,000 the number of places that can be treated by the new Administration as the spoils of victory. In that respect it was in full accord with the principles and aims avowed by the Democratic President-elect, and must have been hailed by him with the liveliest satisfaction.

We cannot understand what the Democrats expect to gain, even from their own point of view, by the amendment of Monday. They must have known that President Taft would not hesitate a moment to veto a bill containing such a provision, as he vetoed one containing a less offensive provision last session. And if the bill, then vetoed, should be sent to Mr. Taft's successor it could hardly receive any milder treatment. Mr. Wilson would be bound by every profession he has made, directly or indirectly, bearing on the question of pure and honest politics, to take the same stand that Mr. Taft has taken. Indeed, if the order had not been issued by Mr. Taft there is every reason to infer that Mr. Wilson would have issued it. He is fully committed against monopoly and against bosses. Here is a gross example of a most vicious monopoly in the greedy grip of a lot of bosses. These happen at the moment to be Republicans. They would be no better if they were Democrats. Mr. Wilson, who has fought with wild bosses of the Democratic stripe at Trenton, knows that. He would not, he could not, now put back in the hands of the bosses of his own party 35,000 weapons of which Mr. Taft had deprived them.

RAPID TRANSIT INDIFFERENCE.

There is a striking contrast between the activity regarding specific phases of the rapid transit situation and indifference toward the fate of the project as a whole. Those who would be affected by one route or another, or by one sort of constructon or another, are urging their various arguments as though the dual plan were a certainty, and yet that is far from being the fact. There is no way of improving the outlook by change of the dual policy, or of the personnel which has brought it thus far toward realization. Yet there is determined opposition on both points, and an excess of confidence in neglecting to meet the opposition as serious. Any change must be obstructive at best, and perhaps fatal. There does not live the man as well informed as those who have grown up with the plan identified with their names, and, if it be admitted for argument that others may qualify equally for service in this matter, yet there is not the time to educate them. A community which has exhausted its patience by waiting ten years for the fruition of its hopes is in no mood to wait another unnecessary period of any length, and ought to make its protest heard instead of indulging itself in unavailing wailings after the event which its seeming indifference fosters. What is wanted is a general interest comparable with the local interest. Both will succeed or fail together, and the general interest is incomparably the greater, for all that it is inaudible rather than indifferent.

END THE PRIZEFIGHT LAW.

Assemblyman Greenberg has introduced—"by request"—a proposed amendment to the Frawley prizefight law, which provides:

> Each of the three members of the commission shall receive a salary of $2,000 per year.

The prizefight law needs amendment. Will not some public spirited legislator introduce an amendment striking out its enacting clause? That is what Gov. Dix, who signed the law, recommended after he had watched its operation. Too much money is already spent upon the commission it creates and on the prizefights it sanctions. It has destroyed the hundred small amateur boxing clubs, which really served the interests of sport, because of the cost of the license fee it imposes. After a few months of its working Bouck White, Chairman of the athletic club of Trinity Church, Brooklyn, testified that he had "never seen such a horde "of young men driving headlong into "professional prizefighting."

Repeal the Frawley law and enact a new bill permitting boxing matches of not more than three rounds of three minutes each, and forbidding any contestant to appear on the same scene twice. That would take care of amateur needs and would make professional boxing and its attendant vices practically impossible. Brutalities do not come thickly in the first three rounds. There would be no big gate receipts, and the sustenance that makes the professional fighter possible would be withdrawn.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

The Legislature last year appropriated $500,000 to pay this State's share for the continued elimination of grade crossings. Gov. Dix vetoed the bill on the ground that money was already appropriated. But that appropriation was already pledged in contracts, and the Public Service Commission now points out that the work has altogether ceased and cannot be resumed until more contracts are let under a new appropriation.

The railroads gained their franchises to cross the highways at grade. They were graded with that understanding. It is an established principle that the Commonwealth shall bear part of the burden of expense incidental to making the crossings safe. The Commission reports that within five years 102 persons were killed at grade crossings in Greater New York. By the doing away with the crossings the fatalities on the Long Island Railroad last year decreased over one-half. It is merely a measuring of money against lives.

THE CENTRAL PARK WALL.

Some fuss has been made over the simple and intelligible proposal that Central Park would be bettered by the removal of the low stone wall which surrounds it on all sides. Agitation over the matter is needless at present. The removal of the wall would be an expensive undertaking, and the improvement of the ragged edges of the Park would increase the expense. No great sum of money can be expended on our parks until the new subways are costing the city less money. Nothing much will be done to beautify Central Park until public opinion is aroused to the need of it. The only beautification that ever will be needed will be in the direction of repairs and improvements in harmony with the original design.

The public is now thoroughly aroused to the need of forbidding encroachments in this and other parks. That is most encouraging, for it has taken many years of argument and iteration to get the public mind in that satisfactory state. The removal of the stone wall is a project for the future. It will be in keeping with the modern idea of city parks. The sidewalks surrounding Central Park will be part of it. There will be no rough, unkept places on the borders as there are now. The wall serves to keep no intruders out of the Park. They go in now at whatever point they choose to jump over the fence. The wall is not a part of the original plan. It has been tried many years, and found wanting; it detracts from the beauty of the Park. Therefore, when the time comes, it will go.

LAWYERS AND CONVICTS.

It is noted by The Columbia State that two-thirds of the convicts pardoned by Gov. Blease of South Carolina in his recent jail delivery are colored. That would be a very remarkable statement if it were not explained that the Governor's clemency had been extended to these people not on account of their color but on account of the lawyers who represented them and who happened to have the ear of the Governor, which puts an entirely different face on the proceeding. Lawyers are in a large sense officers of the court, and, while it is their right and duty to represent their clients, it is submitted that they have an equal, if not a higher, duty to the law and its administration.

Given a penitentiary crowded with criminals, a Governor easily influenced by personal considerations, and a body of shrewd lawyers representing evil-minded men, and it is almost as certain as death that there will be a happy deliverance for those who have been deprived of their liberty as a penalty for their crimes. Here we have one of the strongest arguments that could be made for the creation of a board of pardons to pass upon all questions of extending clemency to fairly convicted enemies of society. There is a board of pardons in South Carolina, but the Governor is not bound by its recommendations. If the wings of the lawyers who represent the population of the penitentiary could be clipped there would be a better chance of protecting the State from the criminals and their representatives at the bar.

THE FUN OF THE GAME.

William F. Garcalon, until recently Treasurer and Secretary of Harvard University's Athletic Committee, is credited by The Harvard Alumni Bulletin with cherishing this sentiment:

> Athletics in a college should mean a good deal more than turning out winning crews and teams, and the success of the system is to be measured as much by the number of men brought out of doors for exercise and enjoyment as by the number of games and races won.

Yale is frankly disappointed when a game is lost. It matters little whether the Yale team acquitted itself with dash and spirit—it lacked the body of the victory. Not so with Harvard players:

> For those men the fun of the game is the main thing, and they can play without the stern set of the jaw which the modern illustrator imposes on all American youth.

The Harvard Bulletin adds:

> It is a comfort that some men can take part in games without feeling that the reputation and future of the University rest on their shoulders.

The New Haven gladiators will have to swallow this. For Harvard's teams have not only played for the pure joy of it, but of late they have pretty consistently "trimmed" Yale.

THE DRESS OF THE HOME.

Prof. Hugo Muensterberg of Harvard contributes an article on "The College and the Household Sciences" to the Good Housekeeping Magazine for January. In it he tries to show how much would be gained and how much apparent drudgery would be removed from the world, if women learned to see all the elements of the homes in wider perspectives. Culture, after all, means nothing but the ability to understand every element of one's circumstances in its complete relations, and as women stand in contact with the problems of the household, it is real culture and not anti-cultural utilitarianism, Prof. Muensterberg holds, if they will understand this background of their daily activities.

Nearly $10,000,000,000 annually, it is estimated, is spent by women in the United States for household maintenance; yet it is spent, he contends, "without that deeper knowledge of the "material, its sources, its effects, its "characteristics, which would be demanded of any other large economic "transactions." Not only the economic relations of the home cry out for a higher household education of women in the colleges, but lack of knowledge of the domestic sciences has its serious bearing upon the health of the Nation's families.

Moreover, "the dress of the home "cannot be bought completed from the "tailor," the Professor remarks. In its dress the education and taste of those who live in the home become decisive. A vase or a chair may be picked up from a bargain counter, but whether it will fit into a noble, harmonious whole or introduce a note of disharmony is a matter of profound consequence in the daily living—it means the difference between aimless drudgery and a fruitful enjoyment of life in the family. The Western idea of introducing courses in domestic science into Eastern women's colleges, therefore, with their historical, sociological, biological, chemical, aesthetic, and economical information, commands the approval and respect of this member of a conservative Eastern Faculty.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Possibilities of Criticism Investigated.

If, in any assignment of subjects for serious consideration, there should come, as perhaps has been the case, to one equally inexperienced in war and in dancing the new code of conduct and attitude in the ballroom which has just been imposed on the budded Admirals in the Naval Academy, it might be difficult for him to find anything to say. Possibly he would be reduced to noting the curious infelicities which mark the phrasing of these important regulations, especially the first. It reads:

> None of the modern dances are to be performed at the United States Naval Academy under any circumstances.

That, now, is open to the gravest criticism from at least half a dozen points. The teachers of Admirals-to-be should not set for them the example of coupling "none" with "are," and how obviously unsound is the logic which, by forbidding, assumes the possibility of being "under" what stand around, as all "circumstances" obviously and always do! A captious critic might object to the use of the word "performed" and say that while the word "danced" might be unpleasant, coming so soon after the word "dances," still it would have the high merits of straightforwardness, courage, and accuracy, which the other lacks in some degree.

Viewing the inhibition as a whole he might object to its piled-up clauses as offensively unperiodic, and, digging deeper into its very substance, he might well question the justice, the rightness—yes, the tolerability, of condemning dances or anything else, merely as modern. Not a few dances certainly more shocking to refined minds than are those which Superintendent and Capt. Gibbons had in mind when he drew up his rules count their age by nobody knows how many centuries. If the midshipmen, warned away from all modern dances, took up with those that are really old! And in their natural indignation at fussy restrictions, bearing invidious implications against both themselves and their gracious companions, something of that sort is to be expected.

As for the Captain's orders to keep "their left arm (sic) straight," and to preserve a distance of three inches from their charmers and to refrain from taking "the arm (sic) of their partner (sic) under (sic again) any circumstances," those who know about such things doubtless know all about them, and would resent the ignorant comment of the imagined critic, while others would resent it still more as dull.

Reform as It Is in Hot Springs.

A dispatch from Hot Springs, Ark., where so much is done for such interesting invalids to beguile the tedium of their well-irrigated convalescences, announces the breaking there of a reform wave of a curious sort. The long-established gamblers of the town, it seems, have been carried of late through the sensation of annoyance up to the emotion of virtuous wrath by a lot of professional rivals, newly arrived, who have divided business to an intolerable degree. Therefore did the representatives of interests at once vested and aleatory go to the police, and they went not only with complaints of competition, but with definite facts as to the identities and addresses of the invaders and as to the dishonesty of their games. Properly indignant, the police have raided the objects of these denunciations and driven them out of town.

No doubt the town is the better for their absence, but there is something almost too funny in the fact that one group of men who live by gambling should have brought about police action against another group similarly supported by charging, or even by proving, as they probably did and certainly could, that the members of the second group were "crooks." As if any professional gambler ever was or ever will be anything else! As if even the most modest of livelihoods could possibly be made out of the taking of even—that is, fair—chances! As if any gambling house could pay its heavy expenses, to say nothing of giving its owners something over, without deliberately robbing its patrons in one way or another!

There may, just possibly may, be a few gamblers here and there, one or two to a country, who are content with confessed mathematical advantages, but so nearly all of them resort to secret corrections of fortune that it is hardly worth while to admit the existence of the exceptions. And, of course, the exceptions, since they "play a certainty," are not gamblers at all, but men who make a business of taking money away from fools. Between the gamblers whom the Hot Springs police aided and those whom they raided the difference, if any, must be in scale of operations, not in the quality of the larcenies committed. That is what makes the episode almost too funny.

Publicity That Is Out of Date.

It is not surprising, perhaps, that such a phenomenally speedy growth as the automobile industry should fall behind in some of its details. In the rush for business and dollars the leaders have not had time to perfect every method of organization, just as they have not had time enough to bring each mechanical invention to its final excellence. But it is remarkable that many manufacturers have overlooked the out-of-date attitude of employes who attend to a branch of their business so important as advertising. That this is true is evidenced daily in the annual show season of the motor car. Although the writers of automobile advertisements are as a rule the highest paid men of their profession in the country, the press agent of a bygone day still attempts to hold his own through blandishments which advertisers in other lines long ago abandoned. It is not uncommon for a motor advertisement to be proffered by the right hand, while a bit of free publicity is held out by the left, with the threat, express or implied, that the one will be withheld unless the other is accepted. Part of the fault may rest with the newspapers, because they were generous with complimentary notices when the automobile industry needed help. But that condition has passed. The really discerning advertiser no longer wants charity for his product, and the reading public is now sufficiently informed not to swallow platitudes or badly disguised "puffs." A skilled advertiser who fails to recognize this fact is not playing fair with his prospective customers, nor is a newspaper honest with its readers if it uses for gratuitics the space which should be filled with instructive articles about a topic of widespread interest. It is safe to say that in the long run the thoughtful advertising man will place his appeals on pages which interest and hold attention, rather than where they merely supplement transparent reading notices which are fit only to be cast aside unread.

Persistency Attains Its Purpose.

Whatever else those of us who dislike and reprehend the so-called militant methods followed by one body of British suffragists may say about their often disorderly and sometimes felonious behavior, we cannot hereafter say that until they repent and reform they will never get the hearing they demand from the responsible members of the British Government.

Reformed they have not and repented they have not, and yet the Premier, worn out at last by the war with women that was forced upon him with such deadly continuity and such reckless self-sacrifice by the militants, has yielded, has come down from his lofty perch of haughty refusal, and has consented to receive, by contenting proxy if not in person, the delegated orators of his fiercely clamorous foes.

However regrettable his surrender, there's no denying its reality. Persistence has had its reward, and these naughtiest nymphs of suffragism have attained the first of their proclaimed objects. Probably they think that the end crowns the work, and they certainly thought that it justified the means, but they cannot prove that they have not delayed, instead of hastening, the accomplishment of their main purpose. The contrary contention cannot be proved, either, so there remains much room for that difference of opinion which makes—among other things—horse races.

It does seem a pity, though, that what Mr. Asquith does now he could not have done long ago. That would have saved such a lot of trouble for himself and such a lot of suffering for the women, and the result would have been just the same.

GROCERS' PROFITS TOO HIGH?

Makes 55 to 90 Per Cent. on a Barrel of Apples.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Traversing statements of Secretary Thorp of the Retail Grocers' Association in his letter to THE TIMES, I submit that grocers in this section do not give "three pounds of apples to a quart," and they get more than "fifty quarts" from a barrel, which will weigh 100 pounds—sometimes a little more.

Lately I bought a quart of small apples for 12 cents. Its weight was 1¾ pounds, (10 apples in the lot.) At this rate, there would be 57 quarts in a barrel, retailing for $6.84. The grocer might have paid $3.50 per barrel, leaving a profit of $3.34, or over 90 per cent. If any grocer pays $5.50 a barrel for apples which he retails at 15 cents a quart—which I doubt—he then makes a profit of $3.05, or 55 per cent. If he pays $4.50 a barrel—which is nearer the mark—and sells at 15 cents a quart, he makes a profit of $4.05, or 90 per cent.

The expenses of the grocery business are quite too large, but they ought not all to be recouped out of apples. CONSUMER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I see a letter signed by the Secretary of the New York State Retail Grocers' Association, and I wish to differ by offering a statement of fact. I bought three weeks ago a barrel of Baldwin apples, for which I paid $2.75, with a 40-cent delivery charge to my residence. One barrel was bought from a grocery commission man. Retailers buying in large quantities or on yearly contracts should be able to do better. Ninety per cent. of the apples were large and fine. I know that there are different kinds of apples, but the man with whom I deal has them ranging in price from $2.50 to $4, not in any case $5.50, as your correspondent specifies. G. LOBO.

The Hen's Cackle.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In "Topics of the Times" you propound "A Conundrum for Faunal Naturalists," and dismiss as vacuous the theory that the hen's song expresses pride and exultation. You may be right, but I believe that there may be an evolutionary reason which in essence may not be far from those feelings of pride and exultation which you so easily discard. My theory is that the song may be one of the methods that the successful hen takes to bring herself to the attention of the barnyard cock. May not evolution have implanted in the soul of the cock a greater attraction for those hens which are best able to lay eggs?

If this answer does not satisfy you, I would suggest that the question should be rather addressed to the philosopher or poet than to the naturalist, although, of course, a wise naturalist is a philosopher. Why not ask Edmond Rostand? G. LOBO.

Square Deal for Colombia.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is our pledged word more sacred when given to a great and powerful nation than to one comparatively weak and helpless? Is it a more heinous offense to affront England than to despoil Colombia? If not, why should not our demand for good faith with England include a square deal for Colombia? Our treaty with the former was no more binding than ours with the latter. True, Panama has been unjustly "taken," and that step cannot be retraced, but we may make acknowledgment and financial compensation.

A celebration of the canal opening without such reparation would be a mockery and a sham, worthy only of the highwayman and thief who has successfully escaped capture and gloats over his plunder. CITIZEN.

An Anachronism.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In common with many others I enjoyed thoroughly Louis N. Parker's amazingly beautiful play about Joseph, given at the Century Theatre, and because I did so thoroughly enjoy it I hope I may be permitted to point out one inaccuracy—the only one I noted—in the Biblical drama. In the first act, where the scene is laid in the tent of Jacob, there occurs at several places in the draperies the six-pointed white star of peace to which we give the name "mugan duved." As a decorative effect the six-pointed star doubtless serves its purpose, but as a matter of record it did not originate until the time of David, 1,000 years, approximately, after the day of Jacob.

Widowed Mother's Needs.

Confident that, by renting two of her four rooms and doing sewing at home, she could support her five little children, a frail widow recently re-established her home—broken up temporarily at the time of her husband's illness and the birth of her baby. The children, especially the eldest, a nine-year-old girl, were delicate, and she felt that she must have them with her to give them watchful care. She asked help until she could carry out her plan for their support. The father died of tuberculosis, and a medical examination has proved that the health of both mother and children must be carefully guarded if they are to be kept free from the same disease. The home is to be entirely for their own use, and the mother, aside from an hour's work a day and occasional sewing for the neighbors, is to devote her time to it. The Charity Organization Society asks for $400 to help pay the rent and buy food for herself and the children during the coming year.

Gifts may be sent to the office of the society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, and will be acknowledged.

The society acknowledges with thanks the following contributions received in answer to previous appeals in THE NEW YORK TIMES. "J. & E.," $1; "T. M. B.," $2; "T. J. R.," $5; William Engel, $5; Albert Robinson, $10; Mrs. Effingham Lawrence, $10; Anonymous, $1; Mrs. J. S. Halle, $10; Nemo, $1; "M. L.," $1; Alexander, $2; Anonymous, $1; "S. M. S.," 5; George M. Colton, $25; Miss Margaret W. Keck, $10; Miss B., $3; "C. K. H.," $3; Henry D. B. B. Moore, $25; Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, $50; Miss Ethel Zabriskie, $20; Mrs. R. Elizabeth Oakley, $1; "E. D. DEATH DUES OF HEIRS.

The States Have Begun to Pass a Uniform Law.

"In this world," said Benjamin Franklin, "nothing is certain but death and taxes." The rule has been extended in later year so that men keep on paying taxes after they are dead, just as in some parts of the country they keep on voting after they have departed.

In thirty-eight States there is what is called an inheritance tax imposed upon the estates of deceased persons. In eleven States, including the District of Columbia, there is no inheritance tax. The terms of the law vary in the different States. Generally speaking, the tax is graduated and progressive; in some States the tax is limited and reciprocal. There are certain preferred obligations resting upon the estates of decedents in all the States, such as funeral and administration expenses, doctors' bills, taxes, &c., and certain exemptions, according to consanguinity, and certain rates, according to the value of the estates. In New York, for example, property to the value of $5,000 is exempt from this tax to parents, husband, wife, child, descendants, brother, sister, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, or adopted child. The excess rates are, up to $50,000 1 per cent.; $50,000 to $250,000, 2 per cent.; $250,000 to $1,000,000, 3 per cent., and above $1,000,000 4 per cent. To other heirs than those noted property of the value of $1,000 is exempt, and on the excess of the amounts above noted the rates are 5, 6, 7, and 8 per cent. In Utah there is no inheritance tax on estates of $10,000; on all estates above that value the tax is 5 per cent. In some of the States there is a sort of arithmetical progression in fixing the rates on estates accruing to remote or collateral inheritors running as high as 15 per cent. In Delaware, Iowa, Maryland, Missouri, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, Vermont, and Virgina the estates go to the husband, wife and lineal descendants. In some cases the estates going to direct ancestors and certain dependents are exempt from taxation. As to all other heirs, the inheritance tax is graduated according to relationship. In Alabama, Arizona, the District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Mississippi, Nevada, New Mexico, Rhode Island, and South Carolina there is no inheritance tax.

In the opinion of Prof. Charles J. Bullock of Harvard University "the taxation of inheritance is no longer a debatable issue, but must be accepted as an accomplished fact of American finance." It has been proposed and defended, not only because it could be made a great producer of revenue but also because it could be used as a means of regulating the distribution of wealth. The rate of taxation Jones, alive, would have to pay on his estate would be regulated by the rate paid by all his neighbors, the theory being that taxation must be uniform and equal; but the Jones estate, Jones being dead, is an entirely different matter. "If swollen fortunes," says Prof. Bullock, "are to be reduced to reasonable size by inheritance taxation, the rate imposed upon all successions, direct even more than collateral, must be raised to a very high figure. From 2 or 3 per cent. the tax levied upon large estates must advance to 10, 20, or 30 per cent., and perhaps more, before it can have the desired effect; and it must apply to property passing from husband to wife, father to child, or brother to sister." The adoption of such a policy might be described as a form of confiscation or benevolent assimilation of a distinctly socialistic quality.

The Harvard professor holds that the inheritance tax should be reserved for several States, and that "its function should be to raise revenue and not to reshape the distribution of wealth." There has been much discussion as to whether or not this tax should be a State tax or a Federal tax, and also as to how double taxation can be eliminated. The report of the committee on a model inheritance tax law made to the International Tax Association two years ago notes the fact that while a large number of States avoid double taxation by confining the inheritance tax to the property of a resident decedent and such property of a non-resident as is physically within the State. Several States have maintained the practice of double taxation by taxing certain tangible property, such as the shares of stock, and in some cases the registered bonds of corporations organized under their laws, although such property is owned by the estate of a non-resident decedent and physically without the State. "A most flagrant offender in double taxation," the committee complained in their report, "under the inheritance tax law is the State of New York." The act passed by the Legislature of 1910 permitted "double taxation to the extent of 25 per cent. of certain bequests in excess of $1,000,000, even if this same property may have been subject to a tax of 15 per cent. in any of four other States which might have been the domicile of the decedent." An effort has been made to secure the adoption of a uniform inheritance tax law in all the States as a measure of common justice and as "an incentive to inter-State comity." There appears to be no doubt that there is great room for improvement in the latter respect at least, and there has been improvement. Under the model inheritance tax law passed in 1911 New York can no longer tax the securities of a non-resident. This law was drafted by a committee of seven of the National Tax Association, consisting of Lawson Purdy, A. C. Pleydell, E. L. Heydecker and several college professors. Under this law there is no double taxation, the State imposing an inheritance tax only upon real estate, whether owned by a resident or non-resident, and upon tangible personal property. The same law has been passed in Massachusetts and will probably be passed by Connecticut next year. In Connecticut there is now a reciprocal provision in the existing law exempting securities of residents of States that exempt the securities of residents of Connecticut.

A recent case in the administration of the law in this State has caused much interest. A man whose home and place of business was in the State of Virginia and who was engaged in a number of financial transactions here deposited with his bankers and agents valuable stocks and bonds as security for the money required by him in his financial transactions. Dying before his transactions had been closed and before the model law of 1911 was passed, his securities deposited with his agents in New York were held for an inheritance tax to the State of New York, although he was at the time of his death and had always been a resident of the State of Virginia. The rule adopted in this case seems to be against both public policy and State comity. The securities in this case could not have been taxed here while the owner was living; why should they be taxed, the owner being dead? In his report for 1910 Controller Williams pointed out the double taxation feature of the New York law which levies a tax upon the transfer of stock owned by non-residents in New York corporations, even though the State in which the decedent resided has levied a tax upon the same property by including the value of the shares as part of his estate. Foreign capital seeking investment in New York through banking houses which would under normal conditions prefer to place such investments in stocks of domestic corporations has been invested in the stocks of corporations domiciled in other States, and as Controller Williams said: "No argument is needed to show the effect which a continuation of the present law will have upon the corporations domiciled here." Financial circles in this city quickly perceived the damaging effects of the law, and in June last year, and within one year after the law of 1910 was passed, declared that there had been withdrawn from the State in securities and cash $400,000,000. Any law which would bring about such a result could hardly be called "good business," whatever other description might be applied to it. J. C. H.

DOCTORS' NEW SOCIETY

Organized to Care for Their Economic Needs.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The medical profession has initiated a movement for the proper study, consideration, and control of its economics by organizing and incorporating, under the laws of this State, the American Society of Medical Economics. This society will devote its energies solely and exclusively to its express purpose, leaving the study of the questions bearing upon the scientific and experimental sides of medicine to others. Membership in the new society will include all duly licensed practitioners of medicine of whatever school of practice. It aims simply to unify in economic matters the entire medical profession.

It will thus become possible to develop a degree of concerted medical activity to protect the general public against ignorant, improper, and corrupt legislation, medical frauds, the substitution of drugs in the dispensing of physicians' prescriptions, the sale of impure drugs and foods, and general quackery. The society has provided for the immediate establishment, through the development of branch societies which will ramify through every State in the Union, of a National body. The high character and professional standing of its incorporators reflect the earnestness and integrity of purpose with which each member of the organization has begun the work, the duty assigned him. The society was incorporated and organized Dec. 18, 1912. Its President is E. Eliot Harris; Vice Presidents, A. T. Bristow, W. F. Campbell, Smith Ely Jelliffe, T. F. Reilly, T. K. Tuthill; Secretary, S. D. Hubbard; Treasurer, Royal S. Copeland; Historian, William J. Cruikshank. The Chairman of its Committee on General Economics is L. Pierce Clark; Professional Conduct, J. R. Kevin; Medical Charity, W. S. Thomas; Education and Statistics, Alfred S. Taylor; Legislation, J. E. Wilson; Food, Drugs, and Sanitation, S. J. Kopetzky; Ways, Means, and Inspection, Russell S. Fowler; Special Business, Irving W. Voorhees.

The medical profession, the highest in human service, is in a critical period of its history. Its business methods are so inadequate that its finances are impaired and its high standing is threatened by the makeshifts of young practitioners to get a bare living and by unprofessional competition.

Just as the Federal Government conserved the Governments of the States, taking to itself only such functions as could best be exercised by a central body, so a society for the management and control of medical economics would not weaken nor destroy existing medical associations, but would operate to further the good of all.

CANNED GOODS SAFE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is an injustice to packers to poison the public mind on canned goods, as most of the goods packed in these canneries are a great deal cleaner than the fresh vegetables prepared in some of our restaurants and private kitchens. I have worked as a child in one of these tomato and corn packing houses, and have done every branch of the work from the gathering of the fruit to the labeling of the cans. I have visited many houses other than the one in which I worked, which was owned and operated by my father, but never have I seen or heard of any such conditions as described by the witnesses before the House Rules Committee, nor have I ever had any knowledge or experience of people being underpaid. There was not a child over 12 years of age, or any adult, who could not make $1 per day, twelve hours constituting a day. Only in the rush part of the season did the house run more than four days per week; the night work was seldom done. Waste and tired workers made it unprofitable.

Spoiled or impure fruit is easily discovered in a week's time by the can swelling. It would be gross carelessness, and also additional labor, to have these goods impure. At no time do they leave a table or other receptacle without cleaning; these are thoroughly cleaned every day. The packer would do this even if he had no regard for the health of the public; he would do it for the preservation of his canned product.

The packing houses are easily cleaned; there is never any congestion, bad light, or lack of air, as a great deal of the work is done in open sheds. I would not hesitate to eat any of the goods packed in houses I have visited, having visited many each Summer during the last eighteen years that I have lived in the city. The conditions described by these eminent witnesses must be exaggerated or extremely remote cases. J. B. S.

Ex-Congressman Bennet's Statement.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES of Jan. 13 Assemblyman Cuvillier is quoted as having said that I appeared before Gov. Dix to advocate the pardon of one Kate Hicks. It would be hard for me to believe that the Assemblyman was correctly quoted. At any rate I did not so appear.

I did give the Assemblyman, who was formerly a clerk in my law office, a note to the Secretary of the Committee of Fourteen, of which committee I am a member, indorsing the Assemblyman's credibility and saying, in substance, that on the facts as stated to me the Assemblyman seemed to have a good case. The facts, as stated to me, were that the woman had already served a year, and was near death from an incurable disease; that it was simply a question whether she should die in prison or at home.

The reason why the committee interfered was that the conviction had been secured largely through the committee's effort. But I did not appear for Kate Hicks, either before the Governor or elsewhere, but simply referred the Assemblyman to our secretary with the comment already given.

Eighty-sixth Street Trolley Line.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In conjunction with your comprehensive map in yesterday's TIMES showing existing and prospective lines of rapid transit, it strikes me there is crying need of an extension of the trolley now running along the transverse road through the Park to Eighty-sixth Street and Central Park West to the Subway at Broadway, thus opening up a little more communication east and west in that great section.

A PAEAN OF PEACE.

Let the battle-drums be silent,
  And the battle-flags be furled,
And the guns no more be violent,
  And the shells no longer hurled.
Let the swords be hammered over
  Into Labor's useful tools,
Sow the camps with corn and clover,
  Change the arsenals to schools.

Close the grim and gory pages
  Of the records of the past;
Man has climbed through countless ages
  And has reached the light at last.
He has learned the greatest glory
  Is to save and not to slay.
And a hero's proudest story
  Is the toiler's humble day.

Let the gospel of creation
  Be the creed of honest toil,
Let the pride of every nation
  Be the conquest of the soil.
Ancient wrongs will all be righted
  When the battle-thunders cease,
And the races stand united
  In a brotherhood of peace.

'THE WOMAN OF IT' AND THE MAN OF IT

In an Amusing Little Play That Is About as Thin as a Champagne Wafer.

AND IT IS NEATLY ACTED

THE WOMAN OF IT, a comedy, by Frederick Lonsdale. At the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre.

Jackson	George Putnam
Hon. Gerald Bayle	Cyril Scott
Lord Wynlea	Wallace Erskine
Lord Emsworth	Dallas Anderson
Lady Emsworth	Josephine Brown
Hon. Mrs. Bayle	Janet Beecher
Mr. James Spofforth	John P. Campbell
Griffiths	Louis Golden

When Mr. Frederick Lonsdale's little play was done in London it was called "The Best People," which was a much better title for it than "The Woman of It," which really doesn't fit. For there is about as much "the man of it" as the "woman of it," assuming them all to be, what they really are, society philanderers with nothing much to do but get into mild sorts of difficulty. Indeed, that is at once the merit and the demerit of Mr. Lonsdale's play. What does happen for the most part is as light as air and as thin as a champagne wafer, and about as pleasant. But one can have too many champagne wafers. And three acts with nobody really doing much but chatter is something too much of the same sort of thing.

In other words, "The Woman of It" is one of those light, airy, little trifles that succeed in being rather amusing sometimes and just fall short of being completely satisfying at any time. Its two couples of misunderstanding young married folks belong to the idle rich class, and as one husband is a brute, or seems so to his wife, and one wife, a gadabout, or seems so to her husband, there is the usual play for sympathy on both sides. In the one case—that of Husband No. 1—it was at a particularly stupid supper party that he first heard the abused wife's sad story of her life. Whereupon he grew unduly sympathetic. In the case of his wife it was in a moonlit garden with a violin playing that she allowed herself to be kissed by the handsome young man who had shaved off his mustache in prompt recognition of her interest in him. But this wife of the second part, being a loyal little soul, had immediately taken boat for England, arriving just in time to uncover her husband's arrangements for a supper party laid for two in the hitherto hallowed precincts of her own smart little flat. And as there is a man about who has been trying desperately to flirt with her she asks him to sup with her at about the same hour, sends word to the caterer to lay covers for four, and is conscious of having prepared a lovely surprise for guilty hubby and the unknown woman.

There is humor in the wife's discovery of the identity of her own husband's guest, and more humor in the other husband's arrival, whereupon wife No. 1 magnanimously protects her, and so arranges things that it shall appear that the two men alone have been guilty of impropriety. And for two acts the fun, though thin, is rather good. But the process of patching things up occupies a great deal of time, much of which seems wasted.

There was nothing as funny in Mr. Lonsdale's play as an incident that occurred during the progress of the last act, when, possibly ten minutes before the final curtain fell, a young man who writes plays, was ceremoniously ushered down the aisle. As he paused beside the third row, half a dozen people rose to let him pass, whereupon the polite young woman usher scanned the coupon and remarked audibly:

"It's for to-morrow night."

And then the young man was ceremoniously ushered out again and the row of people resumed their seats.

During the commotion one critic, hitherto somnolent, awoke and laughed right out in meeting.

The play was neatly acted throughout, Miss Janet Beecher, prettier than ever and most charmingly gowned, playing with a good sense of comedy and that sure suggestion of breeding and good taste that is so very rare. Both Dalls Anderson and Cyril Scott played capitally, and Wallace Erskine did excellent service. Miss Josephine Brown, though pleasant enough at times, was rather superficial on the whole.

Last night was a notable one in the Winter's entertaining, and there was a round of brilliant affairs.

Mrs. Vanderbilt gave her first large entertainment of the season at her residence, 2 West Fifty-eighth Street. This was in the nature of a dinner and dance given for her great-niece, Miss Margaret L. Schieffelin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jay Schieffelin, who made her formal bow to society at a reception which her mother gave in December.

The dance was preceded by a dinner for seventy guests, many of whom were of the younger set. They were seated at six tables in the dining hall, each table having a large bowl of red, yellow, and pink roses as a centrepiece. The additional guests invited for the dancing began to arrive about 10:30. Several dinners were given by other hostesses before the dance, including one by Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly.

Mrs. George Jay Gould was a dinner hostess at her town house, 857 Fifth Avenue. There were seventy guests at the dinner, which was served in the dining hall on the ground floor at two long tables, which had high decorations of yellow orchids, buff roses, and farleyance ferns. Nahan Franko's Orchestra played in the entrance hall behind a screen of growing plants. The Regency room was decorated with American Beauty roses in tall vases. After dinner Mr. and Mrs. Cassels danced for the entertainment of the guests.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt also entertained at her house, 677 Fifth Avenue, last night. A dinner for eighty guests preceded a musical, at which Miss Frieda Hempel of the Metropolitan opera company sang, and Ysaye, the violinist played. The dinner guests sat at eight tables, which were placed in the dining hall and the adjoining room. Each table was decorated with a silver cup filled with radiance roses.

The musicale was held in the ballroom, at the entrance to which stood two large Japonica trees. The large marble mantelpiece in the ballroom was banked with lilies of the valley and radiance roses. The guests for the musicale were invited for 11 o'clock. Miss Hempel sang the aria from Ernani and Gounod's "Ave Maria," also songs by Richard Strauss, Humperdinck, and Mozart.

Mrs. Stuart Duncan was hostess at a dinner and dance at her residence, 3 East Seventy-fifth Street. There were eighty guests at dinner, including many of the younger element, the table decorations consisting of pink roses and ferns. The mantelpieces in the ballroom were also decorated with pink roses. The orchestra played in the conservatory opening off from the ballroom. About 160 additional guests were invited for the dancing.

MME. CLARA BUTT'S RECITAL.

Hoarseness Prevents Kennerly Rumford from Appearing with Her.

It was the New York climate and its recent unseasonableness, presumably, that interfered so seriously with the plans for the song recital to be given yesterday afternoon by Mme. Clara Butt and her husband, Mr. Kennerley Rumford. A placard at the door and a notice on the sheet of words announced to the audience that Mr. Rumford was suffering from severe hoarseness, and that in his place on the programme Mr. Gaston Déthier, who by this time is a New York rather than a Belgian violinist, would play.

Mme. Clara Butt's programme, in which the nicest taste in selection and grouping was not shown, gave a generous offering of songs in a large variety of styles, from Italian operatic airs by Handel to songs by Schubert, Schumann, and living French and English composers. The English contralto's voice was at its height in volume, power, and richness of quality. It is seldom that a contralto voice so true to the real contralto type in quality and timbre, as well as in range, is to be heard. It is likewise a voice of great beauty when it is heard at its best; which, unfortunately, Mme. Butt does not always permit, in consequence of certain peculiarities of her tonal productions, which have already been dwelt upon sufficiently; her occasional forcing, and some resultant throatiness of quality. These are blemishes upon one of the most remarkable organs of the present day. But the large and expectant audience that gathered to hear her found much to delight and to amaze them in her singing.

In the Italian airs from Handel's "Sosarme," "Rendi 'l Sereno," and "Alessandro," "Lusinghe piu care," her singing of the airs themselves was, for the most part, better than her declamation of the recitatives so far as concerned purity of tone, and the "divisions" of the second air were sometimes faulty in her failure to maintain a pure quality of tone in them throughout. There was, nevertheless, a sense of dramatic power and sweep in these interpretations that took the listeners captive. "Der Nussbaum" of Schumann would hardly appear to be an appropriate song for Mme. Butt's style, but her singing of it had, perhaps, some unexpected merits in conveying its spirit. More in her line were Schubert's "Die Allmacht," in which all her power and depth of tone were expended, and "Der Wanderer," also powerful and deep, which she added in response to enthusiastic applause. She hardly succeeded in presenting convincingly the simplicity and naïveté of the Breton folk song "L'Angelus" in Bourgault-Ducoudray's arrangement, nor quite all the subtle suggestion and charm of Debussy's "Mandoline." The recitative and air from his cantata, "L'Enfant Prodigue," she sang with great dramatic fervor and outpouring of voice. English songs by Graham Peel, Loughborough, and Franco Leoni closed her list. In all of them, and in all the four languages which she used, the clearness of her diction was a notable feature of her singing.

Disappointment at the absence of Mr. Kennerley Rumford was assuaged as far as might be by the artistic, sincere, and self-possessed playing of Mr. Déthier, whose contributions to the programme were a suite by Sinding, the adagio from Brahm's D minor violin sonata, Kreisler's arrangement of a prelude and air by Pugnani, which brought him a summons for an additional number, and a Spanish dance by Sarasate.

THE KNEISEL QUARTET.

Brahms, Loeffler, and Grieg Played at the Third Concert.

Mr. Kneisel's programme for the third concert of his quartet last evening was in the modern vein, but not the aggressively modern that sometimes causes darkened brows and gloomy thoughts and regretful sighs, when he preaches the evangel of the new and wholly unfamiliar. Brahms's quartet in C minor, which has repeatedly figured on Mr. Kneisel's programmes, has not lost any of its freshness or power, nor any of its characteristic originality. It could be only Brahms. Some have found it stern and forbidding music, or at least the first and last movements. They do not seem so as the Kneisel Quartet plays them; they seem vigorous, even drastic, strong, masculine music; and yet even these "corner movements," as the Germans call them, are breathed upon by the romantic spirit that penetrates so deeply into the Romanze and the Allegretto. And Mr. Kneisel plays this music with authority. He knows, and can say of his interpretations, so Brahms has heard it played and so he wished it—for, there was here a direct laying on of hands.

He can say the same, too, of Charles Martin Loeffler's quintet in F major, which was the second number on the programme. He has played it in New York before, but not since 1902. It dates at least as far back as 1895. It is, in fact, "early Loeffler." There are few composers of real stuff who do not show by their growth in art differences in style. Mr. Loeffler at this period had not listened to the siren notes of the whole tone scale, and his harmonies and harmonic progressions in this composition inflict no torture now, even upon ears that lag a little behind the advance guard. What he had listened to, to good purpose, were the folk songs of Russia, and many if not most of the themes in this quintet are derived from that source. They are full of an individual flavor and beauty of their own, and Mr. Loeffler's use of them has been skillful and imaginative. He has used them as thematic material out of which he has, by the workings of a creative and by a true development, and artistically sensitive mind produced music that profoundly impresses through its beauty and originality. It is singular in form, for there is but one movement, in which the composer has said all he has to say. He has employed the unusual combination of three violins, viola, and violoncello, and has produced a rich tonal fabric, something of remarkable sonority and varied tonal coloring, and peculiarly apt in the expression of his musical thought.

In the quintet Mr. Kneisel and his associates had the assistance of Mr. Samuel Gardner, violin, who seemed worthy. There was at the end Grieg's vehement and sometimes boisterous string quartet, which has been in the repertory of the Kneisel Quartet for many years.

THEATRES COULD AID CHARITY

Maximilian Toch Explains System in Vogue in France.

The annual meeting of subscribers of the Sanitarium for Hebrew Children at Rockaway Park was held yesterday at the Hebrew Charities Building, 356 Second Avenue. President Maximilian Toch urged the claims of the charity, explaining that in France every amusement ticket is sold at an advance of 10 per cent. on box office prices, and that this 10 per cent. goes to the support of charitable institutions. Mr. Toch said that in New York $50,000 is spent every night in amusements, in round numbers, $21,000,000 a year, which would, on the French plan, be $2,100,000 a year for the benefit of charities similar to the sanitarium.

"There are some people," said Mr. Toch, "who do not believe the charitable institutions ought to have public benefits or amusements or fairs for the purpose of adding to their income, but how are we going to get along, and how are we going to support our institutions if we cannot increase our membership dues, and if we cannot get those city officials who have charge of the disbursements of the funds to understand that every year the number of our inmates increases and our expenses increase with the high cost of living? Personally I sometimes feel that I am at my wits end to know what to do to get more money to run the institution of which I have the honor to be President, and if I could enlist the assistance of a number of public men to adopt the plan which is in vogue in France I feel sure that there would be no more trouble and no further hardships to those of us on whom the responsibility of the charitable institutions rests, and we would have all the money we need."

Maximilian Toch was re-elected President of the institution, and the following were elected Directors: Leopold Prince, G. Richard Davis, Harry N. Kohn, Louis J. Halle, Abraham Benedict, Sam A. Mayers, W. F. Fuerst, H. M. Goldfogle, N. Oberndorfer, John Palmer, Edward Jacobs, Milton J. Sanger, Julius Janowitz, Nathan B. Stern, Jacob Lauchheimer, Leonard L. Stein, Julius A. Lewisohn, and S. L. Stein.

YALE PROM DANCED IN ITALIAN GARDEN

SIXTY BOXES GIRDLE ROOM

Each Resembles an Italian Cottage with Canopy of Blue—New York Society in Throng.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 14.—Yale's gayest and biggest junior promenade in the history of the event that forms the climax of the university's annual social week was danced to-night in the Second Regiment Armory, which the decorators' art had transformed into a Florentine garden, exquisitely designed. The shading of the 5,000 electric lights was delicate and subdued, a landscape painting of an Italian garden forming the background for the balconies. Girdling the armory the sixty boxes resembled each an Italian cottage with canopy of blue bunting outlined by lattice work, from which hung large electric baskets. The pillars supporting each box upheld a marble lion. The absence of athletic trophies in the decorations was conspicuous, Yale having practically nothing to show for its year's season in sports with which to decorate its promenade hall.

Easily a thousand couples were marshaled for the grand march, and more than that number of dowagers and chaperones crowded the Florentine garden boxes. Leading the march fell to the honor of Miss May Atkinson of Atlanta, Ga., partner of Henry Holman Ketcham of Brooklyn.

Mr. Cruikshank was a good newspaper man. Those qualities, together with his modesty and with a sense of humor which guided his own estimate of his relations to his work and to his world, made Mr. Cruikshank heartily liked by his fellow workers, by the members of this Association, and by the men of affairs with whom he came in contact. He had thoroughly well earned the success which came to him, and he will be missed both as a newspaper man and as a citizen from whom much good work was confidently expected.

CROSS AND RIVERS DRAW IN FAST BOUT

New York Boxing Fans See Mexican Almost a Victor in the Last Round.

Manhattan Casino Packed and Hundreds of Persons Turned Away, Unable to Gain Admission.

The question of supremacy in boxing between Leach Cross and Joe Rivers remains open to debate. Before a crowd which filled the Manhattan Casino to the rafters last night New York's dentist-boxer and the sensational Mexican, making his debut in the East, battled through ten hard rounds without either showing to decided advantage over the other. Both boys showed every bit of boxing ability that they possessed.

Picked as likely to show more action than any lightweight bout that has been staged in New York in many months, this contest upset tradition and proved just as good as it was expected to be. It did more than that, for it surpassed the expectations of the most exacting, and sent thousands away from the Empire A. C. without a disappointment. No boxing exhibition between boys of any class has shown more real action than Cross and Rivers crowded into their thirty minutes of work.

The little Mexican looked like a loser as he extended his hand to Cross at the beginning of the final round, but he finished in a blaze of glory that almost turned the bout in his favor. He also left the impression that in a long contest he would prove the master over the New York veteran. In that closing chapter Cross underwent one of the most severe experiences he has been called upon to face during his boxing career, but he met the issue with the same strength and courage that Rivers had exhibited in two of the previous rounds. If Rivers had cut out such a pace earlier there is little doubt of his being returned the winner. At the same time it is next to impossible for any boxer to follow such a pace for a much longer time. That final bell was the most welcome noise Leachie had heard in some time.

Physically, Rivers seemed to have the advantage over the New York boy. He lacked about two inches of Cross's height, but he was not lacking in the matter of reach. Cross showed that he is a legitimate 133-pounder by going below this mark and putting up the greatest bout in his career. Both boys had posted forfeits of $1,000 to make 133 pounds at 9:45 o'clock, and each scaled a few ounces above 132 pounds.

At long range Cross excelled the Mexican, but as soon as they came to close quarters Leach sank far into the background. Rivers relied on his choppy punches to the body, and whenever the boys came into a clinch Cross's business consisted principally in keeping those triphammer arms from doing any damage. He succeeded quite well, but he had to take a few punches to the midsection which hurt him.

Cross scored the only knockdown of the bout, but both boys hit the floor in the closing rounds as the result of their overanxiousness to land a telling punch. The knockdown came in the second round, and for a time it seemed as if the Mexican was due to take his place among Cross's long list of knockout victims. As the boys came to the centre of the ring after the bell sounded Cross sent in a terrific hook to the Mexican's face, which jarred Joe all the way to the floor. Before Rivers had fairly settled on his feet Cross whipped over another and it landed flush on River's right cheek. The Mexican went down like a shot, and he took the count of four before getting up. Cross tore after him in an effort to follow up this advantage, but Rivers covered well and weathered the storm safely.

Rivers encountered another stormy session in the eighth round, and again seemed to be on a fair way to that ten-second or longer snooze, but his wonderful strength again pulled him through safely. He was not floored in this round, but he was jarred considerably, buffeted around the ring, and driven to the ropes under an onslaught of puches, which would have proved too much for any other lightweight. The house was in an uproar over what appeared to be a certain victory for Cross, but Rivers rallied quickly, and before the bell sounded he was hitting up a pace just as fast as Cross.

These were the only chapters in which either showed to any great advantage over the other up to the final round. Rivers had outboxed Cross in some of the rounds, but had taken more punishment than he had inflicted on the dentist, and a wonderful rally was needed to take victory from Cross. The New Yorker had no intention of letting anything slip at this stage, as he showed by carrying the work to the Mexican as a starter of the tenth, but he was sadly disappointed. Rivers had shown up strongly as a boxer several times in the early rounds, but in the tenth he cast science away, completely disregarding any danger that might lurk in Cross's right uppercut or left hook and cut loose with all he had.

How Cross stood up under the onslaught is as mysterious as Rivers's ability to take Leach's wallops in the other two rounds. The Mexican did not give Cross a chance to "get set" during the entire three minutes. Rights and lefts landed on Cross's face and body so fast that Leach appeared like one badly dazed. He really was dazed. There was no time to do any of his old-time stalling, for every second counted, and he did his best to get away from Rivers and do something himself. The Mexican was after him every second, and when that last bell finally sounded Leach wore a smile that could not be improved upon.

Cross tried his old-time stalling once during the bout, but Rivers had been tipped off, and as soon as Cross started it the Mexican's manager shouted to him to step back. It came in the third round after Rivers had landed a hard right on the New Yorker's face, turning his head to one side. The glassy stare, wobbling head, and sagging knee followed quickly, but Cross had no opportunity to finish the "stall." Rivers refused to nibble.

The right-hand uppercut which had won most of Cross's bouts in the past was on a vacation throughout last night's bout. He had it ready at all times to shoot to the Mexican's jaw if the opportunity presented itself, but Rivers took good care not to throw himself into its path. A left hook was the substitute, and Cross employed this punch more than ever before. It was with a left hook that he floored Rivers, and the same sort of punch gave the Mexican most of his trouble. In three different rounds as they went to the centre of the ring after the bell sounded Cross sent his left hook against Rivers's jaw with sufficient force to shake him up and turn him to one side.

Rivers relied principally on a straight left and his long reach gave him the opportunity to counter with this punch time and again as Leach hooked his left to the Mexican's face. But Rivers also used his right to advantage in the one-two fashion, following with this immediately after he had shot the left to Cross's jaw. Neither boy made any play for the opponent's stomach in the open fighting, but tried continually for the face.

Rivers bled from a small cut on the cheek in the second round and in the eighth he bled considerably from cuts on the face and from his nose. His face was somewhat puffed from Cross's hard punching when he left the ring. Leach also carried a few bruises, most of them coming in the final round.

Rivers was hissed several times for foul work, and once he was warned by Referee Dan Tone for hitting in the breakaway, but his work for the most part was clean. Boxing under strange conditions undoubtedly bothered him. His infractions, barring a little heeling with his glove, were on points which are forbidden under the New York Boxing Code, but allowed elsewhere.

The attendance was limited only by the size of the Manhattan Casino, where the bout was held. Hundreds were turned away for lack of room within the building. Reserves from the 152d Street Station were called out to keep the crowd in order, and they had plenty to do, as there was a wild scramble for the coveted pasteboards. The prices ranged from $2 to $7, and the lower-priced seats were all taken within a few minutes after the doors were opened. Some speculation in seats was conducted in the vicinity of the Casino, all kinds of fancy prices being paid for seats.

ALTER N.Y.A.C. CONSTITUTION

Members Vote to Infuse New Blood Into Organization.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the New York Athletic Club was held last night in the city home of the organization in Central Park South, with a splendid attendance of members on hand to help inaugurate the men named by the first nominating committee ever elected by the club. There was no opposition to the regular ticket, the only discussion being in connection with a host of amendments.

Those elected to guide the world's foremost athletic and sports organization for the ensuing year were: William H. Page, President; Dr. James N. West, Vice President; Martin S. Paine, Treasurer; Frederick R. Fortmeyer, Secretary; Paul H. Pilgrim, Captain. The following were placed in office as Governors for two years: Robert Appleton, Matthew P. Halpin, Charles L. Leonori, Dr. Bernard F. O'Connor, Charles H. Pond, William Seaich, Douglas Grahame Smyth, and John A. Topping.

The amendments which were adopted are expected to satisfactorily dispose of a very vital and vexed question in connection with the membership of the organization, without in any way detracting from any of the classes which had been the vogue. The new amendments are expected to be the means of inducing a class of young men with athletic tendencies to affiliate with and help perpetuate the fundamental principles of the club—viz., amateur athletics.

Col. Robert M. Thompson, the retiring President, presided and announced himself as extremely well pleased with the amendment which warranted the acceptance of the sons of members at what was considered a nominal fee, thus absorbing new blood of the proper type. Jennings S. Cox, a former President, and J. Seaver Page also spoke for it. There were about 350 ballots cast for the officials elected.

Favorable action was taken on the amendments to the constitution which had been proposed by the outgoing Board of Governors and which put into effect eight classes of membership as follows: Honorary, resident, life, non-resident, associate, sons of members, athletic, and juniors.

It was voted that hereafter athletic members may, subject to the approval of the Board of Governors, transfer such membership to any other class of membership to which they might be eligible, being required to pay the initiation fee and dues prescribed for the class to which they may be transferred, with the further ruling that no transfer can be made at any time from any other membership in the club to athletic membership.

It was also decided that the board shall have the power to elect as junior members amateur athletes of not less than 15 nor more than 21 years of age, provided that such membership shall terminate when the member attains the age of 21 years.

Juniors on attaining the age of 21 years will become eligible to any other class of membership upon their subscription to conditions similar to those which will bind the other classes of membership as to fees, dues, &c.

Associate membership was limited to any person between the ages of 21 and 28 years upon the partial payment of $50 of the regular initiation fee of $200, and the annual dues of $60 per year, with the proviso that if, when attaining the age of 28 years, such associate members desired to become resident members they might do so with the approval of the board upon the payment of the additional $150 of the $200 required of all members in that class. Any associate member shall not be entitled to vote or hold office, or have any right or title to or interest in the property of or assets of the club.

One of the most important amendments passed was that which permitted the son or sons of members of five years' standing to become members upon the payment of $50 initiation fee and annual dues of $60 per year, such members to enjoy the privileges of a resident member, with the exception that he will not be entitled to vote or hold office in the club, nor have any right or title to or interest in the property or assets of the organization.

When, however, such a member attains the age of 28 years his membership shall terminate, but he may apply for membership as a resident member, being only required to pay the dues $60, required of all resident members, notwithstanding the fact that the limit of membership in that class, 3,500, may have been reached.

It was further decreed that the number of resident members shall not exceed 3,500; the number of life members, 500; the number of non-resident members, 800; the number of associate members, 350; the number of athletic members, 200; the number of junior members to be at the discretion of the board, but not to exceed 200, while the number in the sons of members' class shall be unlimited.

TEAMS UNDER A. A. U. BAN.

College "Fives" Disqualified for Playing Crescent A. C.

The Amateur Athletic Union's annual crusade against college and school basket ball teams for playing against unregistered teams is under way, and a number of teams have already been put under the ban, with more to follow. The Crescent A. C. of Brooklyn is an unregistered team, and Fordham, Manhattan, St. John's College, and Polytechnic Institute have all been disqualified for playing the New Mooners.

The latest team to come under the Amateur Athletic Union ban is West Point. The Army has played several games with unregistered athletic club teams. The Crescents will go to Annapolis to play, and the Amateur Athletic Union has sent out warning that the Navy will also be disqualified if they play the Brooklyn team. Other teams which have been disqualified are Trinity Club, Brooklyn; Glenmore A. C., Bath Beach; Visitation Club, Brooklyn, and Toronto University.

The Amateur Athletic Union is taking up the fight against the unregistered basket ball team in earnest, maintaining that professionalism cannot be stamped out unless the amateur teams refuse to play the athletic clubs which have alleged professional players. Many of the disqualified clubs belong to the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, and President Sullivan has sent out letters of warning that unless the practice is stopped they will be deprived of membership in the organization. A mail vote will be taken by the Board of Managers of this district on the advisability of expelling the offending clubs from the Amateur Athletic Union.

MOORE WINS IN SECOND.

Belfast Slugger Drops Willie Reilly to Floor Quickly in Bout at Brown's.

Two ten-round bouts featured the weekly boxing entertainment last night of the Brown Athletic Association. The first was decided in the second round, when Bobby Moore, the Belfast slugger, knocked out Willie Reilly, while a fast finish in the closing rounds of his contest with Young Lustig gave Benny Leonard the benefit of a draw. The opening ten rounds was full of dash and lively work throughout the short session, while the final setto was tame and somewhat uninteresting.

Bar Boxing With Negroes.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Jan. 14.—Safety Director John M Morin, whose rules govern boxing in Pittsburgh, to-day issued an order that hereafter there must be no ring fights between white men and negroes. Morin does not bar the negro, but says he must fight with men of his own race. The drawing of the color line, Morin says, was not prompted by agitation following the escapades of Jack Johnson. Morin has been contemplating such an order for some time, but because there have been no negro boxers here since last Summer, there seemed no occasion to promulgate the rule.

To Stimulate Jumping at Cornell.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 14.—In order to stimulate interest in jumping a former Cornell track star, whose name is withheld, has donated three medals to be awarded to the men showing the greatest ability in a series of events to be contested during the Winter. There will be eight events, five places to count in each. The events are to include the running broad jump, the running and standing broad jump, standing and running high jumps, the running high kick, three standing broad jumps, running hop, step, and jump, and pole vault. The medals for three places are respectively gold, silver, and bronze.

Paine Heads Eastern Y. C. Again.

BOSTON, Jan. 14.—Commodore Robert Treat Paine, 2d, was re-elected for a second term as the head of the Eastern Yacht Club at the annual meeting of that organization in this city to-day. Several amendments to the racing rules were adopted, and those suggested by the Atlantic Coast Conference were discussed.

GIANTS TO PLAY 25 GAMES IN THE SOUTH

McGraw Expects to Have Team in Fine Condition Before Season Opens Here.

A schedule of twenty-five exhibition games, mostly to be played in the South, confronts the Giants before they return to the Polo Grounds to open the National League season against the Boston braves on April 10. It will be the longest Spring trip Manager McGraw has ever taken the Giants, but, believing that the hard schedule will make his team fit, he again expects to get the jump on the other seven clubs by having his men in better shape for the long championship season.

The first batch of Giant recruits will leave New York by boat about Feb. 15, while another squad of players will assemble at St. Louis on Feb. 18 to make the trip by rail to the training camp at Marlin, Texas. All the members of the club are expected to report to Manager McGraw at Emerson Park in Marlin about Feb. 28. Manager McGraw, this season, has planned to begin the exhibition games earlier than ever before, and has scheduled a game for as early as March 1 with Dallas. It is planned that the younger players will be able to play a game by this time, and within two weeks the regulars are expected to be in such good shape that they can go in and romp through nine innings.

Most of the early season games have been arranged for Saturdays and Sundays, so that the players will have time during the week to go through their training routine. The Giants will play four games with the Dallas Club, as it is within easy reach of Marlin. The Dallas games will be on March 1, 2, 8 and 9. On Saturday and Sunday, March 15 and 16, the Giants will play the San Antonio Club in that city.

The Giants will have their last week's work-out at Marlin during the week of March 17, and will then start North. On March 22, 23 and 24, they will play in Houston, and the route after that is as follows: March 25 and 26, Beaumont: March 29 and 30, Mobile; March 31, Birmingham; April 1, Knoxville, Tenn.; April 3, Norfolk; April 4, Richmond, and April 5 and 6, Baltimore.

On April 7 and 8 the Giants will play in Washington, when Walter Johnson, the Senators' star pitcher, will try to get a chance to pitch against Mathewson. The Giants will return to New York on that night, and on April 9 will open the home season with Yale at the Polo Grounds, as in former years.

On the first Sunday after the opening, April 13, the Giants will play in Jersey City. These dates simply refer to the route of the regular Giants. The second squad of players, including the recruits who will be kept on the club, will start north about the same time, but by a different route. Their schedule of games will be arranged after the club gets to Texas.

While many baseball managers question the advisability of subjecting the players to such a hard and arduous training period as McGraw has planned for the Giants this Spring, his past experience with early training has shown the wisdom of his course. McGraw believes that the fine condition of his men at the start of the past two seasons was an important factor in the winning of two National League pennants by the New York Club.

Manager McGraw and Coach Robinson will go to Texas with the first batch of recruits, and Robinson will give up all his time to coaching the young pitchers. McGraw's efforts will be directed toward effecting the smooth, harmonious team play which has been a feature of the Giants' work during the past two seasons.

President Ebbets landed a big attraction yesterday for the preliminary opening of Ebbets's Field, in Brooklyn, when he arranged for the Yankees, under Manager Frank Chance, to play at the new park on April 5 and 7. This will be a few days after the Yankees' return from the training trip at Bermuda. President Ebbets has canceled his dates with the Newark Club, realizing that the Yankees, under Chance, will be a big attraction in their first appearance in Greater New York.

It is expected that with fine weather the opening of Ebbets's Field with the Yankees as an attraction will bring out a record crowd for so early in the season. The New York Club expects to be back in New York on April 3, so that they will have a day's rest before tackling Brooklyn.

Although Manager Frank Chance has had no opportunity to size up the Yankee team, except by the batting and fielding averages for the past few seasons, he is one of the keenest of baseball students, and from the records of the players he is to handle next season, he already has the batting ability of the club pretty well sized up. Chance sprung something of a surprise on President Farrell in Chicago when he showed how familiar he was with the Yankee players. For example, he knew that Birdie Cree once played shortstop and second base at Penn State College, and if Cree is in shape when the Spring season starts, he will be the man to cover second base.

By shifting Cree to the infield, Chance will carry out his idea of first building up a hard-hitting team. In looking over the batting averages Chance has discovered that much of the Yankees' batting strength has gone to waste. Roy Hartzell is still a hard hitter, and he will probably be sent back to third until a faster man is found. With an infield of Chase, Cree, Derrick at short, and Hartzell, Manager Chance will have a quartet of .300 hitters, or close to it.

In the outfield Daniels, Lelivelt and Wolter make up another trio of .300 hitters. Ed Sweeney, the star catcher, hits close to .300, and no matter how weak the pitchers are as batsmen, Manager Chance believes that the past performances of the players show that if properly handled, he will have a team of unusual batting strength. Of course, several of the players fell off in their batting last season, but it was a hoodoo year throughout the team, and the records of the two previous years show what the players are capable of when going right.

The Yankee squad will sail for Bermuda on March 1.

The first move of Frank Chance to get new players for the Yankees next season was made before he left Chicago for his home in California. Chance began negotiations for Anthony Carlos, a Chicago schoolboy, who attracted much attention out there last season. Carlos has been approached by a friend in the interest of the Newark Club, but it is said that Chance stated that he believes he can swing a deal whereby he can get the boy "phenom." Carlos is unusually big and strong for his age, and was first approached by Chance to become a member of the Cubs early last season.

President Lynch of the National League will go to Chicago to-day to attend the meeting of the National Commission, which was postponed in Cincinnati last week because of the illness of President Ban Johnson of the American League. August Herrmann will be re-elected Chairman, and John E. Bruce secretary of the commission. There is little of importance to come before the commission except the routine reports of the past year and the fixing of a salary limit for Class AA clubs.

Harold Janvrin, the Boston high school boy, who was a sensational player with the Jersey City Club last season, has been signed for next season by the Boston Red Sox. Janvrin played third base for the 'Skeeters and developed rapidly last year. He will be taken in hand by Jake Stahl and will be developed into a first baseman.

Chance to Play First Base.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14.—Frank Chance, the new manager of the New York American League team, returned to his orange ranch at Glendora to-day. He said he would leave home Feb. 4 for New York.

"Will you be a bench manager?" he was asked.

"No," was the reply. "I expect to play first base some of the time. Chase and I will alternate probably."

STORER HARVARD CAPTAIN.

Football Men Prefer Bostonian Over Rex Hitchcock.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 14.—Next Fall the Harvard 'Varsity football team will be lead by Robert T. P. Storer of Boston, Mass., who, at a meeting of the 'Varsity players to-day, was elected Captain for 1913. Storer has played two years on the 'Varsity team, being at left tackle last Fall, scoring Harvard's first touchdown in the Yale game, and thus being the first Crimson football player who had crossed the Blue's goal line since 1901. The only other prominent candidate for the Captaincy was Rex Hitchcock, who played tackle for two years at Harvard, but Storer got the larger vote, which was finally made unanimous.

The new Captain prepared for college at Noble and Greenough School in Boston. At school he played centre several seasons, being Captain in his graduating year. Entering Harvard in 1910 he played centre on his freshman team. The following year he was centre rush until just before the Yale game, when he was transferred to tackle. Last season he began at left tackle and played throughout the season in that position.

Storer is 20 years old, stands 5 feet 9 inches, and weighs 180 pounds. He is expected to make a good leader, and will play his old position, unless Tudor Gardiner should return to the game, in which case Storer possibly would return to centre.

Harvard loses only Wendell, Gardiner, Parmenter, and Fellon of last year's team, leaving, beside Storer, Pennock, and Trumbull, guards, Hitchcock tackle, O'Brien end, and Hardwick and Brickley for the backfield.

CRESCENTS BEAT YALE.

New Moon Basket Ball Team Wins by 29 to 13—Eli Five Suspended.

Yale University basket ball players met with two defeats last night when, in conjunction with a beating at the hands of the Crescent Athletic Club five in the latter's gymnasium by a score of 29 to 13 they suspended themselves from further participation with teams under the dominion of the Amateur Athletic Union through their competition with the New Moon quintet, an unregistered team, the members of which organization have steadfastly refused to admit the control of the sport by the governing athletic body.

The contention of the Crescent A. C. managers in connection with their refusal to become affiliated with the A. A. U. is, according to the manager of the basket-ball team, that they charge no admission to their games, and that only guests and members are admitted, and that they, therefore, see no reason to run to the A. A. U. to ask for sanction. The line-up and summary:

Crescent A. C.	Position.	Yale.
Heath	Right forward	Swihart
Hobart	Centre	Stackpole
Dingee	Right guard	Dietz

Referee—Mr. O'Shea, St. John's College. Time—Twenty-minute halves. Goals from field—Heath, (4,) Hobart, (4,) Root, (3,) Dingee, (1,) Lee, (1,) Stackpole, (3.) Goals from fouls—Swithart, (7,) Dingee, (3.) Substitutes for Yale—Cobb for Tipp, Banks for Cobb.

Crescents Play St. Nicholas To-night.

The Crescent A. C. and St. Nicholas teams will play their first game to-night in the Amateur Hockey League championship series at the St. Nicholas Rink. A defeat for the former will be a serious setback at this time in the season, as the Hockey Club team has already won two games and relies upon St. Nicholas to win to-night to put the New Mooners out of the running. The St. Nick team, which is composed of American players and former members of college teams, is playing as fast as any team in the league.

Coach Courtney's Hearing Restored.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Coach Charles E. Courtney of the Cornell crews took charge of rowing practice at Cornell to-day for the first time since the holidays, he having been confined to his home by a severe attack of the grip. Not only has the "old man," who is now 61 years of age, completely recovered his health, but he has regained the hearing in his right ear, which had been dormant for nearly fifty years, when, as a child, he had an attack of scarlet fever. The recent attack of grip affected the hearing of his left ear. He called in a specialist, who restored the hearing in both ears.

Senators to Train at Charlottesville.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 14.—Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington Americans, it was announced to-day, has completed arrangements whereby his team will engage in their early Spring practice here. The deal was made possible by the Delta Chi Fraternity of the University of Virginia giving up its fraternity house to the Washington players for one month. Griffith will have thirty-six men in his squad, the batteries reporting March 1, the others a week later. The team trained here last year.

Burke to Manage Fort Wayne Nine.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 14.—Jimmy Burke, former manager of the Indianapolis American Association club, to-day signed to manage the Fort Wayne Central League baseball club for 1913. Burke held the position in 1910. He will play third base.

Joe Jackson Signs Contract.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Jan. 14.—Joe Jackson, outfielder of the Cleveland Americans, who was reported to be one of the hold-outs for an increase in salary, to-day forwarded his signed contract to President Somers. Jackson announced he was satisfied with the "raise" given him, but declined to state the amount.

The first half was 12 to 7 in favor of the New Yorkers, and the second half went 10 to 8 in favor of the local boys, who did their best to pull out a victory, but were prevented by the splendid defensive work of the visitors.

Al Spink Sues for Accounting.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 14.—Al H. Spink, former race track and baseball promoter, filed suit here to-day for an accounting against his brother, Charles Spink, and his nephew, J. G. Taylor Spink. He also names as defendants the St. Louis A. C. and the Sporting News Publishing Company. Spink charges that in August, 1895, he made a contract with his brother whereby he turned over to Charles all his interest in the St. Louis A. C. and in the Sporting News Publishing Company, Charles to manage the properties for fifteen years and at the end of that time to make an accounting, turning over to Al one-half the profits. He says the profits have exceeded $50,000 a year.

NEW YORK IN GRAND CIRCUIT.

Light Harness Racing to be Held on Local Track Aug. 25-30.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14.—Stewards of the Grand Circuit met here to-day, announced dates for meets of the circuit in the different cities, admitted New York and Windsor, Ont., to the circuit, and adopted a rule providing that if a horse wins three stake races amounting to $15,000 it must afterward compete in a class to which it is eligible by the lowest record it has made in any one of its winning races, but does not refer to futurities for three-year-olds and under.

Applications for admission to the circuit were presented to the stewards by Poughkeepsie, New York City, Windsor, and Springfield, Ill. New York was admitted after Readville, Mass., already in the circuit, announced that it would surrender its dates to New York. Windsor was awarded the opening week of the circuit, and Poughkeepsie and Springfield were refused.

The stewards considered the "three-heat system" of races. While this system was not adopted, it was recommended to all clubs in the Grand Circuit. Under the "three-heat system" each heat is a race.

The stewards elected the following officers: H. K. Devereaux of Cleveland, President; Fred Postal of Detroit, Vice President, and H. J. Kline of Cleveland, Secretary. Detroit was chosen for the next annual meeting of the stewards. The dates announced follow:

Windsor, Ontario, June 30-July 4; Cleveland, July 7-12; Pittsburgh, July 14-19; Buffalo, July 21-26; Grand Rapids, July 28-Aug. 2; Kalamazoo, Aug. 4-9; Detroit, Aug. 11-16; Salem, N. H., Aug. 18-23; New York City, Aug. 25-30; Hartford, Sept. 1-6; Syracuse, Sept. 8-13; Detroit, (Michigan State Fair,) Sept. 15-20; Columbus, Sept. 22-Oct. 4; Lexington, Ky., Oct. 6-18.

TURF BOARDS IN SESSION.

August Belmont Re-elected President of Steeplechase Association.

Stewards of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, the governing body for cross-country racing in America, held their annual meeting at 6 and 8 West Forty-sixth Street yesterday and after the election of officers transacted much business pertaining to the sport for the coming season. August Belmont was re-elected President, with Harry S. Page First Vice President and Henry J. Morris Secretary and Treasurer. The following committees were also chosen:

Executive Committee—Henry W. Bull, Charles K. Harrison, Jr., and Henry J. Morris.

Committee on Courses—A. Henry Higginson, Charles K. Harrison, Jr., and Harry S. Page.

Representatives to serve on the Hunts Committee—A. Henry Higginson, Charles K. Harrison, Jr., and Henry W. Bull.

Joseph W. Burden was elected to serve as a Steward to act during the absence of S. S. Howland, who is touring in Europe.

Licenses were granted the following gentlemen to ride, subject to the approval of the Hunts Committee: Lieut. E. M. Whiting, U. S. A.; John Tucker, and Evans Tucker.

Licenses were also granted the professional jockeys, William Murphy and Roy Gilbert, while Mathew Brady, who is handling the horses of Joseph A. Davis, was granted a license as trainer.

A rule of some importance was passed when it was decided to combine the qualified and the hona fide hunters during 1913. By the bringing of the two classes together it becomes necessary to only qualify once every two years instead of once a year as was the former rule. This new order is intended to bring out larger fields at the amateur meetings, and ought to result in much better racing in those classes.

The Stewards present at the meeting were Henry J. Morris, A. Henry Higginson, Charles K. Harrison, Jr., and Harry S. Page.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the United Hunts Racing Association, held yesterday, the following officers were elected: Perry Belmont, President; Harry S. Page, First Vice President; Henry W. Bull, Second Vice President; J. Watson Webb, Treasurer, and H. A. Buck, Secretary.

Dr. William G. Howe defeated Edward Raynolds last night in the second block of their "pocket billiards" match at the Broadway Billiard Academy, Sixty-fifth Street and Broadway, by the score of 112 to 100, in seventeen innings. Howe made a high run of fourteen balls and made three scratches, Raynolds's high run was nineteen points and four scratches were counted against him. Although Dr. Howe was victorious in last night's game, he is still behind as regards the total score for the two nights of play, which favors Raynolds by 200 to 185. Dr. Howe lost the opening block by the score of 100 to 73. The final game of the match will be decided this evening.

Charles P. Conley defeated Ledyard Blake in the final block of their two nights' exhibition at 18.2 balkline billiards at Kenney's Billiard Academy in Brooklyn last night by the score of 250 to 212 in thirty-eight innings. Although defeated last night, Blake easily won the match by the score of 500 to 392 for both games, as he gained an overwhelming advantage over Conley in the opening block Monday night. Conley made high runs of 39, 27, and 24 and averaged 7 8-37. Blake's highest runs were 28, 27, and 25 with an average of 6 22-38. This evening George Moore, the holder of the world's high run record of 15 points at three-cushion carrom billiards, will engage in the first block of a two-night's exhibition with Charles Otis, who recently defeated Dave Louderbach in a match for the amateur championship of Brooklyn.

AUTO PRESS AGENTS RETARD PROGRESS

By Outworn Methods Many Act as a Drag on the Industry from Which They Live.

WANT ADVERTISING FREE

Society Day Brilliant at Double Show—Auto Board of Trade and N. A. A. M. to Merge—Boosters Dine.

Among the crowds of automobile men at the annual show in Madison Square Garden and Grand Central Palace last night was a goodly proportion of press agents. An advertising man of long experience, commenting on this fact, saw in it one of the few backward features of the automobile industry. Certainly, during the show thus far and in the days immediately preceding its opening, the press agent has been well nigh ubiquitous. But it was not his presence so much as the nature of his activities that the advertising man and others of his standing remarked. Many of the press agents have been devoting their energies entirely to getting something for nothing—or trying to get it. Their credo contains the clause that the newspaper in which their company buys advertising is morally bound to print such free advertising or "reading notices" or "publicity" as they see fit to send to it.

In the pursuit of this ideal some of them do not hesitate to adopt methods that became antiquated years ago. Yet the highest priced advertising writers obtainable are employed by the automobile companies. They can and do write clever advertisements. The press agents belong to a different class.

One explanation of the activities of this class is that they desire to curry favor with their superiors by securing the publication of interviews and articles under the names and with the pictures of these superiors. Inquiries among the men higher up in a number of instances have elicited the information, however, that they were far more interested in the results secured from the work of their regular advertising writers than in these personal puffs, and did not care for the kind of limelight into which such "publicity" brought them.

Two booths at the Garden that attracted much attention yesterday contain tiny models of automobiles which demonstrated in one case the value of a shock absorber and in the other the use of a device somewhat similar in effect, to soften the rebounding action of the springs. When the devices thus shown were attached the little cars moved up and down gently enough, but when they were detached the models bounced in a most uncomfortable looking manner. In one of these little cars were two quaintly dressed dolls that drew the attention of the feminine portion of the crowd. One of these exhibits is on the elevated platform to the left and the other in the middle aisle of the basement.

Yesterday was the first of the society days at the show, and it proved a success in brilliancy and interest at both buildings. Among the enthusiastic visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Henri de Bach of the Russian Embassy, James F. D. Lanier, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Gibson, Edward McLean, Vance McCormick, Ralph Bloomer, Jason Waters, and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Thaw.

Some of the many other visitors at the two buildings were James G. Blaine, 3d; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carroll, J. Stewart Barney, Mrs. Francis Mott Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Julian McCarty Little, Judge Julius Mayer of the United States District Court, Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Taylor, Victor Morawetz, Mrs. Herbert Shipman and her mother, Mrs. Edson Bradley; J. Sergeant Cram, Walter Maynard, George Wagstaff, Samuel Stevens Sands, Irving Brokaw, F. Ashton de Peyster, Mrs. William B. Shoemaker, Gen. Edward N. Tailer, Henry Clews, Charles de L. Oelrichs, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Cortlandt Dixon.

One of the most striking cars on the main floor at the Palace is a cream colored inside-driven coupé. Gold plating has been used on all the metal parts, usually polished, nickel plated, or enameled in black. The coupé is upholstered in gray cloth, and the steering post and wheel are in white enamel. Both at this building and at the Garden there are several cars finished in white and gold, giving them a decidedly "dressy" effect.

An important move in the automobile trade was the decision yesterday on the part of the Automobile Board of Trade and the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers to merge in one organization to be known as the Automobile Chamber of Commerce. At the annual meeting yesterday, when almost all of the sixty-five members were represented, the board approved the report of its Consolidation Committee. During the present week the plan for consolidation will be presented to the members of the N. A. A. M., whose entire Executive Committee, for themselves and for their companies, has agreed to the plan. The new association will consist of one hundred and ten of the leading automobile manufacturers of America.

At yesterday's meeting of the Automobile Board of Trade the old officers were unanimously returned to office, as follows:

Nine States were represented at the last meeting of the Executive Board of the American Automobile Association, at which an important resolution was presented, authorizing the President, Laurens Enos, to appoint a committee to discuss with the N. A. A. M. the matter of a National reliability tour for motor trucks. The President was also empowered to arrange for the annual reliability tours for the Glidden, A. A. A., and Anderson trophies.

At the last meeting of the Contest Board of the A. A. A. the automatic disqualification of Teddy Tetzlaff of Los Angeles for driving exhibitions at an unsanctioned race meeting, held at San Fernando, Cal., on Nov. 28, 1912, was definitely fixed to expire on May 28, 1913. E. E. Hewlett of Los Angeles, manager of Tetzlaff, and owner of the car driven by him, was rendered ineligible for participation in any event sanctioned by the A. A. A. for a like period.

Application for reinstatement to good standing of the Staver Carriage Company of Chicago, which were on Oct. 21 last disqualified and suspended to June 1, 1913, for violation of Rule 75 of the Contest Rules in advertising the performance of the cars which participated in the "Around Lake Michigan" tour conducted as a Grade III. Non-Stock run, as being the performance of "stock cars," was considered and denied. Frank C. Hamlin of Los Angeles, entrant and driver of the car which won the 1912 Los Angeles to Phoenix Desert Road Race, was disqualified and suspended until April 1, 1913, for violation of the same rule in advertising the winning car as "a regular stock car," when the race in question was conducted as a non-stock, free-for-all event.

The beefsteak of the Big Village Motor Boosters, at which pioneer manufacturers were guests of honor last night, was a jolly break in the busy times of the first show week. The motor enthusiasts, decked in white aprons and green ribbons bearing the Father Knickerbocker emblem of the club, enjoyed a feast and a cabaret show at the Murray Hill Lyceum after the automobile show had closed for the night.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

Strike Has Not Affected Manufacturers' Interest in Fall Fabrics.

With the exception of the strike there is little of interest going on in the local clothing trade at the moment. About nine-tenths of the Spring business has been booked, and a fair proportion of these orders has already been filled. Retailers bought liberally throughout the country, and, according to one of the larger manufacturers, the orders were far ahead of those of last year until the strike began. If it were not for the trouble and delay caused by the strike, it was reported that the Spring season of 1913 would be one of the best in a number of years. As it is, manufacturers seem optimistic regarding the future, and in a number of instances are looking at heavyweight fabrics for Fall with as much interest as ever.

Some cancellations were received from dealers in the West and South previous to the strike, owing to the fact that the current Fall's business was not up to standard. Of late, however, practically no cancellations have been received, and in many instances buyers have asked the manufacturers to reinstate these orders and to ship the goods as soon as possible.

GOOD WAIST TRADE ORDERS.

Buyers Placing Liberal Business for Early Spring Delivery.

While buying cannot be said to be generally brisk just now in the local waist and dress trade, in some quarters of the market encouraging reports are heard regarding the volume of orders placed during the week by out-of-town buyers. One well-known manufacturer said that orders had been more satisfactory than in a number of years, and that buyers were placing liberal orders for early spring delivery. On the other hand, some manufacturers report conditions as being rather quiet. Crepe de chine and chiffon waists have had good call in some sections of the country, and novelties in silk have also been in good demand.

The season in suits and coats is said to be starting off well. Although manufacturers on the whole had considerable difficulty in arranging prices with the tailors and were retarded to some extent in getting under way on the new lines, the outlook was considered promising. Good numbers of buyers are in the market, and, in some instances, orders received to date are far better than anticipated and in a considerably larger volume than those of a year ago.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Richly Trimmed Bonnets at Lower Rate—No Cut for Plants of False Hue.

The millinery trade won a victory when the Board of United States General Appraisers decided that trimmed hats are dutiable at 50 per cent. ad valorem regardless of the character or value of the trimming. Lord & Taylor imported straw hats trimmed with silk ribbon. As it was shown that the silk was worth more than the hats, Collector Loeb exacted duty at 60 per cent. as silk wearing apparel. Judge Howell held that the provision in the law for trimmed hats prevailed, even if the trimmings possessed greater value than the hat form.

The H. B. Claflin Co. brought in toilet and tool sets, assessed under the Act of 1909, at 50 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 452, as fitted leather cases. The importers showed the toilet cases dutiable at 40 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 452, and the tool sets at 45 per cent. under Paragraph 199, as manufactures of metal.

The Mark Cross Company protested on hunting coats of cotton and rubber. Collector Loeb assessed 50 per cent. ad valorem for cotton wearing apparel. The importers established the coats to be in chief value of rubber, dutiable at 35 per cent.

E. Stegemann, Jr., lost a protest on natural plants artificially colored or otherwise prepared for ornamental purposes. They were taxed at 60 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 438, Tariff Act of 1909, providing for flowers treated artificially.

$30,000 VERDICT FOR INJURY.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 14.—A jury in Part I. of the Supreme Court, over which Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins presided, gave a verdict this afternoon of $30,000 for the plaintiff in the $100,000 action brought by Frederick Seyford of 31 Oakley Avenue against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for damages for injuries received while he was in the defendant company's employ. He said they had made him a helpless invalid for life. Congressman Martin W. Littleton appeared, with others, for the defendant.

Seyford early in 1911 was employed on a steamer which tied up at a Brooklyn dock. He stepped into an open hatchway on the ship and landed across an iron runway or trolley, sustaining injuries to his back and neck that paralyzed him from the waist down.

PRINTCLOTH BIDS ASKED FOR.

Although sellers showed more inclination to shade prices on printcloths yesterday, not much trading was reported. There was some business done in narrow goods, and some odd constructions changed hands. During the day sellers were asking for bids of 5 1-16 cents for 38½-inch, 64-60s, and 7⅛ cents for 39-inch 80-80s, but buyers did not seem anxious to trade even at the lower figures. The day's quotations follow:

27-inch, 56-56s.	3⅝c	38½-in., 64-64s	5⅝c

BUSINESS NOTES.

Littauer Brothers, glove manufacturers, now at 715 Broadway, have engaged new quarters in the Eagle Building, at Fourth Avenue and Twenty-first Street. They will occupy the greater part of the fourth loft, and expect to move about Feb. 1.

Imports of jewelry at the Port of New York in the week ended Jan. 4 amounted to only $17,408. Receipts of precious stones in the same period were valued at $723,731, and watches were entered to the value of $25,836.

D. Lisner & Co., jewelry novelties, 140 Fifth Avenue, have leased the first loft at 303 Fifth Avenue for a term of years, and will move there about May 1.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Quite a block of cheesecloth constructions was reported to have been sold this week at prices slightly off the recent top figures. A moderate business in lawn construction was also done. Prices on these goods continue firm.

In some quarters of the local trade orders for Spring on children's dresses are said to be 50 per cent. better than ever before at this time. The bulk of these orders are already in, and manufacturers are busily engaged in turning out goods to fill them.

"Mephistopheles" toques of black velvet, with single and double stick-up effects of the same material, are meeting with considerable success in local millinery circles this season.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

A factory for the manufacture of condensed milk and cheese has been established at Maracay, Venezuela. Electric light plants have been installed at Maracay and Barquisimeto. An ice plant has been installed at Coro. The Venezuelan Meat & Products Syndicate, (Ltd.,) of Puerto Cabello, has increased the capacity of its plant from the killing of 80 to 120 beeves per day.

For the first five days in December building permits were issued at Edmonton, Alberta Province, Canada, representing a total value of $500,000. Up to the end of November the total value of building permits issued in that city during the 11 months amounted to more than $14,000,000.

An automobile line from White Horse to Dawson, in Yukon Territory, to be operated by a new company, is probable. The White Pass and Yukon route has used a stage line for many years during the closed season of navigation, which lasts for about eight months in the year, to convey mails, passengers, express, and freight between these two points.

OSTRICH PLUMES IN DEMAND.

Spring Outlok the Best in Thirty-two Years—Labor Scarce.

According to one of the larger manufacturers and wholesalers of ostrich feathers there has not been a season in the last thirty-two years when the outlook for these goods was better than for the coming Spring. Last year was only fair, and when the Spring buying began the jobbers and larger retailers were apparently dubious regarding feathers. As a result they bought sparingly and conservatively, and when the season advanced and ostrich feathers came into fashion they found difficulty in getting enough goods to meet their requirements. This year, however, buyers are preparing for a big demand.

As a rule December and January are the two dullest months in this trade, but this season orders are in excess of expectations of the manufacturers. The only disappointing feature of the conditions this year is the fact that labor is scarce, and the goods apparently cannot be turned out fast enough to meet the demand. Stocks are generally low throughout the country, and manufacturers seem unusually optimistic regarding the future.

FARM PRICES MUCH LOWER.

While Meat Is High, Staple Crops Are Well Below Other Years.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The farmer was sharing the profits of the increased cost of living as far as the prices paid for meats on Dec. 15 last compared with those of a year ago, according to figures announced to-day by the Department of Agriculture. At the same time he was receiving less for his staple crops.

Average prices received by producers on Dec. 15 last showed hogs selling at $6.89 a hundred pounds, an increase of $1.17 over the same time in 1911; beef cattle at $5.33, or 96 cents higher; veal calves at $6.88, or 90 cents higher; sheep at $4.21, or 20 cents higher, and lamb at $5.70, or 77 cents higher. Hogs, veal calves, and sheep were lower than in 1910.

Prices paid to farmers for staple crops on Jan. 1 averaged about 17.2 per cent. lower than in the same time last year, 6.5 per cent. lower than in 1911, 17.3 per cent. lower than in 1910, 5.9 per cent. lower than in 1909, and 7.7 per cent. lower than in 1908.

BANK BOARDS CHANGE WITH THE NEW YEAR

City National Elects Two New Vice Presidents—New Interests in the Public Bank.

TWITCHELL IN THE CHEMICAL

Fills Vacancy Caused by G. G. DeWitt's Death—Calvin Tomkins Quits Battery Park National.

National banks throughout the city held their annual meetings of stockholders yesterday and in a number of banks new Directors were chosen to fill vacancies or to replace Directors who had resigned. Some of the State banks also elected Directors, and one, the Public Bank, doubled its capital and admitted new interests to its Directorate. Few changes in officers were announced. The National City Bank elected two new Vice Presidents in addition to the six which it already had.

The new interests in the Public Bank, whose main office is at Delancey and Ludlow Streets, with branches at Madison Avenue and 116th Street, and Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn, are represented by these Directors who were added to the board yesterday: Henry Ollesheimer, Philip Berolzheimer, Louis Biel, M. A. Isaacs, Nathan N. Markwell, John Eislie, and C. C. Anderson. The bank's deposits have risen rapidly during the last few years and now stand in excess of $10,000,000. It is planned by the increase in the capital from $300,000 to $600,000, which was ratified by the stockholders yesterday, to enable the bank to handle its growing business better. The bank's surplus is in the neighborhood of $400,000. It is expected that an official of a downtown banking institution will shortly be elected managing officer.

These changes in Directors and officers of National banks were announced:

Aetna National—Frank A. Horne and Edward J. Vintschger elected Directors in place of Edgar H. Cook and Frederick W. Dunbar, resigned.

Battery Park National—Arthur W. Hillebrand elected to succeed Calvin Tomkins as a member of the Board of Directors.

Chemical National—Herbert K. Twitchell chosen to succeed the late George G. De Witt as a Director.

Citizens' Central National—Charles A. Munn and Frank Presbrey added to the Board of Directors.

Fifth National—Charles Kaye, Edward E. Watts, and William S. Beckley added to the board.

Fourth National—F. de C. Sullivan succeeded Morton F. Plant on the board.

Hanover National—Francis T. Maxwell added to the board.

Harriman National—Parmley W. Herrick of Cleveland, son of Myron T. Herrick, Ambassador to France, was elected a Director. The retiring Directors were re-elected.

Irving National—William Childs, Jr., Horace Havemeyer, and Harry Williams added to the board. Willis G. Nash resigned as a Director.

Liberty National—Edward S. Moore added to the board.

Merchants' National—J. Archibald Murray, added to the board.

National City—H. R. Eldridge, formerly vice-president of the First National Bank of Houston, Texas and C. V. Rich, in charge of the City Bank's bond department, elected additional vice-presidents. H. V. Cann was made manager of the foreign exchange department and James Matthews manager of the credit department.

National Park.—William O. Jones, who entered the service of the bank as assistant cashier in 1902, was elected yesterday a Vice President.

National Reserve Bank—Lynn Dinkins succeeded Samuel Bettle in the Board of Directors.

New York Country National—Timothy N. Cheesman succeeded William Carpenter, resigned. Robert W. DeForest added to the board.

Seaboard National—Francis M. Weld added to the board.

Sherman National—C. G. Colyer elected in the place of W. H. Macleay on the board.

Edward S. Moore, who was elected a director of the Liberty National is Vice-President of the Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railway and is a son of W. H. Moore of the Rock Island Company.

Stockholders of the New York Title Insurance Company elected Benjamin L. Allen, Vive-President of the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company a director to fill a vacancy.

These elections of State bank directors were also announced:

Century Bank—Everett Crawford, James Decker and Frank R. Lawrence, elected directors to succeed Charles A. Frank, Max Radt and S. D. Scudder, resigned.

German Exchange—George M. Adrian, elected a director to succeed Frederick Ohmeis.

Mutual Bank—Thomas V. Vietor, of Frederick Vietor & Achelis and Joseph H. Emery, President of Lord & Taylor, added to the board.

COAL SITUATION EASIER.

Anthracite Premiums Have About Disappeared—Soft Coal Prices Steady.

In its weekly review of the local coal market The Coal Trade Journal will say to-day:

"Nothing has developed within the last week to change the tone of the anthracite market. The situation is gradually becoming easier, as one week follows another without producing anything in the nature of a cold spell severe enough to stimulate retail demand. Premiums have about disappeared in the tidewater trade, and while line dealers in certain sections are still taking more or less individual coal at an advance on circular, prices are on a descending scale.

"Soft coal has maintained its strength well during the first half of January, and prices show no recessions from December levels. Operators who advanced quotations over the holidays, when they had no coal to sell, have restored the old figures, but that is all recent fluctuations have amounted to. The market occupies a position of unusual strength, predicated on a heavy demand from steam users of all classes and inadequacy of cars and labor."

Louis W. Hill Heads Bank Board.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 14.—Louis W. Hill to-day was elected Chairman of the Board of Directors of the reorganized First National Bank, and other railroad men were named as Directors at the annual meeting of stockholders to-day. E. H. Bailey was chosen President. James J. Hill is owner of the bank.

ISSUE OF A. T. & T. BONDS.

$66,952,120 in 20-Year 4½ Convertibles Offered Shareholders.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 14.—The Directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company voted to-day to authorize an issue of twenty-year 4½ per cent. convertible bonds, which will be offered to the present shareholders of the company for subscription at par and interest in the proportion of 20 per cent. of their holdings of stock.

The bonds will be dated March 1, 1913, and will expire on March 1, 1933. They will be convertible into stock at $120 per share between March 1, 1915, and March 1, 1925. The right to subscribe will expire on Monday, Feb. 17.

On Nov. 30, 1912, the company had outstanding $334,760,600 stock at par; therefore, the new issue of bonds will amount to $66,952,120. An affirmative vote of two-thirds of the outstanding stock will be required for the authorization of the issue.

Payment may be made in either of two ways—in one payment before Feb. 17 of $99.85 per $100 par of bonds, or in two payments, one of $50 on or before Feb. 17, and the other of $48.80, on or before Sept. 1, per $100 par value of bonds.

President Vail says in his statement to the stockholders:

"The surplus earnings of the company for the year 1912 (December estimated) after the payment of 8 per cent. dividends on the stock showed a large margin over interest (which will be about $3,000,000 on the proposed issue of bonds. It is expected, however, that the earnings from the proceeds of the proposed bonds will more than meet the additional interest charges, so that the surplus earnings stated above will not be drawn on for the purpose."

The rights on the present stock in connection with the new bond issue are roughly estimated to be from $1.50 to $2.50 per share.

BIG EXPORT YEAR LIKELY.

Totals for Week Show Local Shipments Valued at $24,499,338.

According to customs figures, 1913 promises great things in the way of exports. Statistics covering exports, exclusive of specie, from this port in the week ended Jan. 11 show them to be valued at $24,499,338, against $15,054,827 in the week preceding. The former figure is within less than $2,000,000 of the record, made in the week ended Dec. 21, and is considered an unusual total for so early in the year.

Wheat exports for the week declined nearly 1,000,000 bushels, aggregating 954,107. Beef shipments, on the other hand, showed a substantial gain with 1,077 barrels and 339 tierces. Other exports of important commodities were as follows:

Flour, 29,966 barrels and 147,971 sacks; oatmeal, 12,418 packages; pork, 1,942 barrels; bacon, 3,780,525 pounds; hams, 69,400 pounds; lard, 6,526,150 pounds; butter, 10,200 pounds; cheese, 21,060 pounds, and cottonseed oil, 7,074,931 pounds.

TRUST COMPANY FOR BERLIN.

Farmers' Loan Gets Consent to Open a Branch There.

The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company has obtained the consent of Superintendent George J. Van Tuyl, Jr., of the State Banking Department to open a branch office in Berlin. It will be the first American trust company to establish an office in Germany.

President Marston said in his application that the company considered it desirable to open a branch for the convenience of Americans traveling in Germany, and for those having relations with foreign business houses. The Farmers' Loan and Trust already has successful branches in Paris and London, as has also the Equitable. The Guaranty and Empire both maintain branch offices in London.

CREDIT MEN ASSAIL DISCOUNT VIOLATIONS

National Body Issues Bulletin Attacking Unfair Deductions on Buyers' Part.

HURTS SAFETY OF BUSINESS

Faithful Observance of the Terms of Sales Needed to Preserve Commercial Well-Being.

Contending that any strain unnecessarily imposed upon the reciprocal fairness that should exist between buyers and sellers of commodities is a direct violation of the good order and safety of business, the National Association of Credit Men has issued the following bulletin from the association's headquarters at 41 Park Row.

"One of the most common causes of strain is that imposed by buyers in deducting, at the time of settlement, discounts directly violating sales terms, and, through such deductions, reading into the sale contract concessions that were neither agreed upon nor considered at the time orders were placed.

"Such practice cannot be justified by apology or explanation; it has been condoned through the pressure of competition and allowed to increase through neglect. Every violation, however, disturbs the good order of business, and suggests and, in some instances, is deemed justifiable grounds for, reciprocal unfairness. It is commercial blindness to presume that the unwarranted may be indulged in by one party alone to a contract, or that one unfair act may not suggest another.

"Beyond doubt a direct violation of the good order of business by taking unjust discounts is quite unintended. Perhaps such acts are deemed perfectly fair and justifiable in sales transactions; but, if it is the custom of the purchasing house to remit on certain dates, deducting on its settlement days discounts which matured earlier, such custom should be explained at the time of purchase and the sales terms definitely adjusted—if the selling house is willing to make concessions.

"Or, as frequently occurs, a shipment is in transit beyond the discount period. It may not appear to be good business to remit for goods when in transit, but if the purchasing house is the recipient of the confidence of the selling house through the execution of the order and the delivery of the goods upon the agreed terms, there is no good reason why reciprocal confidence should not be granted by the buying house in the belief that any error in execution of the order will be promptly corrected and any freight allowance given in the sale agreement properly adusted, especially as the shipment is usually the property of the purchasing house upon being delivered to the common carrier.

"There is no justification in varying discount terms on the ground that the time of shipment exceeded the discount period. If the purchasing house has made it a custom not to remit for invoices until goods are received and properly checked, this custom should be made clear at the time of purchase and either be concurred in or declined by the selling house.

"It is the indulgence in little annoyances that creates, eventually, the greatest disorders. We earnestly believe that progressive merchants should consider in all fairness of mind the strain that the abuse of discount terms is imposing on commercial well-being and make it just as important a rule of personal conduct not to violate the merchandise sale contract as to live strictly up to the contract under seal. The faithful observance of terms of sale, as well as the insistence on their observance, will head the commercial interests of the country in the right direction."

According to J. H. Tregoe, Secretary of the association, a second edition of the bulletin, numbering 10,000 copies, will shortly be off the press and will be distributed among the merchants of the country.

DEFENDS STATE RIGHTS.

Gov. Sulzer Believes New York Should Control Niagara Water Power.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.—New York State will enter a protest with the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives at Washington against a bill just reported giving the Secretary of War the right to grant permits for water-power development at Niagara Falls.

Gov. Sulzer, who was Chairman of this committee, believes this right should be exercised by the New York State Conservation Commission. He also believes the State should be compensated for granting such privileges, and given the right to fix the rates to be charged for the sale of such power as is developed.

The Governor conferred to-day with Attorney General Carmody and State Engineer Bensel, and it was decided to ask for a hearing on the bill.

HARKNESS OUT OF STANDARD.

His Place in Oil Company Board Taken by F. W. Weller.

One change was made yesterday in the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey at the annual meeting of stockholders. Frederick W. Weller was elected a Director in place of C. W. Harkness. The meeting was held at the company's office in Bayonne.

Three stockholders other than those directly connected with the management of the company attended the meeting, over which A. C. Bedford presided as Chairman. He was questioned about the earnings in 1912, but answered each one with the statement that the accounts for the past year had not been made up in final form. He said in general, however, that the year had been a prosperous one for the New Jersey company.

The stockholders were informed that it rested with the Board of Directors to decide whether an annual report should be distributed to the stockholders. So far, they were told, the Directors had not given any consideration to the issuance of a report.

High prices for crude oil, Mr. Bedford said, had been due to a shortage, brought about by the enormous demand for fuel oil, gasoline, and for other oil products.

RUBBER BUYERS INACTIVE.

They Take Only Small Fraction of London Auction Offering.

Buyers were not very active at the opening of the regular fortnightly auction of crude rubber at London yesterday, and, according to cables received in the local market, up till noon only 175 of the 1,130 tons of plantation grades offered had been sold. Prices were about even with those obtained at the last previous auction, smoked sheets selling at 4s 7½d and first latex crepe at 4s 6d.

The local market was reported unusually inactive. Manufacturers were apparently unwilling to buy before learning the outcome of the London sale, and there was little trading between dealers.

While stocks of crude rubber in New York on Jan. 1 were estimated yesterday by one of the most experienced men in the trade to be about equal to those available at the opening of 1912, receipts for the year, not including guayule, were about 15,000 tons greater than in 1911. Receipts of guayule were estimated at 6,000 tons, against 8,000 in 1911. Available supplies of Para rubber in this market on Jan. 1 were put at 5,000 tons, or about 2,000 tons less than on the same date in 1912. With stocks on hand about equal and importations considerably greater, it was said to be evident that manufacturing interests were unusually active in the year just closed.

Manhattan Life Assets $22,045,083.

Assets of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, according to the annual statement of the company issued yesterday, amount to $22,045,083. The policy reserve and all other liabilities total $20,222,745, and the surplus stands at $1,822,338. Payments to policyholders in 1912 reached $2,076,898.

SYNDICATE FINANCING HUDSON COMPANIES

Robert Fleming & Co. of London with Kuhn-Loeb and Harvey Fisk in Readjustment.

OLD 4½S TO BE TAKEN UP

New First 5s and Income 5s in Their Place — Stock Assessed — $10,000,000 Feb. 1 Notes to be Paid.

Robert Fleming & Co. of London will be associated with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Harvey Fisk & Sons in the readjustment of the finances of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad and in financing the requirements of the Hudson Companies, the holding company for the Hudson tunnels property, which has $10,000,000 of notes maturing on Feb. 1.

These notes are secured by the pledge of $15,000,000 of Hudson & Manhattan Railroad 4½ per cent. first mortgage bonds, and other notes of the company to the amount of $9,500,000 maturing in October and November of this year are similarly secured. The Hudson Companies also holds common and preferred stocks of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad.

It is proposed to issue in the place of the existing 4½ first mortgage bonds of the railroad company new 5 per cent. first mortgage bonds to the extent of 50 per cent. of the outstanding issue and new 5 per cent. adjustment income bonds to the extent of 50 per cent. The plan provides also for the payment of $8.50 a share or the stock of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad, for which payment the shareholders will receive new 5 per cent. first mortgage bonds at the rate of $900 in bonds for each $1,000 paid.

The exchange of bonds will bring new 5 per cent. first mortgage and adjustment income bonds into the treasury of the Hudson Companies. The bankers have arranged to buy these bonds from the holding company to put it in funds with which to pay off its notes at maturity and to enable it to participate in the plan of readjustment. The bankers have undertaken to form a syndicate for this purpose and call for the deposit of Hudson & Manhattan Railroad stock and bonds with the Guaranty Trust Company on or before Feb. 14, beyond which date no deposits are to be received except upon such terms as may be imposed by the readjustment managers. The amount of the Feb. 1 coupon will be advanced upon the deposit of the bonds, if desired by the holders.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Hudson Companies yesterday C. W. Tainter was elected a Director to take the place of A. B. Westervelt.

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Grain Prices Lower—Cotton Declines Again—Provisions Firmer.

Profit taking in wheat offset the effect of other influences yesterday and the several options closed unchanged to ⅜c lower. Corn followed wheat notwithstanding considerable takings for export. Oats were ⅛c to ¼c lower for the day. Covering helped to maintain a firm market for provisions. The cotton market was nervous and again closed at a decline. Cottonseed oil reflected the firmer tone of the provisions market.

WHEAT.

Longs in the wheat market showed a disposition to take profits during yesterday's operations, and sales on the hard spots offset numerous bullish features and resulted in prices moving within a comparatively narrow range. The market closed unchanged to ⅜c lower. The foreign markets were all firmer, and, according to private advices, there was a good demand abroad for both cash wheat and for cargoes, notwithstanding an increase of 2,184,000 bushels in the European visible supply, which compared with an increase last year of 400,000. The Argentine market was firm, and it was said that Argentine shippers were influenced by the recent strength in America and expressed the opinion that they had been selling wheat at too low a figure. Export sales were reported of about twenty loads at all positions, but it was thought that a considerable percentage of this represented overnight orders, and exporters complained that bids were out of line.

The threatened breaking off of peace negotiations in Europe failed to have more than a moderate influence on values as it was thought highly improbable that any of the great powers would become involved. Receipts at Western points were again heavy, compared with last year, but there appeared to be little pressure on the market on this account, and shipments at Western points indicated a continued good distribution, although shipments this week have fallen off about 250,000 bushels compared with last week. The Canadian visible supply showed an increase for the week of 658,000 bushels, bringing the total American visible to 94,567,000 bushels, compared with 90,776,000 last year. In the local market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at $1.08, elevator, and $1.09, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.01½, free on board, afloat.

CORN.

Exporters were said to have taken about 60 loads of corn at all positions on Monday and Tuesday, but the market during the day developed a slightly easier tone, and at the close was ⅛@¼c net lower. Receipts at interior points were quite liberal, and some interior markets reported a less active spot demand. Weather conditions were somewhat unsettled, but, on the whole, generally favorable for the movement, and longs sold quite freely. The foreign markets were firm, and Argentine advanced ⅛c, with reports of somewhat less favorable weather for the new corn crop there. Export corn was quoted at 57½c, free on board, afloat, spot.

OATS.

The oats market again moved within a narrow range, but the undertone was slightly easier, owing to the decline in wheat and corn, and at the close values were ⅛@¼c net lower. Receipts were moderate, and there was comparatively little pressure of hedging operations. The local cash market was steady: standard white quoted at 40c; No. 3, 39@39½c; No. 4, 38¼@39c; natural white, 38@40c; white clipped, 38½@41½c, all track.

PROVISIONS.

A firmer feeling prevailed in the market for hog products owing to quite active covering as well as buying by several leading commission houses on an advance of 5 points in the hog market. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 34,000; estimated for Wednesday, 33,000; Kansas City received 18,000 and Omaha 9,800.

COTTON.

There was a further sharp break in the cotton market yesterday, with March contracts selling off to 12.04 or $4.80 per bale under the high records of last month. Rallies occurred during the afternoon, but were not fully maintained, and the close was barely steady at a net loss of from 5 to 18 points. Easier cables, reports that interior holders were beginning to hedge their spot supplies by sales of futures, and apprehensions that this would be followed by a break in the spot markets themselves, seemed to be the factors most emphasized by local bears, who also made a point of the weakness in the spot market and predictions that the coming change of Administration would unsettle business. Old shorts were credited with covering very liberally on the decline, and there was also a considerable demand supposed to be on account of spinners fixing prices, but this was regarded as on cotton already in the hands of spinners, rather than in the way of calling for deliveries. Late in the day reports were received from New Orleans, claiming that interior holders were selling contracts there and that the tone of the spot market was becoming easier. On the other hand, numerous advices were received here from various Southern points during the afternoon, which claimed that holders remained firm in their price views, although demand continued slack.

The market opened steady at a decline of 4 to 6 points in response to lower English futures, and a sharp break in the Liverpool spot market. After showing a net loss of from 10 to 16 points, prices rallied slightly on covering and trade buying, but quickly weakened again. Stop orders were uncovered with commission house selling general on the break, and prices sold 17 to 34 points under the closing figures of Wednesday in the late afternoon. A rally of 12 or 13 points, followed on covering or realizing by old shorts, but the market weakened again in the late trading, and closed within 6 or 7 points of the lowest.

The report of the Census Bureau on Supply and Distribution attracted very little attention. It showed a very active consumption, but also indicated that domestic mills were very well supplied for the next three and a half or four months. The consumption for the first four months of the season amounted to 1,867,972 bales, against 1,637,198 last year, or at the rate of about 5,600,000 bales per year. Domestic mill stocks as of Dec. 31 were 1,704,620 bales, against 1,331,596 last year, or about 100,000 bales less than the consumption for four months. Private cables reported a comparatively quiet market in Liverpool, notwithstanding a break equal to about $2 per bale in spots. Southern spot markets as officially reported were unchanged to ¼c lower. Additional arrivals of consigned cotton at New York yesterday brought the total so far for the month up to 19,700 bales.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The firmness in lard and less pressure of crude offerings from the South resulted in a steadier feeling in the market for cottonseed oil with considerable covering. Prices at the close were near the top, with a net advance of 1 to 6 points, but the upward tendency was checked by the weakness in cotton. The crude market failed to show firmness and prices were barely steady, but there appeared to be less crude oil moving and consequently less pressure of hedging operations. The commercial situation in oil was not very encouraging, as demand was light and the volume of business correspondingly small.

The range of prices in the local market was as follows:

COFFEE.

While sales aggregated but 29,250 bags, a slightly steadier feeling prevailed, and the close was 4 to 6 points net higher. The effect of bullish private cables was lessened by the fact that Brazil failed to show firmness, Rio being 75 reis lower and Santos unchanged, while cost and freight offers from Brazil were unchanged to 5 points lower. Havre came ¼f to ½f higher, while Hamburg was up ¼ to ½ pfennig.

READJUSTMENT OF DEBT OF HUDSON & MANHATTAN RAILROAD COMPANY.

To the Holders of the First Mortgage Four and One-Half Per Cent. Bonds and of Preferred and Common Shares (and Voting Trust Certificates) of the HUDSON & MANHATTAN RAILROAD COMPANY:

At the request of holders and representatives of a large majority of the above bonds and shares, the undersigned have caused to be made by independent competent experts an examination of the properties, earnings and financial condition of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company. These reports show that the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company has not earned, and is not now earning, the full interest upon its outstanding First Mortgage Four and One-Half Per Cent. Bonds. It, therefore, cannot market securities to provide funds to pay the cost of improvements and betterments, nor has it the funds to pay such of its car trust obligations as are approaching maturity, and, unless its fixed charges are reduced through the action of the bondholders and the needed funds are furnished by the stockholders, it will be impossible to avoid the foreclosure of the mortgage securing the First Mortgage Four and One-Half Per Cent. Bonds.

The undersigned have accordingly formulated a plan for the readjustment of the debt of the Company, dated January 14, 1913 (copies of which may be obtained from Guaranty Trust Company of New York, the Depositary under the plan), which has been approved by the holders and representatives of a majority of the First Mortgage Four and One-Half Per Cent. Bonds and of the Preferred and Common Shares of the Company.

Said plan provides for the surrender of the existing First Mortgage Four and One-Half Per Cent. Bonds in exchange for one-half of the principal amount thereof in new Five Per Cent. First Mortgage Bonds and the other half in new Five Per Cent. Adjustment Income Bonds and for the payment by stockholders of $8.50 for each share of stock, for which payment the latter will receive new Five Per Cent. First Mortgage Bonds (or scrip for fractional amounts) at the rate of $900 in such bonds for each $1,000 paid.

The undersigned have further agreed to form a Syndicate to purchase from the Hudson Companies the New First Mortgage Bonds and Adjustment Income Bonds which it will receive upon the consummation of the Readjustment, in order that it may be in a position to take up its outstanding collateral trust notes and participate in the Plan of Readjustment.

The undersigned believe that the plan is fair to all interests. It should be promptly accepted with substantial unanimity, by the holders of the First Mortgage Four and One-Half Per Cent. Bonds and of the Preferred and Common Shares of the Company in order to avoid a forced reorganization based upon the foreclosure of the First Mortgage.

Bondholders and stockholders, to assent to the plan and become parties to the Readjustment Agreement, must deposit their bonds or stock certificates or voting trust certificates with Guaranty Trust Company of New York on or before February 14, 1913, after which date no deposits will be received except with the consent of, and upon such terms as may be imposed by, the Readjustment Managers. All bonds deposited should be in bearer form, with February 1, 1913, and all subsequent coupons attached, and all stock certificates or voting trust certificates should be endorsed in blank or be accompanied by proper instruments of transfer in blank.

The undersigned will, if desired by depositing bondholders, advance to them upon their bonds, at the time of deposit of the same, the amount of the coupon due February 1, 1913.

In case the said Plan of Readjustment should be abandoned and a modified or substitute plan adopted by the Readjustment Managers, at least thirty days' notice of the terms thereof will be given in the manner provided in the Readjustment Agreement, and depositors of bonds and shares will be given an opportunity of withdrawing without any payment for expenses.

Your First Investment

must be a conservative investment. You cannot afford to take chances, and therefore the promise of large returns or big income is no temptation. You need strong security, and want to feel confident that you will receive your interest promptly. You also want your investment to possess a reasonably broad market. So that, considering all these things, you are going to be well content with a return of about 5%. An investment of this kind will make you ambitious to save your money, because it will be your desire to buy more securities of equally high grade quality. The result will be that some day—perhaps sooner than you expect—you will have accumulated a competency.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Decline in Stocks Carried Further—Politics Still a Large Factor—Steel Wage Increase.

The political factor, to describe under that phrase the concern which is manifesting itself in the financial district over the views which have lately been expressed by the President-elect, and over inferences which are being drawn from those and other political utterances of the day, rested somewhat heavily upon the Stock Exchange yesterday, and the previous day's losses were carried considerably further. The declines brought the market to within about three-eighths of a point of the low price of last February, as measured by the average quotation of fifty leading issues. Early in the day stocks gave some signs of resisting, and even of recovering, from the pressure under which they had labored on Monday, but they yielded again in the afternoon when many stocks in the list became distinctly weak. The fact that there was very little vigor to the moderate recovery which occurred early in the session doubtless encouraged continued bear pressure and this probably played a considerable part along with actual liquidation in the further downward movement of the afternoon.

There seemed some reason yesterday for the lessened hope of a favorable outcome of the present peace conference in London, so far, at last, as that conference was counted upon to prevent a reopening of the fighting in Southeastern Europe, particularly around Adrianople, and this was another influence which yesterday made for unsettlement in the stock market. But that was less talked about than was the latest news regarding Mr. Wilson's conception of his duty in making choice of men for his Cabinet. The fact that he had made known that he felt under mandate from the public to choose what many would regard as a radical Cabinet, even though he himself described it otherwise, came upon the market after its nerves had already been somewhat shaken by a perusal of Mr. Wilson's utterances at Chicago regarding the banking system and monopolies. By many in the financial district all this is accepted as indicative of a general tendency in the public's attitude toward corporation and financial affairs which they think likely to prove disturbing to business and to finance in somewhat direct proportion to the extent to which the tendency may happen to run without being put under check. In other words, they feel that Mr. Wilson and those who share his views are even now giving cause for a renewal of the concern which was felt in many quarters of Wall Street even before his election. All this has to be accepted as part of the general attitude which accounts for what at present is going on in the Street. At the moment many are in a mood which precludes their making any serious attempt to pick the good from the bad in the general political outlook.

Large and increasing ease in money is not a factor of a kind to prove a very active force in opposition to a strong drift of pessimistic sentiment, but it is none the less a factor which in the long run will play considerable part as a steadying influence. It is an element to which greater importance can be attached the further adverse sentiment based on other considerations makes itself felt. Actually the most that can be said at the moment of the money market as an influence in the stock market is that it is a latent factor which should hasten the coming and increase the force of the upturn which all previous experience prompts one to look for whenever the present decline has run its course.

Wall Street at the moment is fixing its gaze upon a variety of problems, including the broad ones which affect the country at large as well as some which very directly concern itself, such, for example, as the proposal to bring the Stock Exchange under public regulation. It has, too, a practical problem of considerable dimensions in the undoing of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger which presents questions which have not yet been fully solved. The Union Pacific interests are most desirous of having a plan completed and approved by the court before the change in National Administration brings a new Attorney General into office whose views may not coincide in this matter with those of the present Attorney General, with whom both the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific interests are attempting to agree upon some acceptable plan. The Union Pacific is apparently more willing to buy at its price that part of the Central Pacific which it most needs than the Southern Pacific is to sell. The Southern Pacific's side of the question is being presented very forcibly to the Union Pacific interests, and the divergence of views is still great enough to leave all concerned in some uncertainty as to the possibility of reaching a very speedy agreement. The general position of the financial district's sentiment gives to this situation the character of a retarding, if, indeed, not a disturbing, factor.

Worrying, as it is, over its problems, Wall Street and the Stock Exchange is really paying little attention at the moment to the question whether or not fundamental conditions have changed in any such way as to justify the increased pessimism of the day. Yet there are items of information coming to hand which should help to supply the answer to this question. Among them, it would seem, was the announcement made by the United States Steel Corporation yesterday afternoon that beginning Feb. 1 wage increases would be allowed to the men in the corporation's employ which will add at the rate of $12,000,000 a year to its present payroll. This contains a suggestion of prosperity in the country's leading industry which is curiously at odds with the present temper of Stock Exchange sentiment.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Kind Winter.

It seems an anomaly that good weather should be held responsible for an increase in railway operating costs, yet that is the perfectly logical explanation of the Rock Island's higher expenses in November, according to President Mudge. He explains the advance over the previous month of last year on the ground that the freedom from storms made it possible to keep the track and construction forces at work for a month later this year. So far this Winter has been very much to the liking of the operating officials. The mild weather and the general absence of heavy snowstorms has enabled the roads to clean up their delayed business and get in the best shape possible for the late storms. Mr. Mudge holds that a severe cold snap coming before a snowfall might cause considerable damage to Winter wheat, as the ground is now covered only in a spotty fashion.

Quick Liquidation.

Yesterday was the busiest day seen on the Stock Exchange since Dec. 16, which marked the culmination of the break following the Harriman decision. The total sales were 803,944 shares, or about 100,000 shares less than on the previous big day. As has been the case on nearly all of the good business days recently, the increased activity was at the expense of prices. When the market rallies a little orders fall off, and a small total is rolled up. It is only when the report has gone abroad that the market is weak that the customers' rooms begin to fill up. Traders who picked the bottom of the downward movement in December revised their opinions two or three times. The "January rise" will have to be stricken from the Wall Street almanac if the market does not turn soon.

The Stocks That Suffered.

While the whole list of stocks was weak yesterday, many of the issues declined only in sympathy with the heaviness in Copper and Steel. The specialties are frequently the innocent victims of market troubles, from which they would seem to have the right to consider themselves immune. A man who has to sell a hundred shares of some rather inactive specialty to protect his position in other stocks may see his shares taken at two or three points below the previous quotation. The heaviest trading yesterday was in United States Steel. The opening quotation was 63⅞@64 for 10,000 shares. In the first two hours sales of Steel alone totaled 99,900 shares, while in the next two hours transactions totaled 161,100 shares. This single issue had a total of 246,200 shares out of yesterday's total transactions, or more than one-fourth. Steel sold down to 61⅝, its lowest point in nearly a year, and closed with a net loss of 2⅛ in spite of a recovery to 62 in the last few minutes. Amalgamated Copper was less fortunate, and showed no rallying power at the close. Its last price was 70⅞, the low for the day. Copper has declined an average of two points a day since its close last Thursday.

Drop in Special Issues.

The trading in some of the specialties was in very small volume, but that did not prevent a severe break in prices. American Tobacco sold down 12 points from 288, its opening quotation, and closed with a net loss of 9 points on sales of 3,700 shares. On less than 500 shares National Biscuit lost 5 points, while New York Air Brake, with 300 shares changing hands, declined 5¾. Pacific Mail lost 3 1-3, and Pacific Telephone 4 points. Sears-Roebuck dropped 5 points, closing at 201, and P. Lorillard declined 7¾. Bethlehem Steel preferred declined 3 points. Most of these issues have a way of skipping past the fractions when they go either up or down.

Confusion in Copper Trade.

Although Monday's reduction in the price of copper was not followed by any further break in the quotations made by the big dealers yesterday, the situation did not clear perceptibly, and the American purchasers still showed a disposition to withhold their orders until they could be certain that prices were near the bottom. The battle ground between the copper agencies is at London, where the American Smelting and Refining Company, Phelps, Dodge & Co., and the United Metals Selling Company are said to be holding out for 17¼ cents a pound, although other smaller agencies are taking orders at less than that figure. It was predicted yesterday that electrolytic copper would sell in this market at 16½, or possibly as low as 16 cents, as against the price of 17¾ which was being obtained by the larger dealers until this week. With that possibility in view, it is not strange, perhaps, that consumers are less willing to meet their needs with metal at 17¼ or 17 cents a pound than they were a few days ago, when copper could not be bought in large quantities for less than 17¾. The copper market has gone back to the competitive conditions which prevailed before an agreement to hold out for a uniform price was reached last June.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Standard Oil Advances Sharply, but the Tobacco and Copper Issues Suffer Losses.

Activity in the outside security market yesterday was confined principally to the Tobacco and Copper issues and Standard Oil. The last named was a notable exception to the general downward trend of prices that marked the day's trading, and at the close was 4 points above Monday evening's quotation, while at one time in the earlier dealings its price represented a gain of a dozen points. Its final figures were 426, as against a high point for the day of 434. United Cigar Stores receded from 106¼ at the opening to 105, closing at 105⅛, a net loss of 1⅜ points, as compared with Monday night. Tobacco Products preferred fell off 3⅝ points, to 93½. Among the Copper issues the losses were confined to fractions. In the bond list the convertible 4½ per cent. issues of the American Telephone and Telegraph and Baltimore & Ohio were the active features.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

All Show Weakness and American Shares Suffer—War Situation a Cause of Decline.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 15.—The Times in its City article to-day will say:

"The terms for day-to-day advances were a shade lower than on Monday. Those for all fixtures were unaltered. Business was generally quiet. The discount rates were well supported and a shade higher for two months' paper. Three months' bills were in fair supply. The leading Continental exchanges moved against London.

"On the Stock Exchange at the opening a fairly cheerful tone prevailed in most departments, but at the close the tone was decidedly weak on the latest news regarding the foreign political situation. Consols relapsed rather sharply. The American market reacted at the close.

"Business in National Telephone stock was on a much smaller scale than on the previous day, and the net result of the day's transactions was to leave the price a further 5 points lower. The firmness of some of the principal foreign railway stocks was a welcome exception to the prevailing dullness. At the mining end of the house there was a further appreciable fall of the leading copper shares."

PARIS, Jan. 14.—Prices on the Bourse to-day opened firm, but later reacted and closed weak. Three per cent. rentes, 89f 15c for the account.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—Prices generally were weak on the Boerse to-day. Canadian Pacific declined two points.

Why Not 6 Per Cent?

You can get it without any undue risk of your principal by investing in the 5-year 6% Notes of one of the Public Utility companies that we control and operate. All the facts about them right down to date are yours for the asking. They will convince you that your funds will be safe and your income steady.

We have devoted years of our experience as bankers and engineers and a large amount of our own money to building up those companies, and the results have justified our judgment. Let us tell you about these securities.

Write for Circular.

Three Year Five Per Cent. Mortgage Notes

Dated September 2, 1912 Due September 1, 1915

Interest Coupons payable March 1 and September 1, in New York

Callable as a whole on any interest date at 102½ and accrued interest.

The Notes are secured by the FIRST AND REFUNDING MORTGAGE of the Railroad Company, dated September 2, 1912, to BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, TRUSTEE, which Mortgage authorizes the issue of:

The above mentioned Notes, and a like amount of Bonds due 1962, reserved to redeem or retire such Notes $10,000,000
Bonds due 1962, reserved to refund the outstanding underlying bonds 50,000,000
Bonds due 1962, reserved for construction, equipment, additions and improvements 140,000,000
$200,000,000

Attention is invited to a letter of the President of the Railroad Company (a copy of which and of the map therein referred to will be furnished on application), and in particular to the following portions thereof:

"The Mortgage covers all the property of the Railroad Company of every kind and character, including 134 miles of main tracks and 345 miles of freight and passenger yards and sidings owned in fee by the Railroad Company; including also the leases mentioned below. (See map herewith.) The Mortgage is a FIRST LIEN on the clearing yard, etc., formerly owned by the Chicago Union Transfer Railway Company, (including land about 3½ miles long and one-half mile wide, located just outside the city limits and reached by the principal belt lines), such clearing yard, etc., having recently been acquired at an actual cost of $4,400,000, with a portion of the proceeds of the above mentioned Notes; and upon this clearing yard (and adjoining property now being acquired by the Railroad Company with another portion of the proceeds of the above mentioned Notes, and on which the Mortgage will be a FIRST LIEN) extensive improvements are to be made, which will give to the property sufficient capacity to accommodate all the railroad freight transfers at the City of Chicago, now amounting to approximately 10,000 freight cars a day.

"The station and terminal properties of the Railroad Company, including the so-called 'Dearborn Station,' and its tracks leading thereto, have for many years been used and are now being used, under 999 YEAR LEASES, for freight and passenger business by the following named companies, WHICH OWN ALL THE CAPITAL STOCK OF THE CHICAGO AND WESTERN INDIANA RAILROAD COMPANY, viz.:

Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad Company,
Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway Company,
Chicago & Erie Railroad Company,
Grand Trunk Western Railway Company,
Wabash Railroad Company.

[The letter then refers to a separate fifty-year exclusive lease to the Belt Railway Company of Chicago, dated November 1, 1912, covering the so-called "Belt Railway" division of the Railroad Company, and, referring to such last mentioned lessee, the letter continues:]

"The entire capital stock of such lessee is owned in equal portions by the following named companies:

Pennsylvania Company,
Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Company,
Illinois Central Railroad Company,
Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company,
Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company,
Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company of Indiana,
Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railroad Company,
Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad Company,
Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway Company,
Chicago & Erie Railroad Company,
Grand Trunk Western Railway Company,
Wabash Railroad Company.

"The Belt Railway Company of Chicago has granted to the above mentioned twelve railroad companies fifty-year non-exclusive trackage rights for the movement of freight trains over the 'Belt Railway,' the trackage agreement providing for an apportionment of rentals and expenses on basis of use.

"The annual fixed rentals payable by the Lessees of the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad Company either directly to that Company or to the Trustees of its mortgages,—exclusive of the taxes on its property which are also payable by its lessees,—aggregate $3,418,673.78, while the total annual interest requirements of the Company,—including the interest on the $10,000,000 of notes,—aggregate only $2,471,860. Under the terms of the respective leases, the fixed rentals will increase, as expenditures are made for additions and improvements, the increase covering the interest on all bonds that may be issued for such additions and improvements."

Subject to prior sale and change in price, we offer the unsold portion of the above notes at par and accrued interest.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Heavy selling carried prices downward on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Transactions totaled 98,495 shares, which represented the biggest day on the floor since Dec. 16 last. Commission houses handled a large volume of orders. Reaching of stop-loss limits added to the pressure of liquidation. Prices on the 9:30 o'clock opening call reflected overnight declines in most instances. After the call there was further weakness, but a sharp rally took place in the later forenoon. The market, however, gave way once more in the afternoon, and this selling movement continued to the close.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

A $2,000,000 Deal on Riverside Drive Involving the Wendolyn and Terrace Court Apartments — W. W. Astor Leases West Side Plot—Bronx, Brooklyn, and Suburban Sales.

The realty market was enlivened yesterday by a deal involving a trade of high-class Riverside Drive apartment houses, aggregating in value close to $2,000,000. The larger end of the deal was the Wendolyn apartment, a twelve-story building, on the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 100th Street, covering a plot 101.5 on the Drive by 150 on the street. It was sold by the West Side Construction Company, Jacob Axelrod, President, and has been held at $1,250,000.

The buyer was William T. Evans of the firm of Mills & Gibb. The transaction was negotiated by Slawson & Hobbs, and it is the second large investment deal made by the same brokers for Mr. Evans, the former transaction involving the twelve-story loft on the southwest corner of Fourth Avenue and Twentieth Street, purchased from Klein & Jackson, in which Mr. Evans gave in part payment his Montclair home.

In the present deal Mr. Evans gave in part payment the nine-story apartment house known as Terrace Court, on the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and Ninety-third Street, having a frontage of 145 feet on the Drive and 111 on the street. The Wendolyn apartment acquired by Mr. Evans covers a part of the old Furniss estate bought about four years ago and cut up into apartment plots and fully improved. Adjoining the Wendolyn to the east is the Dorlexa apartment house, on the south side of 100th Street, and which was also erected by Mr. Axelrod.

Will Oppose Unearned Increment Tax.

The Real Estate Board of Brokers, through its Taxation Committee, will be represented at the hearing before the Board of Estimate to-morrow when the report of the Commission of New Sources of City Revenue will be presented. David H. Clarkson, Chairman of the Taxation Committee, has appointed delegates to represent the board and oppose the recommendation that an unearned increment tax of 1 per cent. be levied on property. The Directors of the Allied Real Estate Interests will hold a meeting to-day to determine upon a course of action on the subject.

Buyer for 19th Street Loft.

The Lawyers Mortgage Company has sold to A. H. Landeker for investment 37 West Nineteenth Street, a seven-story loft, on a lot 25 by 92. The property, which is located between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, has been held at about $85,000.

Deal on West 48th Street.

Ames & Co. have sold for James Stanley the three lots 605, 607, 609 West Forty-eighth Street. The buyer is the 550 West Forty-fourth Company, which will build a stable on the lots at once.

Increases Heights Holding.

Constance B. Washington has sold to Louis I. Harris 620 St. Nicholas Avenue, a five-story single flat on lot 18.3 by 105.4 by irregular. Mr. Harris owns the adjoining houses, 614 to 618, and 622 St. Nicholas Avenue, and now controls a plot fronting 93.10 feet on St. Nicholas Avenue and 108.9 feet on 141st Street, at the southeast corner of those thoroughfares.

W. W. Astor Leases Plot.

John J. Gillen has leased from William Waldorf Astor a parcel of fourteen lots in the block bounded by Fourteenth and Fifteenth Streets, Ninth and Tenth Avenues. The plot fronts 250 feet on the north side of Fourteenth Street, about 125 feet west of Ninth Avenue, and five lots, 125 by 100, abutting on Fifteenth Street. The lease is for a term of twenty-one years, with the privilege of two similar renewals.

Plans are being prepared for the improvement of the entire property with market structure, three to six stories high. Several of these projected buildings have already been leased.

Loft in Proposed Civic Centre.

An important improvement in the proposed civic centre was announced yesterday by the U. T. Hungerford Brass and Copper Company, now at Pearl and Park Streets, which will improve the property at 486 to 492 Pearl Street with a twelve-story structure.

This property, which was acquired by the Hungerford company about six years ago through N. F. Walsh, has a frontage of about 94 feet and measures 137.3 feet in depth. The site is just east of the area now under condemnation for the new Court House.

Bronx Borough.

Duff & Brown Company have sold for Mary Tone to E. Elger a plot 133 by 100 on the east side of Pell Place, between 242d and 243d Streets.

Samuel Carrucci has sold the southwest corner of Crotona Avenue and 176th Street, a five-story new law tenement, on plot 50 by 100. The buyer, Fanny Jarmulowsky, gives in part payment a 40-acre farm at Cold Spring, N. Y. The exchange involves about $110,000. Heller & Sussman were the brokers in the trade.

In part payment for the nine-story loft 31 West Twentieth Street the Intercity Land and Securities Company give M. L. and C. Ernst 1,390 Franklin Avenue, a five-story flat on a plot 37.6 by 100 feet, 8 feet north of Jefferson Place. The loft sale was reported last week.

The Jerome Property Corporation has sold a lot on the south side of President Street, 180 feet west of Rogers Avenue, 25 by 126 to James Goodwin. Also 280-282 Fourteenth Street, two frame buildings on a plot 50 by 100, to a builder, who will improve with modern brick and stone apartment house.

The two story and basement frame dwelling 215 Lee Avenue, on a plot 16.8 by 90.8, has been sold by Arthur T. Weygant as broker to a client for occupancy.

M. C. O'Brien has sold for Mary Ball a lot 50 by 127.9½ on the south side of President Street, 375 feet east of Nostrand Avenue, to a builder for improvement. Also for the Eggers Estate, an irregular lot of 40 feet frontage and 127.9½ feet deep on the north side of President Street, 331 feet east of Nostrand Avenue, to a builder for improvement.

Hickey's restaurant property, at Fulton Street and Flatbush Avenue, has been sold to Max Kurzrok of the waist manufacturing firm of Kurzrok Bros. It is reported that the buyer paid $150,000 for the building and the good-will of the restaurant business, which will be discontinued to make room for a factory and salesroom for the new owner.

E. P. Gaillard has sold for the Bell Estate to E. L. Sawyer, eight acres at Pompton Junction. This land adjoins the Jersey Pink Quarry, recently acquired by the same party.

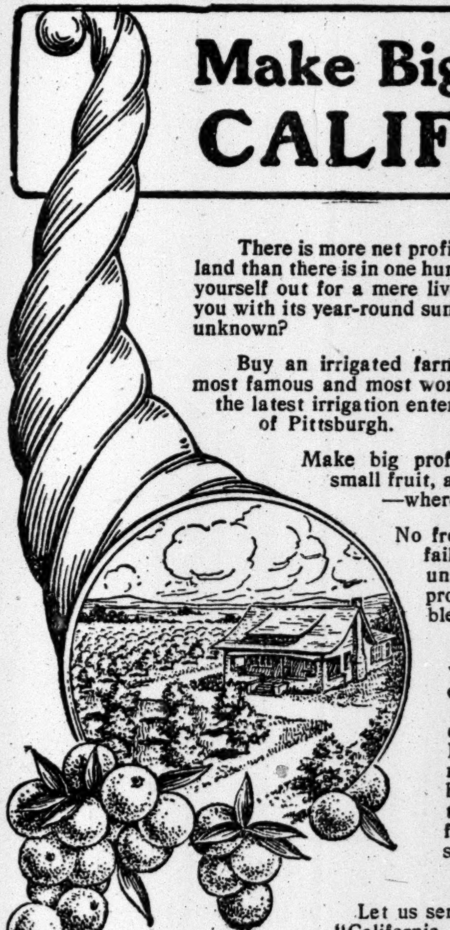
An investor has purchased from S. CALIFORNIA—FOR SALE. CALIFORNIA—FOR SALE.



Make Big Profits in CALIFORNIA

There is more net profit in 20 acres of California irrigated land than there is in one hundred acres in the East. Why wear yourself out for a mere living here when California beckons you with its year-round sunshine, and where crop failures are unknown?

Buy an irrigated farm in the Sacramento Valley, the most famous and most wonderful spot on this continent, on the latest irrigation enterprise built by the Kuhn interests of Pittsburgh.

Make big profits selling oranges, lemons and small fruit, and live where it never grows cold —where "bad luck" is unknown.

No frosts, no droughts, no snow, no failure. Crop succeeds crop with unfailing regularity, producing more profits with less labor than is possible in any other state in the Union.

Come to the Sacramento Valley, where oranges ripen six weeks earlier than in Los Angeles or Riverside. Come where the climate equals that of Southern Italy—where every man is his own master, and independent—where big money is being made—where the markets are near—the demand for products great—the income sure.

The terms of purchase are easy.

Let us send you the fine illustrated book, "California, Now or Never," telling all about it. Write for the book to-day —it gives you absolute proofs.

"FAR TOO GOOD A JEWEL FOR THE SETTING"

was the comment of a real estate man after inspection of our new and splendid mercantile building, we have just completed, at Nos. 155 to 159 Perry Street, between Washington and West Streets. The above would be the comment of nine out of ten real estate men. The presence, on low-priced land, in a locality which has lain dormant for years, of a high-class mercantile building, worthy of the finest location, would inspire the same remark. The fact is almost lost sight of that there are hundreds upon hundreds of New York business houses, who need the best type of modern buildings, but the character of business of which houses, necessitates and demands low rents. This Perry Street building fulfils the specifications for a high-grade building at a low rent, in fact, the

The annual rental is $11,000 NET for 55,000 square feet, which is at the rate of 20c. NET per square foot. Building is always open for inspection. The 8th Ave., 9th Ave., 8th St. Crosstown surface lines, and the Christopher St. stations of the 9th Ave. "L" and Hudson Tubes are nearby. James H. Cruikshank, owner, 50 Pine St. Tel. 2271 John.

LEGISLATURE RUSHES WILSON PROGRAMME

HIS MAN WINS TREASURY

Vote Is 5 to 42 in Caucus for Grosscup—Fielder Elected President of the Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 14.—The determination of both houses to reach adjournment before Gov. Wilson leaves New Jersey to become Chief Executive of the Nation was apparent to-day at the opening of the one hundred and thirty-seventh session of the State Legislature. The law-making machinery of the State passed from Republican to Democratic hands. The latter will have a majority of three in the Senate, while in the Assembly there are only eight Republicans to fifty-one Democrats. An adjournment was taken this afternoon until to-morrow. This is a precedent, for in previous years the Legislature has simply met for a few hours the first day and then adjourned until the following week.

When adjournment of the two houses was reached in the afternoon the Democratic members went into caucus and helped Gov. Wilson deal another crushing blow to the Smith-Nugent forces, who sought the election of State Controller Edward I. Edwards of Jersey City as State Treasurer. The Governor wanted State Chairman Edward E. Grosscup chosen. Before the meeting Edwards declared he had plenty of votes, but when the roll was called only five men gave him their support, the other forty-two casting their ballots for the Governor's favorite.

Organization was effected in the Senate by the election of James F. Fielder as President. Senator Walter E. Edge of Atlantic was nominated by Senator Read of Camden as the minority's choice.

Two of the big administration measures made their appearance in the Senate toward the close of the day, when President Fielder had introduced a bill amending the Public Utilities act to enable that board to order abolishing of grade crossings. Senator Edge of Atlantic fathered the Full Crew Railroad bill. It is the same as that of last year, with the exception that, if enacted, it will not become operative until July 4.

WILSON'S STATE MESSAGE.

Urges New Corporation Laws and Adoption of Federal Amendments.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 14.—President-elect Woodrow Wilson, in his capacity of Governor of New Jersey, sent his second annual message to the Legislature which convened to-day. It has his last formal appeal to the Legislature for the completion of the programme of progressive legislation for which he declared himself when he took office.

Foremost among the laws advocated are a radical revision of the statutes governing corporations, and better laws for drawing juries. The governor recommends the commission form of government for cities, and speaks strongly in favor of economy in the state administration. In conclusion he expresses the hope that New Jersey will ratify the constitutional amendments providing for a tax on incomes, and the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people. The Governor's message was written while he was in Bermuda.

At the outset of the document there is a personal note of regret at leaving New Jersey, and an expression of gratitude and obligation to those who stood by him in carrying out reforms. Almost without preface, however, the Governor calls attention to the laxity of the State's corporation laws. They notoriously stand in need of alteration, the Governor says. They are manifestly inconsistent with the interests of the people in the all-important matter of monopoly, and as they stand, far from checking monopoly, they actually encourage it. The whole country has set its face against this method of forming vast combinations and creating monopoly, Governor Wilson declares. "I am sure that the people of New Jersey," he continues, "do not dissent from the common judgment that our law must prevent these things and prevent them very effectually."

The Governor says the statutes of the State should be amended to provide some responsible official supervision of the whole process of incorporation and provide, in addition, salutary checks upon unwarranted and fictitious increases of capital. No legitimate business will be injured or harmfully restricted by such action. These matters affect the honor and good faith of the State and should be acted upon at once and with clear purpose.

After declaring that the State should enact legislation to protect its people from irresponsible persons who offer for sale securities of every sort, the Governor turned to the question of jury drawing. "The drawing of grand juries," he says, "and even upon occasion the drawing of petit juries, is notoriously subject to political influence and control in this State, and this can and should be remedied."

Continuing, the Governor points out reforms in the State's taxation system, and suggested that the Board of Public Utility Commissioners receive additional powers to eliminate dangerous grade railroad crossings in "a thoroughly practical fashion." The board, he urged, should also have power to require railroads to man their trains with adequate crews.

While commending the Legislature of 1911 for passing the act permitting cities and towns to adopt the commission form of government, the Governor urges a fuller extension of the system.

"The farmer has not been served as he might be," continues the Governor. "We have set up and sibsidized agricultural schools, horticultural schools, schools of poultry breeding, and the rest, and they have done excellent work. But a more effective way still has been found by which the farmer can be served. Lectures and schools and experimental farms attached to schools like laboratories are excellent but they cannot of themselves push their work home. Some States have gone much beyond this and we should follow them with zest."

The Governor gives a paragraph to conservation of the State's natural resources and adds that if a few men had spoken out what they knew at the last session, the bill for the settlement of the Morris canal dispute would have been passed.

EXPLOSION FOLLOWS SUICIDE

Woman and Policeman Hurt in Gas-Filled Rooms—Tenants Frightened.

Patrick Reilly of 252 West 148th Street, a patrolman attached to the West 125th Street station, and Mrs. Morris Slifkin of 1,483 Amsterdam Avenue, were burned and bruised as a result of an explosion of gas in Mrs. Slifkin's rooms late last night. Despite the policeman's warning not to light a match in the gas filled rooms where her husband lay dead on a bed, a suicide, Mrs. Slifkin struck a light. Reilly was blown against a wall, and the woman to the floor.

Reilly was hurried to the J. Hood Wright Hospital. The woman remained at home, after relatives arrived.

Morris Slifkin, the suicide, had worked as a laundryman and had been despondent. Gas from a large range was escaping when the policeman got into the room. A fully loaded five-chambered revolver was found on the floor by a fireman after a blaze in the bed and bedroom where the suicide lay had been extinguished.

Gas was escaping when Mrs. Slifkin got home, and she called Policeman Reilly in her alarm.

"Don't light a match in here," Reilly cried. "Don't—"

But the hysterical woman did not hear the warning, for in another instant the match was lighted and there was a terrific explosion.

When she had struggled to her feet and stumbled through the rooms a burst of flame in the bedroom where Morris Slifkin lay showed her what had happened in her absence, and she fell to the floor, this time in a faint.

The explosion attracted hundreds to the place, and every one in the house was aroused. There was a rush to get outdoors.

STOLE TO BUY CLOTHES.

Girl Who Earned Only $5 a Week Tried to Make Crime Pay Better.

Detectives Cassassa and McKenna, who made reputations some years ago by catching pickpockets, were recalled from the Bronx yesterday, whither Police Commissioner Waldo had sent them because of the many complaints of pickpockets from the Sixth Avenue shopping district. At Eighteenth Street and Sixth Avenue yesterday afternoon they noticed a young girl jostling women shoppers. They saw her open several handbags swung carelessly by other women, and when she entered the 'bus which carries patrons of one of the stores to the Eighteenth Street subway station and the Third Avenue elevated station in the same street they followed.

On the uptown elevated station, they said, the girl opened another handbag. Cassassa went up to the woman, whose purse had been taken, and told her of her loss. The theft had been done so stealthily that the woman was not aware her purse was gone. In it, she said, had been 66 cents.

The detectives arrested the girl and say they found the pocketbook in her possession. They took her to the Elizabeth Street Station, where she said she was Bessie Gartenberg, 18 years old of 1,628 Washington Avenue, the Bronx. According to the police she broke down and confessed that she had been picking pockets since shortly before Christmas. Until then she had been a cigarette trimmer, but had earned only $5 a week, and all of this had gone to her parents, who had four other children. She had no money for clothes and so had taken to stealing.

The woman whom she robbed yesterday was Mrs. Fannie Harris of 201 Brown Place, the Bronx, and on her complaint Bessie was locked up.

SAYS SHE WAS KIDNAPPED.

Philadelphia Girl Tells Strange Story at Uncle's Home in Brooklyn.

Hiram Oxley of Tacony, a suburb of Philadelphia, arrived at the home of his brother, William Oxley, at 4,910 Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon to take his daughter, Elinor, 15 years old, back home. The father had been almost frantic with worry until a telegram from his brother told him that his daughter was with her uncle.

Apparently the girl was kidnapped from Philadelphia early yesterday morning, though her kidnappers allowed her to travel alone and did not molest her. She escaped them in the railroad station at Jersey City.

Miss Oxley had been a student in a business college in Philadelphia and on last Saturday answered an advertisement for a stenographer. She was told to report for work Monday morning. She said nothing to her parents, whom she wished to surprise with her first week's salary.

Two men met her as she awaited a trolley car, grabbed her, showed her revolvers, and told her she must accompany them to New York. They put a handkerchief under her nose and some drug on it dazed her, though it did not make her unconscious. Then they gave her $2.05 with which to pay her fare, so the girl later told her uncle, and put her on a train for New York. They boarded the same train, but kept away from her. She was too bewildered to think of seeking help on the train.

In Jersey City one of the men left and the girl eluding the other, told a porter of her experience, and by him was assisted to a ferryboat, landed in Manhattan and started on her way to her uncle's. The police got a description of the two men.

COST OF LIVING HITS ZOO.

Zoological Society Just Managed to Pinch Through on $230,365.

The nineteenth annual meeting of the New York Zoological Society was held in the Grand Ball Room of the Waldorf-Astoria last night, and more than 1,000 members and their friends were present. Madison Grant, Chairman of the Executive Committee, presented its report, and announced the receipt of these subscriptions to the Endowment Fund: Edward S. Harkness, $5,000; Estate of Edward Russ, $5,000; Life Membership fees, $2,800.

The high cost of living affected not only the people of New York, but the animals of Bronx Park, as well, and it was only by rigid economy, according to the report, that the society was able to make both ends meet with the $182,365 provided by the city for their maintenance. The increasing cost of living also affected the fish in the Aquarium, but nevertheless the city's appropriation of $48,000 proved sufficient. The society hopes to receive money from the city for a much needed quarantine and hospital, pheasant flying cage, pigmy hippopotamus tank, and miscellaneous improvements.

The general health of the animals in Bronx Park, according to the report, has continued extremely good, and the losses during the year have been nominal. The census of the animals on Jan. 1, 1913, shows that there 689 mammals representing 210 species in the collection; 3,038 birds of 903 species, and 1,100 reptiles and amphibians of 135 species, making a total of 4,827 specimens and 1,248 species.
